MOUNTAIN BLUEGRASS GOSPEL TO PERFORM AT BANNACK

The Mountain Bluegrass Gospel band will entertain you with their old fashioned music Saturday August 16th at 7pm in the Old Church at Bannack State Park. Back again by popular demand, this powerful bluegrass gospel group is always a crowd pleaser.

The members of the band were raised in different parts of the country and are banded together in one united purpose, to share the good news of the gospel. The Gilbert family lives in Sheridan, Montana. Dad Ernie plays a hot rhythm guitar. Wife Alice sings the "high lonesome" parts and son Ernie Gene, a member of the Dillon Junior Fiddlers, is the 14 year old fiddling and mandolin sensation.

Retired schoolteacher Sharon Severance plays the upright bass and sings high tenor. Her husband Lynn is the bands promoter and carries the bass! They live in New River, Arizona and spend their summers in Sheridan, Montana. Sharon says "it is a dream come true for its members, who love to play and sing bluegrass gospel music.... and were looking for a way to serve the lord." And rounding out the group is multi-talented Rick Rhoades from Glendale, Arizona who plays banjo and bass and sings lead when called upon. This show is sponsored by Frontline Ag.

The show starts at 7:00 p.m. and visitors are encouraged to arrive early to get a good seat. Dust off your hat, shine your boots and join us for a wonderful evening of old time bluegrass gospel music! All Saturday programs are free, out of state vehicles pay a $5.00 park admission fee. Park hours are 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. every day. For more information call the park at 834-3413.

Sign Up – Have a Say

By: MJ

Study Commission: Would you like to see changes in your city and county government? Would you like to be an active member of a group that will study the local governments? Here is your opportunity to have a say with a short term commitment.

There will be instructive training class and the group will have continued support throughout the process. The class will be paid for and not your expense. Don't sit this one out. Get involved and make a difference.

If you are interested in being part of the Study Commission you must file at the Clerk & Recorders Office to have your name placed on the ballot for November election. The deadline for filing is August 21, 2014 at 5:00 pm.

History of Study Commission: At the primary election people elected to create a study commissions for the city and the county. The City of Dillon will have 5 members and the County will have 3 members. Once every ten years, the electorate must decide if they want to look at changing the structure of their local government. Changes or modifications may or may not be needed. Many options are available for the study group to consider. Example for changes might be: changing the powers held by commissioners, city council, a complete overhaul or structural change for city and county government…

Pintler Creek and Oreamnos Lake to Receive Fish Treatment

The Beaverhead-Deerlodge National Forest in conjunction with the Montana Fish Wildlife and Parks (FWP) are working together to treat the Pintler Creek drainage located northeast of Wisdom, for the Westslope Cutthroat Trout populations starting August 25, 2014.

Officials will use Rotenone a chemical to remove non-native species from this drainage. The work will be conducted in the waterways of Pintler Creek from Pintler Creek Falls to and including Oreamnos Lake, and two miles of Beaver Creek upstream from the confluence with Pintler Creek at Pintler Creek Meadows.

The public is advised to avoid this area and to not fish or consume any fish in these areas during the Rotenone treatment. FWP personnel will be available in the area during the Rotenone treatments to provide information and signs will be displayed at area trailheads and along the trails. Treatment is expected to last approximately four days.

For additional information contact the Wise River Ranger District at (406) 832-3178, or Wisdom Ranger District at (406) 832-3243.

Expect Less, Be Happy

By Tom Purcell

Get this: Low expectations are the key to happiness.

That was one of the findings of a happiness study recently conducted by researchers at University College London.

Researchers used a magnetic resonance imaging machine to monitor brain activity as they guided subjects through a series of activities, such as gambling, and asked them how happy they were as their fortunes rose and fell.

The researchers then used the data to establish a formula that can gauge how moods fluctuate with short-term events. The formula is able to predict what will or will not create happiness.

"The researchers were not surprised by how much rewards influenced happiness, but they were surprised by how much expectations could," reports Time.

