Saga - City Council

By MJ

Council members present: Mr. McIsaac, Dr. Straugh, Mr. Shafer, Mr. Nye, Mr. Hodge and Mr. Gore.

There was no lack of conversation around the table between the council members. They had many questions, suggestions and ideas on all issues on the agenda. There was a new happening presented by Councilman Gore. Mr. Gore, at the beginning of the meeting placed his own personal videocam recorder on the table in front of him and directed it at the audience. Not sure what his reasoning was as the city audio records the meetings and that includes the members of the audience. It appears that Mr. Gore had not discussed using his personal videocam with the Mayor or City Attorney before the meeting.

Question: Is a copy of the recorded tape at the city hall for public viewing as Mr. Gore was seated at the table at the council meeting representing the public's business. If a public representative uses his personal computer for public business they are required by law to file a copy with the city.

Minutes for six (6) council meetings, of which three were special meetings, were read and approved. Presented were letters from: MT Food Bank Network, MT; Dept. of Administration Response to FY 2015 Audit Report responding to audit report for year ending June 30, 2014 and Final Payment Schedule from contractor Dick Anderson. Mr. Anderson withdrew his bid of $249,000± to construct a building.

A letter from Ms. Debbie Scott, election Administrator regarding the "Recall Election" for Mr. Derek Gore to be held April 28, 2015. Mr. Gore was one of three (3) council members that a recall petition was circulated on. District Judge ruled in favor of the recall petitions finding the council members had broken the Open Meeting Laws. After Judge Tucker ruled the council members could resign their positions or asked for a special election. Mr. Gore elected to have a special election held, at the expense of the city instead of resigning.

Mayor Klakken submitted his written VETO of Resolution to Purchase Headworks Building at a cost of 249,000± dollars. Council accepted (did not over ride) Mayor Klakken's Veto. This building would of replaced the temporary windbreaker that the Mayor had city employee provide for $1,000±.

The city employees constructed a small temporary windbreaker to protect the unit from wind/cold during winter months. Rumor on the street was that Councilman Gore filed a complaint with Mr. Turner, Director of Operations on the existing temporary windbreaker being unsafe for the employees to enter. Mt. State Inspectors came down to take gas readings and found the building was free of dangerous gases and safe for the employees to enter & complete the work at hand.

Mayor Klakken was taken by surprise when he found out the State Inspectors were coming to Dillon. There seemed to have been a breakdown of communication between the Mayor, Mr. Turner and Councilmember Gore. Looks like maybe lessons are in order on talking to each other however it was a encouraging to have confirmed by the experts that nobody has been in danger with the existing windbreak. Mayor Dr. Klakken did his due diligence and did not put the city employees in danger of poisonous gases.

Council Seats Opened

By: MJ

Mr. Achter and Mr. Cottom have resigned their position on the council therefore Ward #2 has two (2) openings for a council person. One applicant has been submitted to the city.

It's not easy to serve the public however the amenities the city provides are enjoyed by all. It takes a devoted group of people to keep those services available. Being part of a group that wants to see Dillon remain a viable community is rewarding. Call Mayor Klakken at 683-2045 and asked what is required for you to apply for one of the positions.

If nobody applies then the position will remain empty.

Death Tax Repeal is Long Overdue

By Phil Kerpen

On April 13, 2005 the House of Representatives voted overwhelmingly, 272 to 162, to permanently repeal the federal estate tax, also known as the death tax. But in the ten years since, they have all but dropped the issue. A stunning 236 of the current members of the House have never had an opportunity to vote on it. Fortunately, the Ways & Means Committee under Chairman Paul Ryan (R-Wis.) will soon consider a bill, H.R. 1105, written by Reps. Kevin Brady (R-Texas) and Sanford Bishop (D-Ga.) that would repeal the death tax. House leadership should bring it to the floor before April's tenth anniversary of the last such vote, because it's a winning issue both politically and economically.

Polls consistently show the death tax is hated by the American people. A 2006 study by two Yale professors, Mayling Birney and Ian Shapiro, did a comprehensive review of this issue. They said: "Many polls since the late 1990s have shown widespread public support for estate tax repeal, in the range of 60, 70 or 80 percent. Moreover, supporters appear to be spread more or less equally across income groups, contrary to what self-interest would predict."

The study's remarkable findings, which confounded the study's authors, belie the claim that strong public support for repeal depends on misunderstanding or misleading information. They found surprisingly high public support regardless of who asked the questions or how they were phrased.

Most recently, a November 2014 survey by Public Opinion Strategies that asked the neutral question: "Do you personally favor or oppose completely eliminating the estate tax, that is, the tax on property left by people to their family when they die?" found the public supports repeal by a typically robust 61 to 35 percent margin, with even a majority of Democrats supporting repeal.

Americans fundamentally do not believe that death should be a taxable event. The Founders of our country believed this so strongly that they included a clause in the U.S. Constitution that forbids seizing an estate at death as a punishment for treason. Yet, we now have a tax on the books that takes up to 40 percent of everything a person leaves to his or her children as a punishment for success, for achieving the American Dream.

The death tax punishes virtue and rewards vice. It tells older Americans: "You can't take it with you, and you can't leave it to your kids." So it discourages and punishes the traditional American virtues of hard work and thrift, savings, and investment, while it encourages lavish, reckless consumption.

That has serious economic consequences. A broad coalition of free-market and business groups organized by the Family Business Coalition recently noted in a letter to Congress that multiple recent studies show repeal would create over 100,000 jobs, and that the tax is responsible for the destruction of $1.1 trillion in capital. A new study from the Tax Foundation finds that the U.S. now has the fourth highest death tax in the OECD and that 13 countries have completely repealed their death taxes since 2000. They found repeal would boost the U.S. capital stock 2.2 percent, resulting in a net increase in federal revenues.

The bottom line is the death tax is wrong, and advocates of economic freedom shouldn't be afraid to say so and fight for full repeal. While liberal editorial pages and cable news talkers will shriek about it, the American people strongly support repeal. The House has a great opportunity to do the right thing by bringing H.R. 1105 to the floor for a vote, and, with the tenth anniversary of the last vote approaching, they should do so as soon as possible.
