Beaverhead Co. S&R Press Release

During the past weekend the Beaverhead Search and Rescue was called out twice. The first incident took place on Saturday, January 17. It started off as a search for two Dillon residents, a father and his 17 year old daughter. The two were participating in the Rocky Mountain Supply Coyote Festival. They had driven to Dell where they unloaded their side by side and headed up Sage Creek. After traveling quite a distance up Sage Creek they tried to cross a creek. The vehicle broke through the ice and it became wedged in the creek. There was no way they were getting the vehicle out so the two started walking. It was determined they walked at least 6 miles to acquire cell service. At 2:30 am dispatch received a 911 call from the party of two. Dispatch was unable to distinguish all of what was being said and lost contact. At that time Dispatch paged for search managers.

Park Scott was the search manager working with the sheriff's department. They contacted family members to determine if they were overdue or just what the circumstances were. It was determined the father and daughter were spending the night out coyote hunting. But because of the 911 call, it was assumed something serious had happened. Park and dispatch were just about to page the entire S&R unit when another call was received from the two individuals. They informed dispatch of their location and that no one was injured. At that time the Beaverhead Search and Rescue unit was no longer needed so all pages were cancelled. Since there were no injuries and the father-in-law and wife/mother knew there were no other pressing issues to deal with, they drove out and picked up the two individuals. Everyone returned home safe and sound.

The second incident took place in the Morrison Lake area. A 54 year old resident from Lima had gone to Morrison Lake to ice fish and had not returned home that evening. Before leaving town the gentleman had called a friend and informed him where he was going and that if he hadn't returned by 1800 hours to contact search and rescue. When he had not returned the informed individual and a friend went looking for the overdue gentleman. After driving as far as they could toward Morrison Lake with no success, they returned to Lima and contacted the sheriff's office.

At 2330 hours dispatch put out a page for search managers. After search manager Steve Scott conferred with the sheriff and deputies, it was determined the incident could have critical components to it so the entire S&R unit was paged. A hasty team of Mike Clark and Wilbur Holt was dispatched up Big Sheep Creek to Morrison Lake. A second team consisting of Park Scott, Nikki Cowperthwait, and Brian DeMars was dispatched to the area with 4 wheelers that had tracks. The hasty team was unable to reach the gentleman's due to snow conditions. The second team was able to make it to the individual's location. He was then transported out safely. He was in good condition. The fisherman had made it to Morrison Lake in his pickup. After fishing for a few hours, he decided to head out but the wind had blown in his tracks from earlier that day. He missed a corner on the road and had buried his truck in a snow drift. They will return later to get the truck out.

Dillonite.com is Online

The Dillonite Daily, has a new online home. Dillonite.com is where you can find today's issue as well as the last ten issues. The site, created by Harv Lake, Jr., formerly of TodayInDillon.com is updated each day the Dillonite Daily is published.

Womack's Printing uploads the issue as soon as it is created. This gives you, the reader a chance to keep up on things when and where you want. Brenda Womack said, "Our printed versions will still be available, this just makes the Dillonite Daily more available."

Harv Lake said, "This allows locals easy access from home or the office. It also increases readership for people coming to the area. Those ads in the Dillonite Daily just got more valuable."

Womack's wants to thank Harv for his continued support in getting the Dillonite out to the public!

BULLDOGS FALL TO SKYLIGHTS

The UofM Western women's basketball team was looking for its first win of the Conference season instead the Bulldogs ran into a Skylight team on a roll, falling 60-37.

Montana Western continued to rely on a stingy defense to combat the height of 6 foot 5 MSU-Northern center Ajha Edwards who was fresh off consecutive week NAIA national player of the week honors. Through the first half the scheme worked as the Bulldogs trailed by just eight at the half after negating Edward's impact on the offensive end. Unfortunately for the Bulldogs the Skylights was ready to demonstrate their depth. "They are really good," Montana Western head coach Lindsay Woolley said. "We probably focused too much on the big kid and their other players made us pay." Northern's Natalee Faupel accounted for 13 of the first 17 Skylight points on her way to a perfect 4-4 effort from three.

In the second half the Skylights continued to distribute the ball and the Bulldogs offense stalled. "We couldn't get anything done offensively and a large reason was their defense, said Woolley. Montana Western was lead by Melody McCloud with eight points and three rebounds, and Kaci Matthies who tallied six points and five rebounds.

Saga January 21, 2015

By: MJ

Have you been to meetings where you just shake your head in disbelief? Wednesday night's council meeting was one of those meetings. Interested citizens sat in the audience to watch some council members seated around the council table sharing pointless chit chat. Chit-chat that ignored the facts about the reconstruction of bonds to save people and improve the financial status of the city.

