WELBORN'S WEEKLY LEGISLATIVE REVIEW

Montana's Legislature reached Day 68 of its official 90-day session on Good Friday, so in theory, we will be finished in April. The long and short of it is, there is plenty of work remaining in the final 20 days of the session, so this week I will highlight a few of the major pieces of legislation still working their way through the process. I will also say that when we as a Legislature meets in Helena, there are always some letdowns. In short, nobody usually leaves a session completely satisfied.

Part of the challenge with analyzing the Legislature is there are so many issues being kicked around, and so many moving parts, it's difficult at best to keep track of them all. I will share some perspective on a few key pieces of legislation and how their outcomes can potentially affect all Montanans.

One issue on its way to being settled is a pay raise that most people agree state workers deserve. Instead of a 5 percent pay raise for all state employees, including the ones that have already received sizable increases, we have appropriated a lump sum of cash, and then directed Gov. Steve Bullock to figure out how to distribute it equitably.

It's not a completely tidy solution, but it's better than no raise, which is what most state employees received the last four years, and if the Governor does what is asked of him, he will see to it that those workers that haven't gotten a raise at all in recent years, will be the first in line for a fair increase to their salaries.

I also feel that we in the House has made a sensible choice in opting for the governor's plan to fix underfunded state pension plans, by trimming benefits, and asking employees and agencies to chip in more to keep the fund solvent. Some of my Republican colleagues including myself would like to shift new hires to a 401(k)-style plan, but the fact is that costs during the transition period would have been too immense to shoulder right now.

Completely shifting gears, a midweek vote to table expansion of the federal Medicaid health insurance program in Montana in favor doing nothing came as an unwelcome surprise. Education funding, state workers pay plans, retirement funding, jobs and natural resource development are all very important issues that we continue to work on as the session winds down, but medical reform/ medicaid expansion is probably the most important discussion we must continue to have. If there is a more important bill in the Montana Legislature, with the far reaching effects on everyone that I represent, then I'm not aware of it.

I feel very strongly that medical reform, that is both accountable to the tax paying public, and meets the challenges faced by the critical access hospitals and small town doctors across our state, is a conversation that needs to continue. The federal government would pay all but about $5 million of the costs of the program for two years, giving an estimated 70,000 more Montanans access to health care that is needed. The legislation would mean more jobs and benefit tens of thousands of hard-working Montanans and their families, and might help reduce the very wasteful use of hospital emergency rooms by people who have nowhere else to go.

The Affordable Care Act, better known as Obamacare, has become so highly politicized that it's not a stretch to think that many voted against Medicaid expansion as a display of being a tight fisted conservative. I agree that we need to make sure we make that we roll out a plan that is sustainable and that we can continue into the future in a responsible manner, but I will say it again, let's keep the discussion alive and not kick the can down the road and study this for another two years. I say let's move ahead with the debate and roll out a medical reform package that will insure more Montanans get the coverage they need and in a way that our small hospitals aren't on the hook when folks can't pay for their needed care, and end up in the emergency room in place of having a primary care provider.

Many of my legislative colleagues would do well to look at what several other red states with Republican legislative majorities or GOP governors have done with the Medicaid expansion option. For example, conservative Republican governors Jan Brewer of Arizona, Rick Scott of Florida, Rick Snyder of Michigan and Chris Christie of New Jersey came out in favor of Medicaid expansion, even if they have no great love for Obamacare. Others included GOP governors Jack Dalrymple of North Dakota and John Kasich of Ohio.

Among those backing the expansion are Montana business leaders, hospitals, church organizations, and I have also heard from folks in every socio-economic class on this issue, all saying that we need to move forward with a plan, whatever it may be. In addition, the board of directors of the Montana Chamber of Commerce endorsed Medicaid expansion last week as long as it's done responsibly.

With all the big financial and social questions remaining in this session, there is plenty of good work still to do.

I can only promise one thing, you have put your trust in me to represent each of you in the most thoughtful manner, I will continue to do just that. Making political statements by taking un-thoughtful votes, and hollow positions to only study an issue of this magnitude is not something I will support. Instead, my vote will be to actually do something about it by having productive dialogue on a plan that will work for Montana, whatever that may be.

I don't want to look back on this session knowing that I didn't work hard toward bipartisan and pragmatic approaches on all the major issues this legislature faces. I will close by saying that Montanans healthcare is too important to turn our backs on, and not at the very least, know that some of us have worked very hard to roll out a plan that will be sustainable, keep our citizens healthy, and keep our hospitals financially secure

Prisoner Of War Recognition Day.

This day is usually held on the 9th of April of each year.

