James L. (Jim) Campbell

James L. (Jim) Campbell, age 79, passed away peacefully after an extended illness at Barrett Hospital on February 28, 2026. Born in Dillon, Big Jim was a lifelong resident of Beaverhead County. He graduated from Beaverhead County High School in 1964, where he was a standout football and basketball player. He later attended Montana Western.

His lifelong passion was rodeo, and he was wellknown in the rodeo community, as well as the ranching and agricultural communities of Beaverhead County.

Jim was preceded in death by his mother, Margaret (Muggs) Carpita and father, Donald (Bud) Campbell.

He is survived by his three brothers, Don (Barbara Chaffin), Ed (Susan Taylor), and Bob (Cara Pendleton), as well as several nieces and nephews.

A special thanks goes out to his caregivers and friends, Christy Flintoff, Kay Gaines, Marie Holt, and Cody Brown, and also to the wonderful, caring doctors, nurses, and staff at Barrett Hospital. At Jim's request, there will be no service.

Arthur Louis Adams, 80

Arthur Louis Adams, 80, of Dillon, MT, passed away January 24th, 2026 at Barrett Hospital. Arthur "Art" was born January 1st 1946 in Los Angeles, CA to Gerard and Maria(Duarte) Adams. Art grew up in Burbank, CA where he attended private school. After graduation from Bellarmine-Jefferson high school he pursued and excelled sports in --- college. He started training at St. John's Seminary but after a short time in 1965 he joined the Marine Corps out of a sense of duty that defined his life.

Art was a "provider" in every sense of the word. To raise his daughter Tonya as a baby, he worked tirelessly in sales, taking on any challenge, including MLM, ensuring his family was cared for. It was during his 25 year career at Homeowners Marketing that he met his late wife, Kimberly. Their life together started with a bold claim from Art; "You owe me a date" to which Kim famously replied, "You're on!"

In the final, vibrant chapter of Art and Kims life the couple retired to Montana, where Art fell in love with the Klondike. So rather than slowing down, he bought the place. For five years Art turned the Klondike into a community hub, hosting Safe driving nights on New Years Eve and organizing golf

Free Community Presentation on Cyber Safety with FBI Outreach Specialist

Community members are invited to attend a free public presentation on cyber safety & fraud prevention on Tuesday, March 31, from 7-8 pm in the STC Great Rm at the University of Montana Western.

Rebecca Leary, Community Outreach Specialist with the Federal Bureau of Investigation, will present "Cyber Safety: Protect Yourself Against Exploitation, Fraud, and Scams." The session will focus on recognizing online exploitation, financial fraud, and common scams affecting individuals and families.

Attendees will learn practical strategies to safeguard personal information, identify red flags, and respond effectively if they or someone they know becomes a victim.

Cybercrime continues to evolve, impacting people of all ages and backgrounds. This presentation is designed to empower community members with the knowledge and tools needed to stay safe in an increasingly digital world.

"Education is key to protecting your families and communities from becoming victims of crime and fraud. Take the time to prevent the crime," says Rebecca Leary, FBI.

The event is free and open to the public.

The presentation is hosted in partnership with the Women's Resource Center (WRC), a nonprofit organization serving Beaverhead and Madison Counties with free and confidential services for survivors of domestic and sexual violence. The WRC extends sincere appreciation to the University of Montana Western for generously providing the STC Great Room to make this community education opportunity possible.

For information about the event or the services offered by the WRC, contact (406) 683-6106 or email Izzi Simonsen at izzis@wrcmt.org.

Start to Harvest

Weekly Good Food Network Garden Notes

As March progresses and the ground begins to thaw, start watching for chances to plant outdoors. Only plant when soil is workable (not frozen or overly wet).

Check seedling lighting:

- Keep grow lights 2–3 inches above plants
- Provide 14–16 hours of light daily

Pot up leggy seedlings:

- Transplant into larger containers
- Bury stems slightly deeper for strength

Begin hardening off (on mild days):

- Set plants outside for short periods
- Protect from wind and freezing temps

Direct sow early cool-season crops:

- Peas
- Spinach
- Radishes

These crops prefer cool soil conditions. Planting early often leads to better results than waiting too long.