The meeting went smoothly until it got to Mayor Klakken's plan of how to reduce the debt load of the city. At that point the discontent was apparent. It appeared some of the council members may or may not have understood what the mayor was asking for, others may or may not of had a clear understanding of the outline presented and others appeared not to be interested in discussing the documents presented. Then there were several other members that clearly understood what the mayor was trying to achieve and presented a productive attitude.

In the council's packets was informational sheets outlining in detail a process that could save the city 7± million dollars over the next 20 years. The outline only contained estimated figures. The actual and final figures cannot be determined until the city takes the next step forward and obtains contracts from Piper Jaffray and Bond Council.

Councilman Troedsson had some trepidation about the bond council the mayor was working with in Helena. Mayor Klakken explained that the state statute says a person cannot practice law in Montana if you do not have a Montana law license. Troedsson indicated that it was possible to work with other bond council. Following the law is usually the cheapest way to go. Example: You break the speed limits or intoxication laws long enough you will eventually get caught. At that time you might lose everything you have including your home, your family, your freedom… Piper Jaffray: Why was the mayor working with Piper Jaffray was another question asked by the council. Mayor explained that they were offering the best deal at the time.

Councilman Achter made a motion to allow the mayor to obtain the contracts and move the process forward. Motion carried.

At the meeting Wednesday the Mayor was only asking the council to give him permission to proceed with procuring contracts from Piper Jaffray and Bond Council. Upon getting the contracts the council would have the actual and finalized figures to work with. They would then review them and decide if they wanted to continue the process by signing on the dotted line or VETO it? Council's choice.

NOTE: When a bond is received the money cannot be used for any other purpose than what bond was taken out for. Example: The 9 million dollar bond is for the upgrade of sewage plant. That money cannot be used to fix the streets according to the law.

Story of the 379th squadron of the 8th Air Force in WWII

Join us at the Depot Theatre on the evening of January 29th at 7:00 p.m.to hear the stories of Joe Carroll and Larry Chambers about their adventures and memories of the 379th group of B17 bombers in Europe during World War II.

Mr. Carroll was a B17 pilot and has written a book called A While in the Wild Blue that he will be offering for sale before and after the presentation. He will be autographing the books as well.

Mr. Chambers has a power point presentation of many of the airplanes and the events.

Please come to this free event and share the memories of these two gentlemen.

BULLDOGS' WIN STREAK HALTED BY LIGHTS

As has been the case for most of Coach Steve Keller's eight year tenure, the University of Montana Western men's basketball team trekked north to find the MSU-Northern Lights ready to play the spoiler. The Bulldogs suffered their first conference light and saw their 13 game win streak end in a 68-56 loss to the Lights.

The Bulldogs entered the contest 3-0 in the Frontier Conference while the Lights were 0-4, but the history between these teams suggested that the win was anything but guaranteed to Montana Western. The first half started as a battle between the teams in which the stats were nearly identical except for shooting percentage. Northern shot 57 percent from beyond the arc to knock down eight treys and went 7-7 from the stripe to build a 13-point lead at the intermission. Montana Western was slowed by a 29 percent effort from the floor and 75 percent accuracy from the free throw line in the first period.

The Bulldogs roared back into the game with a 10-0 run to start the second half, but could get no closer as Northern drained back-to-back threes and never looked back. The Lights' offensive efficiency continued in the second period as Northern shot 44.2 percent in the game, added five more three point baskets, and didn't miss a free throw until less than two minutes remained, finishing 17-18 from the stripe. Montana Western managed just 26.7 percent shooting from long range, 42.9 percent from the floor, and 55.6 percent from the line. Just two Bulldogs contributed double digits points, Dexter Williams, Jr with 19 and Stephen McCall with 15.

Deer & Elk Permit Applications

Montana's new 2015 hunting and fishing year begins March 1. Licenses will go on sale—and applications for resident and nonresident deer and elk hunting permits will be available—Jan. 26.

Deer and elk permit applications and information will also be available online at fwp.mt.gov; click "March 16—Deer & Elk Permits" beginning Monday, Jan. 26, at 9 a.m. The application deadline is March 16.

FWP urges hunters to apply online. "It's fast, convenient and accurate," said Ron Aasheim, FWP spokesman in Helena.

Nonresidents seeking to apply for big game combination, elk combination or deer combination licenses and deer and elk permits for the 2015 fall Montana hunting season can also apply online or download an application from FWP's website. To request an application by mail, write to: Licensing Section; Montana FWP; P.O. Box 200701, Helena MT; 59620-0701; or call: 406-444-2950.

Aasheim said May 1 is the deadline to apply for moose, sheep, goat and bison licenses and June 1 for antlerless deer B and elk B licenses and antelope and antelope B licenses.

Montana's upcoming hunting and fishing license year runs from March 1 to Feb. 29, 2016.
