"The Blessing of Christmas"

10 seconds. What did you get for Christmas last year? GO!

As I was writing this, I participated with you and came up with a blank. Sorry, Mom. Given enough time, I'm sure I could recall the gifts of Christmas past, but this is just a small exercise to keep our eyes on what Christmas is all about. Here's a clue: Its not about the gifts. The gifts are nice, sure, and it's a great tradition to have chocolate-covered peanut butter balls with an ice cold milk chaser. These things make us feel BLESSED.

I submit to you for your holiday consideration that we are more blessed because of what was given FOR US rather than the presents given TO US. Isaiah 9:6 says, "For to us a child is born, to us a son is given, and the government will be on His shoulders. And He will be called Wonderful Counselor, Mighty God, Everlasting Father, Prince of Peace." This is a message that foretold the birth of the Son of God, Jesus Christ, hundreds of years before He was delivered.

Notice, this child born and given FOR US. The best gifts are useful, make our lives better or easier. (Men, that doesn't mean she wants a vacuum cleaner.) A blessing enhances our lot in life. A blessing improves our standing from where we were before. That is why God sends His only Son TO US... TO BLESS US. How?

Wonderful Counselor- You can go directly to God THROUGH Jesus to receive advice. We have the God of the universe as our consigliere. The Marlon Brando had Robert Duvall; we have the Son of God.

Mighty God -When you believe that you are in partnership with God, BIG things can happen.

Everlasting Father- Regardless of the kind of father you have or had, your Heavenly Father is good and perfect and will only give us things that will be a blessing in the end.

Prince of Peace - No amount of gifts, no amount of money can buy peace of mind. With Jesus, we not only can have peace of mind, but a calm spirit. There is rest when we step in what God is doing.

These are the blessings that Jesus came to bring. In your generosity this season, don't forget the greatest gift of all ... The blessing of the person of Jesus.

Things Your Math Teacher Will Never Tell You

I really hate math -- but I'm not alone. More than 12 out of 10 folks have similar loathsome feelings – including your emotionally unbalanced, your impulsive shopper, your weekend gardener, your topless sunbather (or bottomless, for that matter), or your federal government. Not surprisingly, people who "get it" per capita are less than .0001 percent/sq. inches.

Yet, I'm willing to bury the hatchet and help clear up some serious math misconceptions. These are no laughing matter – much like mathematicians dating.

1. Never divide by zero. This is bad, very bad. One or two friends dividing by zero, who cares? But the entire MIT freshmen class simultaneously dividing by zero, well, it's your funeral. Imagine lighting a match by an open barrel of airplane fuel. You get the idea.
2. Adding fractions -- always find a common denominator. Online dating services daily employ this ancient factoring strategy. No person is a whole; some are half-full, others a quarter empty. The Roman Empire didn't crumble for no reason! Find the common denominator. I don't care how, just do it!
3. 1 is not a prime number. Don't confuse with terms like prime beef. By definition, a prime number can only be evenly divided by 1 and itself. The number 1 can be evenly divided by 1 and itself (Am I going too fast?). Therefore, 1 is a prime number! Mathematicians would claim, "No, it is not." Enjoy people lying to you? I rest my case.
4. Negative times a negative equals a positive. This is the fundamental basis for sub-prime loans. Simply put, take people who are scrimping by (negative), let them commit to a hopeless debt (negative), then allow clandestine financial investors to walk away with a wad of money (positive).

5. .999… = 1. Two words, "To infinity and beyond." In mathematical terms, ".999…" relates to taking infinity beyond infinity, leading to what is known as "rounding up." Sure, you've heard of it. Now don't you feel just a little silly?
6. Natural vs. even numbers. Natural numbers are organic -- think apples without the peels. Even numbers (2,4, … May 26th) are beneficial because they can split in half. Place 24 questionably potty trained preschool children in two lines. What is the result? One little boy, we'll call Billy, standing in a puddle of pee. This is why we hate math.
7. Multiplication isn't always bigger. As in: -3 X 534 results in the teensy number -1602. If you've ever driven down the Santa Monica freeway in the wrong direction, you know what I'm talking about.
8. Don't always add a zero when you multiply by 10. Do something stupid like 10 X .0005 = .00050 on your Federal tax return and you'll end up explaining your deductions in a drab office painted during the Nixon Administration.
9. Distribute numbers equitably. Take the lopsided equation: x = 4(3y + 8x – 4/6 (56 +1)) which obviously tilts heavily to the right. To solve, simple use bold numbers to add weight as in this solution: X = 4(3y + 8x – 4/6 (56 +1)). In math, as in gymnastics, balance is crucial.
10. Canceling incorrectly creates errors. Cancel, from the Latin, can (to compartmentalize) and cel (throw overboard). Don't erroneously cancel denominators, numerators, or ordinary numbers sitting defiantly on a math exam. Like eating rancid cottage cheese, you'll regret it.
11. Radicals contain both rational and irrational numbers. For example, the square root of 25 is 5. This is rational. The logarithm of 1000 to base 10 is 3. This is irrational if not insanity. In the mathematics field, most of what you see is irrational in as much as you'll want to understand it but you never will.

