Almost Here: A Translator For Dogs!

By Danny Tyree

I'm sure most of us have at some point wondered exactly what our canine companions are thinking when they bark. Then the vast majority of us get on with our lives.

Not so the geeks of the Swedish product development firm the Nordic Society for Invention and Discovery. They hunkered down, stretched their brains and used $10,000 of crowdfunded money to develop a rudimentary wearable device called Woof No More.

The device's EEG headset supposedly reads dogs' brainwaves; then a tiny Raspberry Pi computer, translates the thoughts into human language and a built-in speaker utters the words.

A writer for "Popular Science" magazine went to great lengths to show that such claims are "complete, utter bunk" and that — given the current state of neuroscience -- such a device is many years and millions of dollars in the future. But I'm sure that reasonable people will be able to set aside his negativity -- because the concept is just so doggone cool!!!!

The developers warn that Woof No More is a work in progress. The version shipping in April translates just four thought patterns, but they are primal sentiments universal to all dogs: "I'm hungry," "I'm tired," "Who are you?" and "Boy, I'm glad I can think deeper thoughts than Joe Biden!"

As the device grows in sophistication, we can expect to hear dogs express thoughts such as:

"Yeah, I'm afraid of thunder — but at least I'm not afraid to wash myself after they show 'Psycho' on TV!"

"Master, you say one of your co-workers is a brown-noser. I'm not sure why that's an insult..."

"You see muddy pawprints. I see me getting in on the ground floor of biometrics and avoiding identity theft."

"I assure you my interest in the ladies is on a purely intellectual level. Now, for the luvva Marmaduke, put down those surgical instruments!"

One might well ask how the Woof No More could be sold for the pittance of $600. I suspect that, following the example of costly upgrades to free software, we will soon see the "Woof No More Pro," which for an extra sum filters out your pooch's annoying split infinitives, dangling participles and utterances of "like" and "you know" and "Fetchin' hard or hardly fetchin'?"

Even if the device works, many people will be unable to make practical use of the wealth of information they receive. Just look at our track record with human relations. ("I wonder what it means when a woman says, 'No!!'? If only the Swedes would develop some device to cut through the confusion — without electrical interference with my natural irresistibility, of course.")

Some observers say we would be better served by a device that interprets human speech for dogs. I'm sure countless dogs are waiting to hear a human answer the question "You gave a PUPPY to kids with the attention span of a concussion-addled goldfish. What were you THINKING, kibble-for-brains???"

Whether or not the technology is applied to humans, if Woof No More is a hit, we'll inevitably see versions for other species. I can't wait to try out Meow No More. ("This meow means I'm hungry. This meow means I'm going out...in...out...This meow means I'm hatching a Machiavellian world domination plan that could be unraveled only if ...ZZZZZZZZ")

Dillon Volunteer Fire Department Reports

Tuesday at 12:42pm the Dillon Volunteer Fire Dept. was paged to 2125 White Lane for a house fire. 15 members responded and worked over 2 hours extinguishing the fire and checking the house for hot spots. The cause and extent of damage is under investigation at this time. We were paged at 9:07pm for a chimney fire at 1705 Flynn Lane. The fire was out on arrival, but we checked for any hot spots.

UMW FOOTBALL SIGNS MORE LOCAL TALENT

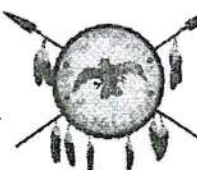

University of Montana Western head football coach B.J. Robertson announced the signing of Dillon, Mont., senior Donovan Hucke and Missoula, Mont., senior Jake McElroy to Frontier Conference/NAIA letters of intent.

"It's not very often you say you signed two guys from two different schools and can say that neither of them lost a football game last year," said Coach Robertson of his newest Bulldogs.

Hucke is a 6' 0" 260 pound offensive/defensive lineman who finished his high school career at Beaverhead County High School with an undefeated state championship season. He played offensive center and defensive line for the Beavers. He accounted for 54 tackles that included two sacks and recovered five fumbles. Donovan was selected as a member of the all-conference and all-state football teams for his play as a center. His play on the defensive line also earned him all-conference honors. He has been selected as a participant in the East-West Shrine game this coming summer. In addition to football success, Donovan has been selected as a two-time all-state heavyweight wrestler.

