RECOMMENDING INFLUENZA VACCINE

Beaverhead County seeing a significant increase in flu cases, Public Health is recommending influenza vaccine now

Beaverhead County Public Health is seeing a significant increase in confirmed influenza cases. In the last 2 weeks, the number of cases reported has public health officials worried as this signals an early start to the influenza season. According to Montana Department of Public Health and Human Services, this is a similar pattern seen across the country with several states reporting outbreaks and an increase in hospitalizations. Montana has reported 38 hospitalizations so far with one of them from Beaverhead County. Early data from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) suggests that this flu season could be severe.

It is important that everyone take steps to protect themselves and others by getting vaccinated against the flu. This is still the best thing anyone can do to reduce their chances of infection. There are two different formulations of vaccine, one that protects against three types of strains and one that protects against four. CDC has reported that one strain being seen is not a perfect match with the vaccine but there are more than one strain circulating and the one strain that is not a perfect match will still provide some protection. No vaccines are 100% effective, so even if you do contract influenza after receiving the vaccine, the potential for serious disease is lessened and may reduce your chance of severe illness and hospitalization. Flu vaccine is still available in Dillon and Public Health encourages you to get vaccinated as soon as possible if you have not already done so. Remember, the vaccine takes about two weeks before it provides protection. It is important to do this now as people begin to travel for the Holidays and potentially spread the flu.

Public Health also stresses the importance of STAYING HOME when you are sick so you don't spread flu to your co-workers who may become ill and bring it home to their families. Children under the age of 5, the elderly, and those with weakened immune system are at high risk of complications if they get the flu. Other steps include covering your mouth and nose with a tissue when coughing or sneezing and washing your hands often. Remember to clean objects that you touch frequently (TV remotes, mouse, door knobs, light switches, etc.).

People who are at high risk for flu complications should see their healthcare provider as soon as possible if they become ill with flu-like symptoms (headache, body aches, cough, and fever). Antiviral medication can be given to lessen the severity of the illness if the person is seen within 2 days of the onset of symptoms.

Vaccine can be obtained at local healthcare providers, pharmacies, or through Beaverhead County Public Health located at 41 Barrett Street. For more information, please call Public Health at 683-4771.

to access these jobs, give them a leg up and simultaneously grow the manufacturing sector in Montana." The announcement and presentation was made Thursday, December 18th, at the Helena College Airport Building. Students, industry representatives and Montana University System leaders were present at the announcement along with Mr. Gianforte. The Gianforte Family Foundation gift of $500,000 to the Student Assistance Foundation, a private non-profit student financial assistance corporation, will be used by students attending certain programs in several colleges in Montana (see list below). Commissioner of Higher Education Clayton Christian said the scholarship gift by the Gianforte family will provide many opportunities for students to train for good jobs in growing industries. "Montana's manufacturing sector has made it clear to our colleges that we have a shortage of qualified workers for a lot of high-wage jobs," said Christian. Tom Spika (speaking), president of Spika Welding and Manufacturing, said student access to industrial training programs is a key to a healthy economy for Montana. "This gift is great news for Montana manufacturers as well as students who are considering a career in the manufacturing field," said Spika, who serves as chairman of the Montana Manufacturing Council, a subsidiary of the Montana Chamber of Commerce. "We are experiencing a severe skills gap and workforce shortage for many of us requiring skilled welders, machinists, and other manufacturing positions, and this scholarship will go far in promoting and facilitating a workforce to match these current and future job opportunities." The scholarship gift will provide up to $125,000 worth of assistance for four consecutive college semesters, beginning Spring Semester 2015, for students enrolled in manufacturing and certain industrial training programs. The scholarships will become available immediately for use starting this Spring Semester of 2015. Colleges will be communicating to students and prospective students about the application procedures. The scholarships have a priority on covering up to 50 percent of tuition for veterans and lower income applicants for certificate and two-year degree programs that lead to jobs in manufacturing such as welding or machining. John Cech, Deputy Commissioner of Higher Education for Two-Year and Community College Education, said the gift from the Gianforte family will improve student access to degree and certificate programs that convert into jobs that pay good wages in growing in-
