National Brain Injury Awareness Month (March 2015)

Here are some tips from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) and the Brain Injury Association of America to reduce the chances that you or your family members will have a brain injury.

- Wear a seat belt every time you drive or ride in a motor vehicle.
- Always buckle your child into a child safety seat, booster seat, or seat belt (according to the child's height, weight, and age) in the car.
- Never drive while under the influence of alcohol or drugs.
- Wear a helmet and make sure your children wear helmets when:
 - Riding a bike, motorcycle, snowmobile, or all-terrain vehicle;
 - Playing a contact sport, such as football, ice hockey, or boxing;
 - Using in-line skates or riding a skateboard;
 - Batting and running bases in baseball or softball;
 - Riding a horse; or
 - Skiing or snowboarding.
- Avoid falls in the home by: Make sure the surface on your child's playground is made of shock-absorbing material, such as hardwood, mulch, and sand.

Here is a list of common symptoms of a brain injury (concussion). If you or a family member has a head injury and you notice any of the symptoms on the list, call your doctor right away. Describe the injury and symptoms, and ask if you should make an appointment to see your own doctor or another specialist.

- Using a step stool with a grab bar to reach objects on high shelves;
- Installing handrails on stairways;
- Installing window guards to keep young children from falling out of open windows;
- Using safety gates at the top and bottom of stairs when young children are around;
- Removing tripping hazards such as small area rugs and loose electrical cords;
- Using non-slip mats in the bathtub and on shower floors;
- Putting grab bars next to the toilet and in the tub or shower;
- Maintaining a regular exercise program to improve strength, balance, and coordination; and
- Seeing an eye doctor regularly for a vision check to help lower the risk of falling.
- Keep firearms stored unloaded in a locked cabinet or safe. Store bullets in a separate secured location.

BULLDOGS OPEN NATIONAL TOURNAMENT AGAINST RAVENS

The Montana Western men's basketball team is making final preparations for their first round matchup at the 2015 Buffalo Funds-NAIA Men's Basketball National Championship tournament in Kansas City, Mo. The Bulldogs will tip off the sixth game of the 32-team tournament Wednesday evening against Benedictine College.

The Ravens are making their second consecutive appearance after a 45-year absence from the national tournament, while the Bulldogs were invited for the fifth time in six seasons. Aside from the experience difference, the Bulldogs and Ravens appear to be evenly matched opponents. Montana Western finished 18 and Benedictine 16 in the final coaches' poll of the season. Montana Western claimed a share of the regular season title in the Frontier Conference and Benedictine won the Heart of America Athletic Conference crown.

Each squad was upset in their conference tournaments, Benedictine in the semifinal round, and Montana Western in the tournament championship. The Ravens arrived in Kansas City with a 24-8 record and the Bulldogs enter at 22-9. Each program is one of three national championship qualifiers from its conference.

The Bulldog offense has the statistical advantage as Montana Western averages 81 points per game to Benedictine's 69. The Ravens have scored a third of their points this season from beyond the three-point arc while the Bulldogs long range game accounts for one-fourth of their offensive output. Both teams boast three players with double-digit scoring averages, but Bulldog junior Dexter Williams Jr. leads both squads with more than 15 points per game and a spot in the national field goal percentage top 20.

Both teams will rely on defensive intensity to set the tone in the contest. Benedictine ranks fourth nationally for scoring defense and holds top 20 spots in four other defensive statistical categories. Montana Western claims six top 20 defensive statistics rankings in categories from defensive rebounds to steals per game. The Bulldogs' defensive effort is led by two-time Frontier Conference Defensive Player of the Year, senior Kris Castro who haunts opponents from his guard/forward position. The Ravens' defense is anchored by senior forward Jallen Messersmith, the Heart of America Athletic Conference Defensive Player of the Year for the past two seasons.

The contest tips at 6 p.m. Wednesday and is available as a pay-per-view webcast from the NAIA. The winner will advance to face the winner of the matchup between number one seed Hope International and the 32 seed West Virginia Tech.

Barrett Hospital Foundation, Safeway, and Adventure Cycle & Sled Team up to Raise Funds for Mammography Program

Barrett Hospital Foundation, Safeway and Adventure Cycle & Sled teamed up to hold a game of chance drawing in November 2014 for a pink Polaris Outlaw 50 Youth ATV. Thanks to the generous donation of the Polaris Outlaw 50, which was valued at $2,100, by Chris and Kim Tomlinson of Adventure Cycle & Sled, $4,808.05 was raised for the Southwestern Montana Mammography program.

The Mammography Program provides screening and diagnostic imaging for women throughout the region. Each year, the hospital provides digital mammograms to women of Southwestern Montana, and on average 5 and as many as 10 breast cancers are detected each year.

According to Jim Gleason, Executive Director of the Foundation, "Chris & Kim Tomlinson's continuing generosity has made this fundraiser an ongoing success for the Southwestern Montana Mammography Program. Many of our community members have directly benefited from this program and the Tomlinson's have stepped up to the plate to take the lead once again. We are grateful to them and their ongoing care for their community. In addition, the employees of Safeway have once again shown their support by organizing silent auctions and selling raffle tickets. Thank you to all who participated."

For more information, please contact Barrett Hospital Foundation at (406) 683-6737.