"Donovan is a force in the middle of the offense or defensive lines. Because he is also a great wrestler, he plays football with great balance and leverage," Coach Robertson said. "We are ecstatic he has chosen to continue the family tradition of being a Bulldog." Off the field Hucke has earned academic all-state honors. He plans to study history while attending Montana Western. He is the son of Wade and Cathy.

McElroy is a 5' 10" 225 pound lineman from Loyola Sacred Heart High School. He played center and nose guard for the Rams. As a senior he was an all-state performer and voted team defensive MVP by his peers. For his play along the line he was also honored as a member of the first team all-conference team as a center and nose guard. He has been selected to play in the East-West Shrine game and Class-B all-star game. Following his sophomore season he was selected second team all-conference as center.

"Two of Jake's biggest strengths are his great technique and quickness," Coach Robertson said. "He also is a great student of the game. We are excited to have Jake join the Bulldog football family." Off the field Jake has been selected to the academic all-state team during his sophomore, junior, and senior years. He plans to study Health and Human Performance while attending Montana Western. He is the son of Joe and Jen, and has a brother, Joey.

"We were fortunate to get to know and work with both Donovan and Jake while they were with their teams at our camp last summer," commented Coach Robertson. "Both of them do a great job of leading their teams by example on and off the field. We couldn't have asked for two better young men as well as quality football players join our team. They both come from great families and programs."

ZIMMERMAN'S INJURED
Jack and Tammi Zimmerman were injured in a one vehicle accident last Friday. She has been released from the hospital with her walker, however, Jack is still at Barrett Hospital. They both have bones broken in their backs and have been in great pain. They could use your prayers for a full recovery.

DILLON STOMPS HARD
The Beavers came back Saturday and seemed to take their first lose in Helena out on the Livingston basketball boys. The boys attacked the basket and just kept taking the ball away from Livingston to stomp Park High 67-21. The Beavers were only out matched by the height on the Livingston team with a guard who stood 6'11" but was ineffective at stopping the 3 point shots of the hometown boys.

LADY BEAVERS
The lady Beavers took an easy win in Livingston Tuesday night winning 51-38 against Park High in a non conference game. The Beavers were led by Cierra Lamey's 14 points and Alex Rouse's 13 additional points.

PAFFHAUSEN SIGNS WITH TECH
Montana Tech Head Football Coach Chuck Morrell announced a commitment from Dillon Beaver Mick Paffhausen to play football at Tech. The 5-10, 175 pound strong safety and wide receiver will play on offense for the Orediggers. Mick is the son of Camy and Tom Paffhausen and has plans to major in Construction Business Management.

My Pet Rock

Have you heard the controversy in Butte about the selling of rats and mice? Why? No one, yes no one was concerned when I bought a pet rock. The whole thing was such a monstrosity. I know the man that sold me my pet rock just took me for granite. Let me tell you what happened!!

My pet rock was so hard headed, would not listen to anything I had to say. My pet rock, well let me tell you his name. Ralph the Rock. Well Ralph had such a large ego, all he could think about was becoming a rock star. I came home one night and Ralph was on the couch, stoned out of his head. I picked him up and tried to rock him to sleep and he bit me. I had to go to the emergency room and have stitches. They called in a special doctor, when I told them I got bitten by my pet rock. In fact they thought I was off my rocker.

Well, back to Ralph! He had this love hate relationship with Sharon Stone and me. I had to play a Sharon Stone movie every other day. He also like Rock Hudson but did not care for the Rocky movie. I came home one afternoon and he was singing, "Rock around the Clock." So I did.

On the good side, Ralph was a very clean rock. He gathered no moss. He was smart but not a rocket scientist. But he annoyed me so much I sent him on vacation to Pebble Beach. When he came home he said his life was all washed up.

Like I said, no one cared, no one came to my rescue with my pet rock. If you think "Romancing the Stone", was easy you should have lived with Ralph. It was a hard life for both of us.

I finally sent him away to a boarding school. Actually it was a quarry. I then went out and bought myself a pet rat. It has been a very rodent relationship but he has not bitten me. I'm in favor of selling rats and mice. But I'm in favor of banning the sale of pet rocks. Pet rocks are treacherous.
