Helen "Marie" Hileman, 80

Helen "Marie" Hileman, 80, died December 16, 2013. Marie was born November 9, 1933 on the family farm in Gilltownship, Kansas to parents Albert and Alice (Bullimore) Roll. She attended Dewey Ville School, and graduated from Clay County Community High School in 1951. Shortly after high school, Marie married Francis Gwen (Bud) Hileman. Bud and Marie enjoyed their years together traveling the United States. Together they had two daughters, Valerie Lane Hileman (Babnick) of Pueblo, Colorado and Julie Marie Hileman (Ingram) of Dillon, Montana. Bud and Marie later divorced, and Marie began her own business in Pueblo known as "Marie's Auction". She found her passion working with antiques and built many great friendships through her business, which she operated for over twenty years. Marie was a lover of all animals, and enjoyed the company of a special cat or two most of her life. In 2008, Marie moved to Montana with her daughter Julie and son-in-law Steve. While in Montana, Marie encountered many health issues and was moved into the Renaissance Assisted Living, and more recently moved into Kindred Care and Rehabilitation Nursing Home.

We were all lucky enough to be able to celebrate Mom's 80th birthday with her. She was surrounded by her family and friends, especially her beloved great grand-children. It was a very special day for her and her family.

Marie is survived by her sister Marge (Clarence) Urban and daughters Valerie Babnick and Julie (Steve) Ingram. She is also survived by her grandchildren Dennis Hileman, Ellie Babnick, Wayne Babnick, Zach Babnick, Jennifer Rose, Ethan Ingram (Abbie Green) and Taylor Ingram as well as great grandchildren Kayla, Zach, Alanah, Toby and Ivy, and numerous nephews and nieces.

Marie will be greatly missed. A Celebration of Life will be held at the home of Steve and Julie on December 20th, at 6:30 p.m.

In lieu of flowers, the family requests that memorials be made to your local animal shelter or a charity of the donor's choice

Enjoy the Holiday
Drive Sober or Get Pulled Over

As Montanans celebrate this festive season with holiday parties and end-of-year celebrations, my Office has stepped up patrols through January 1, 2014, to deter impaired, unsafe driving and keep the public safe on Montana roads.

We'll be concentrating on keeping impaired drivers off the road, deter speeding and encourage the proper use of safety belts and child restraints. This is a time of year with many parties and lots of merriment, but there is nothing to celebrate if you get a DUI, crash your vehicle, or injure or kill someone.

Montana's legal limit for Blood Alcohol Content is 0.08 — the point at which a driver will be charged with a DUI. I must remind motorists that any amount of alcohol can impair their ability to drive — especially when combined with prescription drugs, illegal substances or fatigue.

Buzzed driving is drunk driving, and someone who shows impairment below .08 BAC can still be charged with a DUI. The only sure way to keep from getting a DUI, hurting yourself or someone else in a drunk driving collision is to NOT get behind the wheel.

Sheriff's throughout Montana are stepping up patrols through the holiday season as well. Together with the Montana Department of Transportation and the Montana Highway Patrol we are encouraging Montanans to exercise their choice to prevent impaired driving — to use their powers of persuasion to do everything possible to stop someone from driving impaired and ending up in a situation where friends and family members become victims of a serious car crash.

Tips and tools for planning a safe ride home are:

- Designate a driver. Before the fun begins, text friends to know who will be the sober driver.
- Arrange for a pick up. The designated driver doesn't have to be at the party.
- Keep ride options on speed dial. Program the number for a taxi, friend, neighbor and/or parent, so they're ready at a push of a button.
- Call a taxi or ride home program. Services listed at plan2live.mt.gov.
- Plan your own ride program. If hosting a party, have a plan with taxis or designated drivers to get guests home safely.
- Plan to spend the night. Crashing on a couch is better than crashing a car.
- Know your limit. Using a blood alcohol calculator can provide a general idea of blood alcohol levels. But

Life Flight Network medical transport to open service at Butte airport

Life Flight Network, the nation's largest not-for-profit air medical transport service with headquarters in Aurora, Ore., announced plans today to open a new base at Bert Mooney Airport in Butte by approximately Jan. 15.

Michael Griffiths, CEO, in a news release, said: "Life Flight Network seeks opportunities to provide much-needed air medical resources to rural communities. As time sensitive treatments for patients continue to evolve, coupled with the increasing difficulty obtaining specialty healthcare in outlying communities, the need for locally-based air ambulance service grows. Our fast and safe critical care air medical transport capabilities will greatly enhance patient care for the citizens of Butte and Western Montana. We look forward to providing lifesaving service for residents, while supporting area EMS programs, physicians and hospitals."

