CHARLOTTE ANN SCOFIELD

February 1, 1949, March 19, 2013

Mom, Grandma or Charlotte to almost everyone in her adult life, she was always Charlie to some... she was an important part of many children's lives in Big Piney, Wyoming and Dillon Montana, for the better part of 64 years.

Charlotte was born on February 1, 1949 at the old Barrett Memorial Hospital in Dillon, Montana to James and Betty Scofield.

She attended elementary school in Dillon, graduated from high school in Twin Bridges Montana, and received her BS in Elementary Education and remedial reading degree from the University of Wyoming in Laramie. Later in her career she attended the University of Montana Eastern in Billings receiving her Masters Degree in Special Education. Her love of working with children found her in Dillon Montana for many years, working in different schools in the Beaverhead and Big Hole Valleys.

Charlotte was married to Eric Mickelson of Big Piney Wyoming; they have two children, Rowdy Mickelson also of Big Piney, Wyoming and Jenny Mickelson of Dillon, Montana. The love of Charlottes life are Alyson and Isaac Mickelson her loving grandchildren. She is survived by numerous family and friends in many communities.

Services will be held on Saturday March 23th, 10:00 AM at the Lutheran Church with burial following at Mountain View Cemetery, Dillon Montana.

JAYCEE OUTSTANDING YOUNG MAN

The 2012 winner of the Jaycee Outstanding Young Man award is Jack Bergeson. Jack is a man of integrity and thoughtfulness who possesses and exhibits a strong work ethic at all times.

Jack is employed at Montana Energy Alliance. He has an automotive degree from WyoTech and a Bachelors degree in Business Administration from UMW. While in college, he was an active member of the UMW Bulldogs rodeo team. Steer Wrestling is his passion. He was known to be the one pushing cows and getting covered in cow poop just so others on his team could practice. He drove school bus before and after class and worked at Quality Supply (now Murdochs). He was also the Janitor at the Mary Innes while going to school.

Jack was a member of the Beaverhead County Search and Rescue and is a third generation firefighter. He is a member of the Dillon Jaycees and currently serves as the Rodeo Chairman. He is involved with every aspect of the program. He is a past Rodeo Chairman, Concert Chairman, Demo Derby Chairman as well as being involved with every event and work party that he is able to attend. He drives the school bus for the Little Skiers Program and he also helps out at the mountain with the equipment. He has such a passion for the organization, regardless of whose job it is, that he takes each challenge as his own responsibility and follows through until it is resolved. He is the first one to volunteer to help with whatever project is at hand. He is an outstanding person and would do anything for anyone. He is a great husband and father to his wife and two beautiful children.

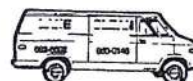

JAYCEE DISTINGUISHED AWARD

Jim Hagenbarth was born in 1948 and raised in Beaverhead County. His K-12 education was in Dillon. He graduated high school in 1967. He graduated from the University of Notre Dame with a bachelors in business management in 1971. He and Laurie Garry were married in 1974. The have raised three children, Marc, John, and Kate. His family has been ranching here since the late 1800's. Agriculture and responsible resource management have always been his passion.

Beaverhead County's ag resource and the production it provides is and has always been a cornerstone of this community both socially and economically. Protecting this is one of Jim's main priorities.

Jim has been very active in the Bighole Watershed Committee since its early days. This group is a consensus based group with representatives of all interests at the table. It works through issues to come up with solutions and manage the river. It has become a national model and is successful in creating cooperation between all interests and preventing much litigation.

Jim spent much time studying and testifying to the state land board on the proposed grazing fee increase. This issue will be felt by almost every livestock producer in the county. He has made countless trips to Helena to testify on livestock and agriculture issues as well as lobbying for funds in Washington D. C. for the Bighole Watershed Committee.

For the past twenty years Jim has been extremely involved in the disease brucellosis involving bison and elk and there interaction with cattle.

Jim has also worked extensively with the sage grouse issue and risks to public land management associated with it.

He is an active and participating member of the Southwest Montana Stockmen's Association, Montana Stockmen's Association and the NCBA (National Cattle and Beef Association). He was a 12 year member of the Montana Board of Livestock and chairmen for 2 years. Jim spent 8 years on the National Cattle Fax Board and president for 1 year. He also is involved in the Idaho Stockgrowers associations as the family business spends summer and fall months in Idaho as well as Montana.

Outside of the livestock business Jim is very involved in the Catholic Church. There he has been an active member on the Parish Council, Finance Council and the Knights of Columbus. Hagenbarth Livestock just held its annual charity pheasant hunt on their shooting preserve in Glen. This year's proceeds are being sent to the Humane Society of Dillon..

As Jim recounts many years of adversity and differences of opinion, he puts much credence in the consensus system. "It is time to stop fighting, with each side claiming to be right, and find solutions."

UMW EDUCATION CLASS REFLECTS ON SERVICE LEARNING TRIP TO PERU

Although University of Montana Western sophomore Jess Lammi recently volunteered her time and energy helping elderly citizens of a poverty-stricken suburb of Lima, Peru, the elementary education major/literacy minor says she received far more than she gave.

"They were so happy to see us," Lammi recalls. "They were grateful for everything we did, as little as it was. As a class, we all discussed how we got more out of it than we could have ever given."

Lammi went to Peru as part of UMW Assistant Professor of Education Dana Cotton's Global Education in Latin America class. She was one of nine participants, mostly UMW students, who traveled to Peru in February 2013 as part of the service learning course.

In addition to the obvious benefits of cultural exposure for her students, Cotton says her main focus was using the opportunity to engage students in service learning work.

The class arrived in the capitol city and began their work in Villa El Salvador, a densely populated urban district of Lima. Villa El Salvador originally formed from a large influx of families from the Peruvian highlands in 1971. The military relocated the citizens in an expansive desert area outside of the city, but the community eventually evolved into a large, incorporated district of Lima although major poverty still persists there.

Working with a U.S.-based non-profit, Cotton arranged for the participants to work on two projects within Villa El Salvador: an after-school program and tutoring center for low-income families and a center designed to provide basic needs to the elderly.

Meghan Flanary, an elementary education/literacy minor from Eureka, Mont., worked in the after-school program. The program primarily assists families who can't afford child care. Flanary and her colleagues worked in the program's classrooms helping children with conversational English, painting and recreational sports. They also helped in the kitchen making meals from scratch. Nutrition was a major emphasis for the participants, who worked every day to make sure children got enough to eat. For some of the children, it might have been their only meal of the day.

Flanary says the language barrier and lack of teaching materials was difficult but provided a unique challenge that informed her own education.

While Flanary and several other participants assisted at the after-school program, across the district Lammi and her colleagues were busy at the senior center helping to make meals from scratch, joining the seniors in traditional Peruvian dances, visiting local markets and also making home visits.

"They were just happy to have someone to interact with," Lammi says. "Many of the seniors were illiterate, and it made me realize how important education is overall for any age."

When their respective service learning projects were over the class was able to get in a bit of sightseeing as well, venturing to the ancient Incan ruins of Machu Picchu, Cusco and Saqsaywaman.

Upon their return, the class presented on their travels to the Montana Western campus. Cotton says the trip was a success.