As it goes, positive expectations, such as going to your favorite restaurant with a friend, will positively affect one's happiness. But researchers also concluded that if one has low expectations in life, one can never be disappointed.

In other words, when your expectations are low, you are much more likely to exceed them, which will make you happy. Likewise, when your expectations are too high, they are less likely to be met, which will make you unhappy.

Which is probably why so many people are dissatisfied with our political leaders right now. Like or dislike President Obama, he created expectations so high — hope and change and reaching across the political aisle, anyone? — that there was no way he or any human could meet them.

There have been other studies that have discovered fascinating tidbits about what makes us happy. One, conducted by a University of Southern California researcher, found that money doesn't make us happy.

Though it's true that a lack of money will cause stress and unhappiness, it is also true that once people reach an income where they are able to meet their basic needs, with a little left over to go on a vacation and do a few other nice things, their happiness level does not increase as their income soars. More stuff does not equal more happiness.

The USC researcher concluded that the more we have, the more we want, and so we end up working harder to get more — and have less time to pursue the things that truly do make us happy: spending quality time with loved ones and enjoying good health.

Where happiness is concerned, I defer to the great singer-philosopher Kenny Rogers. In an A&E "Biography" piece, he said three things are all that anyone needs to be happy: someone to love, something to do and something to look forward to.

But don't we all know this — and keep forgetting it?

We know that the happiest moments in our own lives involve friends and family. These are the people who affect the deeper part of our nature, our spirits and souls, where true happiness resides. These are the people who can make us laugh so hard our guts hurt or help us when we're down or engage us in deeply satisfying conversations.

The good news is that we can choose happiness, says the Mayo Clinic.

"People who are happy seem to intuitively know that their happiness is the sum of their life choices," the clinic reports. It says happy people choose to build their lives on five pillars:

- devoting time to family and friends
- appreciating what they have
- maintaining an optimistic outlook
- feeling a sense of purpose
- living in the moment

And, of course, let's remember to set lower, more realistic goals and expectations in our personal and public lives. Expecting less and receiving more makes us happy, whereas expecting more and receiving less makes us disappointed and cranky.

But don't ask me, ask President Obama.

Citizens for Balanced Use prevailed over FWP violation of "right to know"

In a Montana Supreme Court (Court) decision released on Tuesday, August 12th, the Court, led by Justice Rice, issued an opinion affirming a lower court's decision to award Citizens for Balanced Use attorney fees from the Montana Fish, Wildlife and Parks (FWP). The initial litigation came when FWP officials held a meeting without proper public notice it the department's effort to close wolf hunting and trapping in the Park County area Hunting District 313 and Wolf Management Unit 390.

"This decision, having a lot to do with attorney fees, is also a clear affirmation that FWP's conduct in this case was a violation public notice laws," said Kerry White, CBU Executive Board Member. "Public notice laws exist to allow public access to government agencies and their decisions. Without proper public notice, which includes releasing meeting materials in advance of holding meetings and in taking public comments, regulators have little accountability to the people they serve; not to mention the public has very little representation in major decisions—like the decision to close wolf hunting and trapping prematurely."

The Court's decision to affirm a lower court's ruling that CBU's attorney fees were to be covered by FWP was made by affirming that FWP erred in process, which further clarified CBU as the "prevailing" entity in prior rulings since the initial January 2013 filing (by CBU) of a Complaint for Declaratory and Injunctive Relief, alleging that FWP violated its (CBU) constitutional right of participation in the December meetings. CBU subsequently filed an Application for Temporary Restraining Order, which was granted, prohibiting FWP from enforcing its December decision requiring FWP to reopen wolf hunting and trapping in the areas.

The full decision is included as an attachment with this release and online at BalancedUse.org/newsroom/.

Citizens for Balanced Use is a 501c3 with thousands of members dedicated to multiple use, public access and accountable management of public lands. CBU is governed by a volunteer Board of Directors and is based in Gallatin Gateway, Montana.