Feel better? It's funny how things that once seemed insurmountable can appear childish under the microscope of knowledge. Gives one goose bumps -- I know it did me.

How People View People

By: MJ

Humans make judgments about other people on how they look, what they say, how they dress, how they walk, their weight… What would your first thoughts be if you see a blind man on a park bench that is poorly dressed, a young girl in school that is pregnant, a person that speaks loud or a person that is 100 pounds overweight?

Images form perceptions and then we make judgments that make sense to us in our world.

In the business world today companies hire "Image Consultants" to educate personnel on how we see people. Example: Woman wear makeup because they think that it makes them more acceptable. Men dress in a certain way, wear certain shoes, have a certain hair style all because they think it makes them more acceptable.

Why do people judge people? If we do not understand why a person is the way they are then we form a judgment that makes sense in our world. It's human nature.

Blind man: Would your first thoughts be that he was born blind or would you think he did something to lose his sight and that's why he is poorly dressed. Young school girl: Would you think she was wild, her parents provided no guidelines or would you think the girl was a straight (A) student and a beautiful artist? Overweight person: Would you think they were lazy and uneducated or would you think that they bought and paid for their own business, walked and rode bikes four days a week? Loud talker: Would you think the person is hard of hearing or just grand standing for attention.

Colleges are starting to change the word for freshman students from freshman to first year students. If you treat people as objects of pleasure then will changing the name really make a difference? Does changing the words change our image thus changing our judgment? Maybe more than changing the name needs to happen.

When we have questions we can't answer then we try to plug the holes by assigning meaning to an image. From that image we make a judgment.

Could the real blind man be the person who is doing the judging?

PLEASE HELP KAREN GIBSON

Karen and her husband Kyle manage Sportswear and Design here in Dillon. Karen has recently been diagnosed with an aggressive form of lung cancer. She is going to Missoula every week for chemo and radiation treatments. Karen has signed up for insurance but does not have it at this time.

If you can help - PLEASE stop by Sportswear and Design during the Christmas Stroll or any regular business hours and make a donation to the Gibson family.

You can make a donation through Go Fund Me - however, we checked and that site keeps about 8% of the money plus .30 per donation. If you want Karen to get all of the money when you make the donation, stop by Sportswear & Design on Glendale Street and help her out.

Dillon Author signing books on Friday

Twenty-year Dillon resident Chuck Robbins is a freelance outdoor writer/photographer and licensed Montana Fishing Guide. He is an active member, former board member and current Fields Notes editor of the Northwest Outdoor Writers Association, Robbins newest book, 'Birding Trails Montana," features 240 birding locations across the Big Sky State with GPS coordinates for all locations. There are color photographs and over 70 maps to assist the birder.

"Flyfisher's Guide to Montana" has been updated with information on rivers, streams and lakes with maps.

In "Great Places Montana" Robbins shares personal experiences that will guide the reader through the myriad of public lands, National and State Parks, National Wildlife Refuges, Wildlife Management areas as well as Lewis and Clark sites.

Chuck will be signing copies of his books at The Bookstore on Friday, December 12th from 6:00-8:00 pm

Toy's for Tot's

Tis the season for giving and receiving! Please consider giving to Toy's for Tot's New and unwrapped gifts are greatly needed. There are many ways and locations in which to make a difference.

- Collection boxes are set out at Britt's Bake Shop, Kings, Murdochs and The Bank of Commerce.
- Van's IGA is accepting cash donations, so add your name to the Toys for Tots train.
- if you'd like to make a larger donation but request a receipt, drop by HUB International (33 E Helena) and Kim can accept the donation and provide a receipt.
- The Bicentennial Apartments are coordinating a Senior Tree and they would welcome senior gifts or cash donations as well.

Thanks Dillon for helping make it a Merry Christmas for all of our community members, big and small alike
