Bernard J Harkness

Obituary for

Bernard John Harkness

Bernard John Harkness was born February 28, 1925 to Ruth Ann Kent Harkness and Ernest B Harkness. He began his life at the Muddy Ranch on Big Sheep Creek. At 2 years of age, he was joined by a sister, Bonnie Jean. In 1929 the family moved to the ranch in upper Big Sheep Creek Basin. Here they lived with Ernest's parents, Ernest Issace and Arabina Harkness. In due time Ernest and Ruth took over the ranch from his parents and Bernard helped with ranching duties. At this time the livestock business consisted of 2 bands of sheep. Bernard learned the art of trapping coyotes and hunting them with hounds.

Bernard attended Nicholia Grade School. After he graduated 8th grade, he attended high school in Dillon. While there, he lived with his grandparents Rose and John Kent. When high school education was complete, Bernard went back to the family ranch up Big Sheep Creek. He met and married Shirley Jean Shearer in 1948 and they moved to the Muddy Creek Ranch.

Four children were born to Bernard and Jean. Bernice Louise Smart (Angus); Janice Kay Smart (William); Ernest James; and Kelton Bernard (Sue).

Bernard was active in county, state, and the American Farm Bureau organizations. He held offices in every area and was president of the Montana Farm Bureau for 15 years. These were goals he was very proud of. The friendships and acquaintances he made here were remembered for the rest of his life.

After the ranches up Big Sheep Creek were sold, Bernard and Jean continued to live at the Muddy Creek house until 2011 when Bernard went to Parkview Acres in Dillon where he stayed until 2012. He then went to live with his daughter and son-in-law Bernice and Angus Smart in Lima. Jean continued to live at the Muddy Creek house until 2013 when she moved to Lima to live with her daughter and son-in-law, Janice and William Smart.

Bernard passed away on December 21, 2013, between Dell and Lima. He was preceded in death by a son Ernest James, a daughter Janice Smart, his brother-in-law Dick McNinch, and a niece, Diana Walrath--these last 3 deaths all occurring in 2013.

Survivors include his wife Jean, daughter Bernice and son Kelly; his sister Bonnie McNinch and niece Evelyn Larsen; 6 grandchildren, and 20 great grandchildren.

Visitation is scheduled for Jan. 2nd between 2-4 PM at the LDS Church in Lima and funeral services will be in Dillon at the Brundage Funeral Home on January 3rd at 2 PM.

DOROTHY R. REMELY 97

Dorothy R. Remely, 97, passed away on Sunday, Dec. 22, 2013, at the Renaissance Assisted Living in Dillon.

She was born on Sept. 2, 1916, in London, England, to William and Cathrine (O'Connor) Manvell. The family moved to Ontario, Canada as emigrants in 1920. She graduated from high school in Ontario and went to work as a secretary at a factory.

She married Ivan Remely in 1938, and they were married for 58 years. Together Dorothy and Ivan raised five children. In 1950, the family moved to Montana to ranch in the Grasshopper Valley. When asked about moving out west, Dorothy responded, "as lon as they have plumbing and electricity, it is fine with me." So, a city girl became a ranch wife.

They moved to Dillon in 1965, and Dorothy got involved volunteering to keep busy. She was a member of St. James Episcopal Church serving on the alter guild and as treasurer for a number of years; served with Parkview Acres and Barrett Hospital Auxiliaries; was a member of the Senior Citizens, Lady Elks, Beaverhead Golf Course; and was a volunteer and board member at the Dillon Food Pantry.

Dorothy loved to travel, garden, play golf, read, bowl, play Bridge and King on the Corner (for quarters); and knit afghans and sweaters for her grandchildren. She was an accomplished baker and was known in some circles as "the cookie lady". Her shortbread cookies were legendary and sought after by family and friends. She treasured being surrounded by a very caring and supportive circle of friends.

Mazy's Traveling Teapot by Jean Tilton James

(This story will be continued)

It's A Teapot's Life

Shanghai was the noisiest city I ever visited. How I longed to be able to experience all the sights and smells around me, but mine was a muffled journey. I often slept and dreamed strange dreams. It was while I was sleeping one morning that my box was suddenly opened very roughly.

"Well, this is a fine piece to be in the possession of one who says that he is but a poor student," said a gruff voice and I was placed on a desk amidst scattered papers and old bits of foul-looking food. I could just make out my owner's hands as he clenched his fists at his sides. I knew that our future was in the hands of a very frightening official. My case was open and although I was still cradled by my nest, I felt exposed and very weak. I felt that even my ability to hold tea or to be a beautiful decoration was not enough to save us. It was in that moment that I lost my faith in the power of beauty.

Tian nu was able to bribe the official; although the money it took to do so, depleted his small resources. We were able to board a ship and leave for America, but I said goodbye to China feeling powerless and sad. The trip to America passed without incident and after many days, we arrived in a place called San Francisco.

I was not unpacked for some time as my owner struggled to find work and a home to protect us from the heavy rains and cold winter fog. At last, he found a position with a Chinese herbalist and we went to live in a little room to the side of the herbal store. Tian nu unpacked his box of possessions the first night in our new home. He took me out of my case and turned me around in the dim light of a little lantern.

"Little bird, you will grace this humble room and remind me of my ancestral home." He put me on a shelf that he fashioned with a rough board on top of his battered traveling box. His first payday, he came home with a piece of deep red and gold brocade that he used to cover my shelf and to brighten the dingy room. He heated some water on a little burner and made tea. "You are lovely to look at," he declared, sipping the hot amber liquid, "but I am glad that I am alone. You only hold enough tea for one person."

My experience at the Shanghai port had made me feel unworthy, and his laughing words did not help me feel better. I knew my owner had grown to be a good young man and a kind one, but I'm afraid that I took myself much too seriously. In all honesty, if a teapot can pout, I was pouting. It is true that when one feels small, one's mind will think small, mean thoughts and mine did for many, many days. I did become unworthy but lucky for me; my owner wasn't able to know how bad my thoughts became. Although I felt safe in my carrying case, I was angry at being shut away, and equally out of sorts and fearful when he took me out of the case. Indeed, time passed slowly and uncomfortably.

This was not so for my owner. For him, time was moving very rapidly as he assumed more and more tasks at the Chinese herb store. The knowledge he had gained at the University learning Chinese Medicine made him an asset in helping customers choose the right herbal remedies. He knew which was the correct form of Ginseng to bring energy to a customer who felt slow and sleepy. For customers who were often ill, he gave them a compound of herbs that included Astragalus. Wolfberry, with its trumpet-like blossoms that turned into red berries, was known to be good for kidney and liver problems. Chinese medicine is the art of bringing the whole of a person into balance or harmony, so cinnamon was added for those who needed to balance the upper and lower parts of their body. Yes, that is right, this is the same cinnamon that makes wonderful sweet-smelling cookies. Part of Tian nu's artistry was knowing how much of each herb to add and what herbs worked best together. Soon he gained a reputation for being a great healer. I began to learn from my maker that I must balance my cold yin and my hot yang to become more harmonious.

As time went on, the owner of the store grew older and wanted to retire. He offered to sell the store to my owner, and Tian Nu entered a new phase of his life. He worked hard and soon had enough money to buy a house. It was now time to find a wife.

At that time, in Chinese culture, marriage was arranged either by the bride and groom's parents or by a marriage
