Supporter of outgoing Mayor Says:

By: MJ

Ms. Wested, an ardent supporter of outgoing Mayor Malesich, listed 40 projects in the Dillonite that she credited him with accomplishing.

The article sounds like Mayor Malesich was the sole decision maker. Many people say that to vote is a waste of time. This type of management would lead people to believe it is a waste of time.

Did the people that were elected to the council, the many others that participated in gathering information and going to committee meetings to bring these projects to fruition have any input or say?

Items were listed as positive improvements for Dillon, however there were no facts and figures explaining to the people how much these project actually cost taxpayers. Case and point, your street and ally taxes doubled.

Humans have a tendency to think they are not replaceable. The truth is, we are all replaceable. Today we have a newly elected mayor. Moving on. Let us hope those elected to the council will represent the people in their ward by being part of Mayor Klakken's team.

Chamber of Commerce Seeks Board Members

The Beaverhead Chamber of Commerce would like to thank outgoing board members Jill Anderson, Dennis DeVivo, Jim Gleason, Linda Mazejka, Melainya Ryan, Jayme Tash, Kelly Taylor, J.S. Turner, and Judy Westfall. Their hard work and dedication to the Chamber and the community has allowed the program to grow and offer the community new programs throughout the last year.

With so many board members retiring the Chamber of Commerce is in need of new board members. The Chamber provides the community many services from events and local business promotion to visitor information. Without an active membership and board members it may not be possible to continue to serve the community in the same manner. The Chamber Board meets monthly and volunteers to put together community events- generally about one a month. If you are interested in joining the Chamber Board or have questions please contact Jamie Cottom, Executive Director at 683-5511 or Wendy Alvarez, Board President at 683-2800.

Christmas Tree Burn

Free Speech, Duck Hunting and Double-Standards

By Susan Stamper Brown

Driving around last week as I finished my last bit of Christmas shopping, it seemed like Duck Dynasty merchandise was everywhere. Who would have thought, in 2013 the hottest gift ideas would involve rednecks from Louisiana? What's more, I never would have believed anything the "Duck" family said would be a source of national controversy.

Duck Dynasty star Phil Robertson's interview with GQ magazine sparked an all-out assault on him, his family and of course, Christianity. This overreaction underscores the double standard of those who applaud free speech, as long as they approved the message. And if you dare talk about something like abortion or homosexuality, then it is all-out war, and those decrying intolerance become the very thing they claim to hate.

To be fair, it is dangerously myopic to not realize tolerance is a two-way street. There are those like the Westboro "church" crowd who think it is okay to cherry-pick scriptures like the one Phil Robertson referred to in 1st Corinthians 6:9-11, gathering mentioned sins like stones to hurl at everyone but themselves. Jesus had an answer for that: "Let he who is without sin cast the first stone."

While that scripture lists specific sins, including homosexuality, it does not say homosexuality is worse than slander or greed. Quite honestly, the first sentence of verse 11 indicts everyone: "Or do you not know that wrongdoers will not inherit the kingdom of God?" In other words, we're all wrongdoers, including the openly admitted former drunkard, Phil Robertson, and hence, the desperate need for that baby wrapped in swaddling clothes whose birth we celebrate this time of year.

After getting things in context and because this is not a sermon, let's get back to the non-stone-throwing Phil Robertson and his interview with GQ. In a seemingly obvious attempt to generate a controversial response, the interviewer asked, "What, in your mind, is sinful?" My response would have included something about eating that creme-stuffed cupcake drenched in dark chocolate icing last night. Phil's response was a bit more pointed, offering his own southerndrawled translation of 1st Corinthians. Those offended by his response should take it up with God while at the same time thanking him for the First Amendment.

People became so unglued over the idea that the Bible calls their type of sexual behavior "sin" they refused to listen to, as Paul Harvey used to say, the rest of the story: "We never, ever judge someone," said Phil in the same interview, "who's going to Heaven, Hell — that's the Almighty's job. We just love 'em, give 'em the good news about Jesus-whether they're homosexuals, drunks, terrorists. We let God sort 'em out later..."

You may not like the way he put it, no more than I cared for Martin Bashir's comments about Sarah Palin, but the First Amendment is meant to cover us all, no matter how offensive. As a Christian, I tire of the constant theme of homosexuality or casual sex which is woven into more prime time shows than I can count, but I can simply change the channel.

Political correctness has many tentacles and unless we tear it out at the roots, it will adhere itself throughout our culture until the First Amendment becomes obsolete. The gift of free speech is more valuable than any present one will find under the tree this year and should be cherished.