Prep garden beds:

- Clear large debris
- Add compost to thawed soil

Changes for shed antler hunting in 2026

The 2025 Montana Legislature passed a law that does two things. It establishes a $50 nonresident shed hunting license for Montana's Wildlife Management Areas (WMA), and it prohibits nonresidents from picking up antlers on WMAs for the first seven days they are open in the spring. The new law doesn't impact resident shed antler hunters or nonresident shed antler hunters who are not on a WMA.

Cadence Brown Represents Montana at National YF&R Competition

Cadence Brown, a third-year student at the University of Montana Western who will graduate this fall, recently represented Montana at the national level after winning the state Farm Bureau Young Farmers & Ranchers (YF&R) Discussion Meet. Brown is majoring in business with a minor in equine studies and has developed strong skills in public speaking and agricultural advocacy during her time at Montana Western.

Brown first competed in the collegiate-level discussion meet last year. After earning the state title, she advanced to the national competition—an opportunity typically reserved for first-time collegiate winners. This year, she advanced to the YF&R Discussion Meet open to members ages 18–35. She again won at the state level and qualified for nationals for a second time.

At the state competition, Brown focused her discussion on the challenges posed by urban sprawl and the loss of agricultural land. Having grown up in the Gallatin Valley, she witnessed firsthand the rapid growth reshaping the Bozeman area.

“We want our communities to grow & thrive,” Brown said, “but at the same time, if the food supply is in danger, that’s national security.”

The national competition was held in Anaheim, California, where Brown advanced to the “Sweet 16,” placing among the top 16 competitors in the country.

Brown attributes much of her success to her academic experience and involvement with Montana Western’s YF&R chapter. “I don’t think I ever would have found Farm Bureau or discussion meet without Western,” she said.

Although she does not come from a farm or ranching background, Brown said Farm Bureau and YF&R provided an opportunity to deepen her understanding of agriculture while building community connections. “I did 4-H and FFA growing up and really liked that environment,” she said.

Through Montana Western and YF&R, Brown has strengthened her leadership, networking, and public speaking skills while forming lasting professional relationships.

Brown is the first Montana Western student to compete in the adult-level YF&R Farm Bureau Discussion Meet. She said the achievement reflects both her commitment to agriculture and the support she has received from the Montana Western and Dillon communities. Brown said the knowledge, connections, and experience gained at Montana Western will continue to guide her future endeavors.

Veteran's Corner Update #350

By Mike Lawson

Veteran News Updates:

- The news of our attacking Iran was a jolt to the American people whether we agreed with it or not. The loss of some of our military personal is of deep sadness and sorrow to their families. At this point it is a big unknown as to where it will go or end. Having been a Vietnam combat veteran for two tours, my heart and concern is for our military personal. Putting them in harms way is of deep concern and justification for it should be on rock solid ground. Let's hope peaceful solutions can be found without more military and civilian loss of lives.

- The unhealthy use of opioids can be life-threatening. The risk of death by suicide is 13 times higher in people with opioid use disorder than in those without it. It should never be used without medical supervision or in higher doses or with greater frequency than prescribed. Many times it can damage relationships, school and work performance, and health. Treatment for opioid disorder can lead to recovery, no matter who you are. For Veterans, the VA offers life-saving, evidence-based medications for opioid use disorder that are proven to be effective for most people. This is available at your local VA medical center or clinic.

- Everyone has a certain amount of anxiety in their lives and it's not all bad and doesn't last long. But when it's persistent and affects your every-day activities, your work, your sleep and your relationships, it's probably time to consider doing something about it. It's said that almost one-third of adults will experience some form of distressing anxiety at some point in their lifetime. The VA can and does treat anxiety. Don't try and deal with it by yourself but learn some positive proven methods to overcome this problem.

- On April 14th there will be a Southwest Montana Veterans Resource Fair, which will be in Butte at the American Legion Post #1, 3201 Wynn Ave. Many Veteran service providers will be there and lunch will be served. This is a great opportunity for any Veteran to get help and information.