On April 9th 1942 Bataan Falls to the Japanese. This date was to become a day that we would Recognition the Living Prisoner Of War for ALL Former Prisoners of War. It is now 2013 and there are not too many still living of whom have been held Prisoner Of War by a hostile force. Due to the lack of Funds, We now wait until sometime around the 17th of September to remember those of whom were POW/MIA. Please take the time to remember the families that had and or have a member that was a Former Prisoner Of War.

SUMMER BASKETBALL & VOLLEYBALL

A basketball and volleyball skills camp will be available this summer for girls and boys entering grades 1St thru 6th at the New Parkview Gym. Basketball skills will be offered Tuesdays and Thursdays starting June and will end mid August for grades 1 thru 6. Basketball will be broken into two groups – 1st thru 3rd 10 am - 12 pm for grades 3rd thru 6th June thru mid August. Other arrangement can be made for older age groups.

Sign up forms will be available around town early April with an entry deadline of May 20th. Each child will receive a basketball and/or volleyball. Sibling discountrs will be available along with a discount for signing up for both camps. Prices for the camps are as follows: Basketball $125, volleyball $50, both together is $150 (sibling discount of $20). Partial proceeds will be donated back to the Parkview Elementary to help purchase new playground equipment.

My goal is to get the younger kids up and moving throughout the summer along with gaining their interests early on in basketball and volleyball. Both camps will fully concentrate on teaching your children the fundamentals of each sport. If you have any questions please contact Bobbi Konen at 491-4215. Thanks and hope to see you this summer!

COLORING CONTEST WINNERS ANNOUNCED

The winners of the 2013 Bannack coloring contest have been selected. In the 5 years old and under category Winston McKee is the winner. In the 6 through 9 year-old category the winner isMariah Skradski. And in the 10 and up age group Forest Wagoner is the winner. The winners will receive a free gold bulb. The winning entries will be on display at the Dillon Tribune and winners may pick up their prizes there. Congratulations to all of the contestants. Although the skating season was short this year, we had some really great entries that made judging difficult. Our thanks to all those folks who came out to Bannack to go ice-skating and to all those kids that entered the coloring contest.

Spring has arrived and the park is now open from 8am until dusk everyday. This is a great time to visit the park, no crowds, the birds have returned and everything is greening up! If you would like more information please call the park at 834-3413.

Area businesses are invited to attend the Montana Superhost state-wide customer service workshop, "Rockin' to the Rhythm of Service." Sponsored by the Montana Department of Commerce's Office of Tourism's Montana Superhost Program and Flathead Valley Community College, this customer service training program is designed for Montana hospitality providers. Threaded with tourism based videos and resources, the program aims to give participants a new perspective, tool, or resource they can use to elevate their level of customer service and interpersonal skills within their business and to create the most effective interaction for each unique visitor or customer they serve.

Business owners and customer service providers are invited to attend this free seminar, "Rockin' to the Rhythm of Service", at the Beaverhead Chamber Building, 10 W. Reeder St. in Dillon on Wednesday, April 10, from 5 to 8 p.m. Attendees can pre-register by contacting session host Jamie Cottom at 406.683.5511.

Seminar trainer Becky Henne is a dynamic facilitator who will offer new ideas on key service concepts through the introduction of useful resources, facilitation of relevant activities, and prompting of thoughtful discussions. With strong connections to the Montana tourism industry, her service examples and suggestions will provide practical skills and tips which can be put to use immediately following the session.

"Rockin' to the Rhythm of Service" will focus on what businesses need to do to get rave reviews from customers and how to keep them returning time and time again. Similar to how a band performs to achieve a standing ovation, the seminar will focus specifically on training businesses to consistently achieve standing ovation worthy moments by:

· Coming to perform – Be prepared: Focus on your mission, clarify your role, and expand your knowledge.

· Building Your Stage – Set the tone with your customers: Get to the point, read your customer, and listen uniquely.

· Connecting With Your Audience – Selling is a benefit: Reveal your authentic style, master storytelling skills, and sell naturally.

· Practicing For the Improv – Handling the unexpected: Adjust your perspective, identify conflict triggers, lead through conflict, and try it out.

Participants are encouraged to bring brochures, flyers, or information to share about area businesses and attractions. Each attendee will receive a certificate of completion. For anyone unable to attend "Rockin' to the Rhythm of Service," a free online, self-paced program, "Passport to Service," also is available. For more details, visit montanasuperhost.com.

MEDICAID EXPANDS IN MONTANA

The bill to expand Medicaid in Montana passed the Senate with a narrow margin Tuesday. Five Republicans along with the Senate Democrats voted to expand although the Republicans say they are not for expansion but a way to extend affordable health coverage to the poor and they need this bill as a way to do that. The bill has another vote to pass before it is moved on to the House.

The House however has not gone along with the similar proposal that Gov. Steve Bullock had to expand Medicaid.
