HAPPY 3 MONTH BIRTHDAY TO MY NEW STEM CELLS

First of all - I want to thank everybody who helped me get to India to participate in the clinical trial with adult stem cells for the MS I have been diagnosed with for 31 years. I have been back in Dillon since the 31st of January and at work at Pioneer Federal since 2/9/15. This was a much more grueling trip than my trip to Tel Aviv/Athens for my first set of cells in '10. One reason being that the India side of the company "fired" the Canadian company and the principal director of the company the day before I left out of Bozeman to meet my brother in Las Vegas to fly to Mumbai. A facebook "war" broke out about it and many believed that we (4 of us) who were scheduled for treatment in Pune, India would have to re-pay for our treatment. As you can only imagine, that caused a great amount of stress/anxiety. Well, I don't deal great with either stress or anxiety and arrived in Pune after a 5 hr flight from Vegas to Newark, 13 hr flight to Mumbai and a 4 hr harrowing taxi ride to the hospital with a raging interstitial cystitis flare which caused me to use the rest room every 20 min - 2 hrs around the clock. This bladder disease has no real effective treatment for those flares and in an unknown country finding adequate bathroom facilities only added to the anxiety. - So I was miserable. An example of what made me nervous was when we stopped at McDonald's somewhere in that 4 hr ride (approx 120 miles = traffic was scary) only to find out that the bathroom was on the second floor with no handrails on the stairs. these are the kind of things that make me crazy.

All procedures went off without a hitch. Nothing was overly painful - just a little uncomfortable. First we were given x'rays and an EKG (machines were not as up to date as those we have in the USA). Then bone marrow cells were extracted from our hips. Those cells grew for a couple of days and then were given back to us during the CCSVI procedure. Only my right jugular had again restenosis since my CCSVI procedure in California in '11. I was semi awake during this and felt the cells in my chest area which was somewhat "weird".

As the cells grew for more days, my brother, Ed and I hung out in our suite and watched lots of old TV shows/movies. I did go to physio 2 times a day every day - here also the machines were nothing like exercise machines we have in dillon but the pt's were so sweet. They had me walking some with no assistance and their favorite thing to say to me was "slowly" - they didn't know that slowly with the bladder flare wasn't an option:)

For some reason my feet ballooned up to look like elephant's feet about 5-6 days into our journey. Several doctors were stumped as to why they did this and sent me for more unplanned tests. The sonogram and another detailed EKG showed nothing so I was sent to the suite to keep my legs elevated. That didn't affect the most important procedure - the spinal tap placement of my cells. It was also the MOST uncomfortable of the procedures. The long needle with the cells was inserted into our spinal cord. We were then sent to our rooms to lie motionless for 8 hrs then limited movement for 24 hrs. I prayed hard that none of us cellmates would have the spinal tap headaches that often happen. God answered my prayers but I should have also asked for no pain in the legs/arches of feet/back, etc also because we all experienced some degree of those pains. Everyone took pain medications 'cept me.

So are my cells working??? I can honestly say - NOT AS FAST AS I WOULD LIKE THEM TO!! One of the reasons being that I had to recover from the jet lag/lack of sleep because of the bladder and having stayed awake in the Mumbai airport for over 24 hrs to catch a flight home. I am seeing some minor improvements. I can now sleep without sleeping pills. I started working out at the Y and started going to physical therapy - both of which are beneficial for my muscles and moving my new stem cells to where they will work on healing the scars in my nervous system.

Would I do it again? No, not to India again - too long of trip and stay in a hospital. The people in India were fantastic but????? Good thing that I won't have to go to India for followup 'cuz the India portion of the company and the doctor who treated us have opened a clinic in Trinidad so those of us in this part of the world don't have to travel as far. My plans? For now I will keep up with pt & exercise - looking to God for direction on which way to proceed to improve my life. There are interesting things in the pipeline to treat MS and I will be researching each new treatment.

THANX again to all who have been there for me!

Bighorn Sheep Die-off Prompts Second Hunting District Closure

Montana's Fish & Wildlife Commission today closed another bighorn sheep hunting district, this one north of Plains in northwestern Montana, due to a suspected disease-related die-off.

This action came in response to a suspected die-off that's claimed more than 90 bighorn sheep from hunting district 122 within the past two years, leaving only 18 seen during a helicopter survey earlier this month, the lowest count since the herd's introduction in 1979.

Wildlife managers say that the reason for the decline in hunting district 122 can't be determined with certainty they suspect pneumonia, which could be related to interactions with domestic sheep on the winter range in 2012 and 2013.

"The rapid population decline is typical of a disease outbreak," said Neil Anderson, FWP's wildlife manager in Kalispell. "Because the southern Cabinet Mountains are so rugged we haven't yet documented typical symptoms like coughing nor have we located any dead bighorn sheep. In that mountainous country, a sick bighorn could easily die in the rugged cliffs and not be found."

Commissioners voted unanimously via a conference call to close the 2015 bighorn sheep season in hunting district 122 to further protect the herd and to preclude hunters from applying for licenses there.

Prior to this emergency closure, FWP had offered six either-sex and four ewe licenses in the district.

Hunting district 122 would reopen to hunting when the population recovers. The 2015 hunting season in hunting district 122 would have run Sept. 5-14 for archery and Sept. 15-Nov. 29 for the general season.

The deadline to apply for moose, bighorn sheep, mountain goat and bison permits is May 1.

Burning to Begin near Anaconda Job Corps

Fire officials from the Pintler Ranger District are planning prescribed burning activities which may result in visible smoke periodically over the next 4 to 5 weeks. Firefighters will conduct two prescribed burns in the Anaconda Job Corps Wildland Urban Interface Hazardous Fuels Abatement Project area.

The Anaconda Job Corps hazardous fuels abatement project was approved in 2009 using stewardship authority and involved: timber harvest; fuels reduction treatments adjacent to the Anaconda Job Corps; and prescribed burning. Fire crews will burn under prescribed conditions and monitor these burns after ignition to ensure the burns are contained within their boundaries. For more information regarding these prescribed burns, contact either Joe Brabender, or Jim Harrington at the Pintler Ranger District at (406) 859-3211.

MONTANA WESTERN RODEO PILES UP POINTS IN GLENDIVE

The Montana Western women's rodeo team moved into second place in the regional standings and the men held the top spot after competing in the Dawson Community College spring rodeo.

Senior Justinn Marshall claimed the goat tying title by posting the fastest time of the weekend, 7.0 seconds in the final round. Sophomore Tess Turk also collected points in the goat tying, and sophomore Conlee Gray scored in both the barrel racing and breakaway roping events.

"Conlee had an outstanding weekend, she and her horse really connected," head coach Iola Else commented. "Justinn and Tess were also able to pull it together to get us out of a slump following a rough fall season."

The Montana Western women finished second in the rodeo but earned enough points to move into second place in the team standings with just two competitions remaining. If the Bulldogs can hold off third place University of Montana, they will earn a team invitation to the 2015 College National Finals Rodeo.

In the men's competition, senior Newt Novich earned the all-around title following second place finishes in the steer wrestling and with fellow senior Kane Cartwright in the team roping event. Junior Jade Gardner maintained his lead in the tie down roping standings by earning points in Sunday's short go, while sophomore Holden Garrison had the fast time of the final round.

Freshman Tristan Hansen and senior J2 Bridges earned points in the bareback event. Garrison, senior Ian Austiguy and freshman Jake Worthen also earned points in the steer wrestling. Tyler Friend and Dakota Munns, both juniors, gathered points in the saddle bronc event. The men's team finished in second place for the weekend, maintaining their lead in the Big Sky Region.
