Mabel Louise Hilliker, 93

Mabel Louise Hilliker, 93, passed away peacefully on Feb. 28, 2014, at Ruby Valley Hospital, Sheridan.

She was born to Gertrude and Louis Barbezat on Sept. 29, 1920, in Twin Falls, Idaho, and was the last of eight children born to the Barbezats.

Unfortunately, Gertrude passed away during Mabel's first year and her aunt Louise then stepped in offering to take Mabel off the family farm to raise her herself.

Her aunt, a traveling Minister, preached the Lord's words as Mabel grew up. Mabel attended grade school, middle school and high school in several locations in eastern Colorado and western Kansas as her beloved Aunt preached.

Mabel attended Central Christian College in Kansas and then moved to Chicago to enroll in music school. After a short time, she moved to Oakland, Calif., and met Frank Hilliker. After a short romance, they were married on Sept. 29, 1944 in Oakland where Frank was stationed in the Navy.

Frank and Mabel had three children, Raymond, Cheryl and Gary. Around 1955, they all moved to Denver, Colo., where Frank started his own business. Mabel was a homemaker along with taking on secretarial duties for Frank's business. It wasn't long before the business grew into a successful endeavor called Hilliker Hydraulics, Inc. In addition to running their business, the entire family was active and involved in their church, Lakewood Church of the Nazarene.

After Frank passed away in 1990, Mabel moved to Dillon to be closer to Gary and his wife, Doris. Mabel then relocated to Sheridan in the mid-1990s because Gary and Doris had relocated from Dillon to Sheridan.

As Mabel celebrated birthdays and the years went by, she found herself in her late 80s and still living in her own home. Barbara Sanchez, Lori Burwell and Julie Tash became her loving caregivers until in November 2012, Mabel's new home became Tobacco Roots Mountain Care Center in Sheridan.

Over the years, Mabel had many interesting hobbies. She and Frank traveled to many exotic places around the world.

They also enjoyed their tropical bird hobby with a collection of hundreds in an aviary which they built off the back of their home.

Mabel loved to read romance novels, knit and crochet. She thoroughly enjoyed and pampered her faithful Bichon Frise dogs.

She was preceded in death by her husband, Frank, and her son, Raymond in 1989.

She is survived by her son, Gary (wife, Doris) and her daughter Cheryl (husband, Jim); grandchildren are John and

Putin Gives the World Half a Peace Sign

by Joe Gandelman

Russian President Vladimir Putin has held up his hand, clenched his fist and given "half a peace sign" to the Ukraine, Europe and especially to President Barack Obama. And so the debate has begun:

Is the invasion of Crimea a shocking turning point for modern Russia? Is it proof Obama has turned the U.S. into a paper tiger? Is it a crucial moment for the world in the 21st century? The beginning of Russian domination of the old Soviet Union and perhaps intimidation of Europe?

Some points to consider as this breaking story continues to quickly unfold:

American weren't greeted by garlands and flowers but seemingly caught in quicksand which required an extrication costly in time, treasure and lives. Many Americans became angry at Canada when it was unwilling to join the "coalition of the willing." Many in the United Kingdom seethed over their country's involvement -- anger recently fueled by revelations that then-Prime Minister Tony Blair knew Iraq had few weapons of mass destruction when he argued Washington's case to his nation. The Iraq war debacle made other countries think even harder about military intervention, and the United States' reputation took a hit. Writes The Week's Marc Ambinder: "One undeniable truth: Iraq weakened the U.S. more than anything done since. Maybe Obama over learned its lessons...But nothing empowered Vladimir Putin more than America's squandering of moral standing in the early part of this century."

Putin Has Never Shed His KGB Roots or Persona: Forbes' blogger David Adesnik writes that Putin "will talk sweetness and light and always insist he is the defender of shared values...Putin lies just as brazenly to his own people and about his neighbors. But Americans and Europeans may need to learn this lesson."

Indeed, it's easy in the context of a new century to think that some things have changed for the better, but an authoritarian's instinct will long endure. And Putin seems to be laying the groundwork for more, not fewer, military interventions.

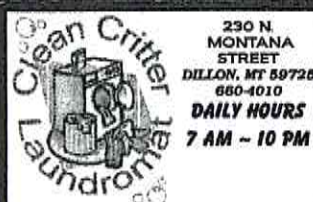

Putin and Obama Really Dislike Each Other: Putin published an unprecedented op-ed in The New York Times that was patronizing to Obama. Obama has taken a few snark swipes at Putin. JFK and Nikita Khrushchev were best buds by comparison. German Chancellor Angela Merkel, who has a good relationship with Russia's de facto dictator, recently talked to Putin about his action in the Crimea and wondered if he was in touch with reality, saying: "In another world."

To Seriously Follow the Controversy, Ignore Partisans: GOPers are now going after former Secretary of State Hillary Clinton who held a famous "reset" button for U.S. Russian relations, because Putin hit a time machine button taking the world back to the Cold War. Alaska Gov. Sarah Palin -- always less "think tank" than thinking that long-ago tanked -- is doing an I-told-you-so on Putin, Obama and the Ukraine, and recently offered this thoughtful analysis: Obama wears "mom jeans and equivocates and bloviates."

Obama Remains a Work In Progress But What Happens Here Will Define Him: Don't expect Republican politicians or talk radio to give you a serious analysis of Obama. The Washington Post's Dana Milbank recently noted the virtual Republican Tower of Babel on Obama: "President Obama is such a weak strongman. What's more, he is a feeble dictator and a timid tyrant," Milbank wrote. "That, at any rate, is Republicans' critique of him."

The late Rep. Sen. Arthur Vandenberg's axiom that politics "ends at the water's edge" has now been replaced with "let's see if we can create a tsunami to rally our base, get this guy's poll numbers down and our side's up."

But here's one certainty: Putin is the same Putin he was years ago -- and he cannot and never will be confused with Mikhail Gorbachev.
