City Saga: July 2, 2014

By MJ

A "Thank You" and not "Shrapnel" should have been the course of action.

The meeting opened up and proceeded in an orderly manner until shrapnel starting flying. Councilman Troedsson accused Mayor Klakken of breaking the "Open Meeting" law and wanted the Chief of Police to arrest him for misconduct. Troedsson's reasoning was because the Mayor negotiated on behalf of City of Dillon with union representative and city employees without posting the meetings. The mayor only negotiated -- did not sign anything or spend one dime of city monies. Only the city council can approve the spending of city funds, thus the contracts were placed in the council packets for approval or disapproval. Council did not agree to contracts but sent them to the finance committee.

In the packets given to each councilperson were the Contractual Agreements between the City of Dillon and Dillon City Employees. These two agreements were drafted for the purpose of collective bargaining with respect to wages, hours of employment, fringe benefits, and other conditions of employment.

Negotiating these types of contracts is a lengthy process and does not happen with one meeting or a couple hours of time. Mayor Klakken presented current and past facts, figures, worked closely with City Treasurer, City Attorney and others to negotiate amicable and detailed contracts on behalf of the City of Dillon.

Issues negotiated involved; non discrimination, management rights, working conditions, holidays, leaves, sick leave, funeral leave, military leave, witness and jury duty leave, leave without pay, insurances, seniority, grievance procedure, training, reimbursable expenses, clothing allowance, salaries and wages...

It appears that the shrapnel directed at the mayor was uncalled for because the mayor cannot spend one dime of city funds. The Council is the only people that can ratify the spending of city funds. Mayor Klakken, using professional leadership skills, explained to the council that he was doing his job by doing all the research and leg work required to put together a contract of this magnitude available to the council. See the "Tribune" for further information and another opinion.

Dillon Library Summer Reading Activities

Fizz, Boom, Read! activities continue at the Dillon Public Library. There is still plenty of time for children to sign up and begin earning boom bucks to spend at the Grand Finale on July 31st. During the month of July, there will be many opportunities for children to attend activities.

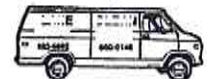

Tuesday July 8th at 7:00 pm in the back yard of the Library, the popular Pajamas in the Parks series begins. This is a family activity that will take place on each of the remaining Tuesday evenings in July. Children come ready for bed in their pj's and with their blankies and stuffed animals. Bedtime stories will be read, lullabies will be sung, and finally cookies and milk will be served, so the children are all ready to go home for a good night's sleep. The program takes place in the Library basement in case of inclement weather.

All of these events are free and open to the public. We hope you'll join us for these fun summer reading activities!

MONTANA WESTERN DEBUTS LEARNING CAMP FOR KIDS

The University of Montana Western School of Outreach is set to begin a new day camp for kids entering second through sixth grade. X-Camp will give kids experiential learning opportunities in four areas over the course of four weeks: history, art, language and outdoor science. The camp is coordinated by teachers for students.

The camp runs July 14 through August 4, Monday through Friday 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., on the Montana Western campus. Parents can send their children to just one week, mix and match weeks or choose all four weeks.

July 14-18 is history week. Kids will learn about Lewis and Clark and explore some of Dillon's historic buildings, while finding out more about local history.

July 21-25 is all about the arts. Camp goers will take photos, paint and draw.

July 28 to Aug. 1 focuses on language. Children will learn phrases in different languages, try creative writing and learn some sign language.

Aug. 1-4, kids will wrap up camp with a week devoted to sciences and the outdoors. Kids will learn fly fishing basics, survival techniques and information about local wildlife.

Each week is $85. Register by July 8 and save $10 per week.

For more details or to register, call 406-683-7537 or e-mail outreach@umwestern.edu.