LFN provides critical care transportation for seriously ill or injured patients throughout the Pacific Northwest and Intermountain West. LFN's new Butte base is supported by a number of area EMS and healthcare professionals, including Carol Kennedy, RN, MSN, and Chief Clinical Officer at Barrett Hospital and HealthCare in Dillon. She said, "We see considerable expense of community resources in moving a patient to a needed higher level of care or for services that our local hospital cannot provide. This expense includes taking a "911" ambulance out of the County as well as an RN out of the hospital in many cases. A Life Flight Network base in Butte would provide a much quicker solution while leaving our local resources here for the community."

Opening the new base in Butte is also supported by Rick Later, President, and Brenda Kirkley, Vice President, of Beaverhead EMS. Following meetings with LFN, a spokesperson for the organization shared, "Beaverhead EMS looks forward to collaborating with Life Flight Network in order to provide efficient critical care access to patients in need of higher levels of care. This level of air medical service will be very beneficial not only to patients, but to the residents and communities of Beaverhead County."

Freddy Bartoletti, MD, FACEP, Medical Director for Community Hospital of Anaconda Emergency Department holds a similar viewpoint and explains, "The addition of a new rotor wing air medical base located in Butte is an exciting addition to the medical services offered in our region. The utilization of Life Flight Network will augment the existing air medical services in the area and will expedite patient transportation from accident scenes and between facilities. We are excited to build a working relationship with them and welcome them to our region and all of our healthcare teams."

The new LFN base in Butte will be home for one of the company's new AgustaWestland 119Kx "Koala" helicopters with a safety-enhancing Garmin G1000H avionics package. These aircraft are equipped with synthetic vision, night-vision goggle capability, satellite weather and tracking and the Appareo video and data cockpit recording system. The Koala offers the ability to transport a two-person critical care team and two patients with full-body access. LFN will provide fixed-wing transport capabilities to Montana residents when the Butte helicopter is unable to fly due to weather conditions.

The company plans to hire 14 employees for the Butte base, including Flight Nurses, Flight Paramedics, Pilots and Mechanics. The payroll and benefits for these highly-skilled personnel will exceed $1 million per year, providing a positive economic benefit for the community. These crewmembers and the rotor-wing aircraft assigned to the base will be at the ready to handle air medical transport on a 24 hour/7 days per week basis. LFN has secured hanger space at Bert Mooney Airport, and anticipates establishing service in January.

Given the growing need for safe and timely air medical transport, LFN has strategically positioned 16 bases throughout the region to provide enhanced coverage. The company has provided air medical service for more than 35 years and anticipates having a larger presence in Montana.

LFN blazed a new trail of excellence by earning the very first Program of the Year award in the Northwest from the Association of Air Medical Services. LFN is owned by a consortium of four prestigious health systems, including Legacy Emanuel Medical Center, Saint Alphonsus Regional Medical Center, Oregon Health & Science University and Providence Health System-Oregon.

This is a note of sincere appreciation to all of you who have helped your neighbors this past year through the work of the Dillon Wood Bank. One of the ongoing needs is for unused chain saws lying around in garages; we repair them and give them to people who are then able to cut their own wood. Please call Harry Neeley at 596-3690 to put these tools back to work.

Mazy's Traveling Teapot
by Jean Tilton James

(This story will be continued)

It's A Teapot's Life

I was shaped, fired and glazed in a factory in Northern China. Like humankind who don't remember being born, I don't remember being created. My earliest memory is of my maker's hands. They were rough from working with clay, but quite gentle as they held me.

"What a successful little teapot!" he exclaimed. This one will bring good fortune to any owner." He whistled as he examined me. "Hm, just the right shade of blue on the wings . . . the comb is a true red . . . the gold lines, well placed . . . the beak, pure genius. Let's see if you pour correctly, little bird." With that, he took off my top, filled my body with water and poured the water back out through my beak, all the while exclaiming, "Wonderful! Terrific! Then, let's see how you stand? Ah yes, perfect angle, no tipping at all. This is indeed an auspicious day. Now I must make your traveling case. You are much too precious to be exposed to the buffeting of the world."

And then my maker fabricated an irregular octagonal box, meaning it had five sides. He covered the outside with silk brocade fabric in deep hues of red, blue and gold. Inside he shaped a nest just my size into which I would fit exactly, so I would be protected if the box were dropped. He covered the inside of the box with rose-colored material and then fashioned a little bone needle to fit into the clasp that held the box shut. This box became my home, my dream place, and as you will see, my prison, in the years ahead.

My maker placed me in the window of his shop with my cover open so that passersby could see and perhaps want to own me. Many customers came into the shop and asked to see the cunning little bird teapot in the window. I am sure you can recognize my discomfort at being examined, peered at, and evaluated.

"How charming! Such workmanship! What a treasurer!" were some of the comments that I enjoyed. "Well, it's cute, enough, but for that price? Such a silly little trifle, I doubt if it will ever sell," were words I did not enjoy. Although I was unsure that I wanted to leave my sunny perch in the window, I began to be anxious about what my next step in life would be. Who would be my owner? If I left the shop, would I ever see my kindly maker again?
