MONTANA WESTERN RODEO SETS SIGHTS ON CNFR

The Bulldog rodeo teams completed the 2014-2015 National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association Big Sky Region schedule with team trophies, individual awards, and 10 invitations to the College National Finals Rodeo (CNFR).

The men's team claimed the Big Sky Region team championship by a margin of 536 points over second place Montana State University. Both teams will take a full contingent of athletes to the CNFR held June 14-20 in Casper, Wyo. The teams must be formed first from cowboys who finished in the top three of their event, earning an individual invitation to the CNFR, and then from individuals in the top 30 percent of contestants in their event.

Bulldog junior Phil Shields claimed the men's all-around champion saddle while teammates junior Tyler Friend and senior Kane Cartwright finished third and fourth in the all-around rankings. To be considered in the all-around standings,

Shields earned championship saddles in both the saddle bronc and bull riding events. Friend finished second in the saddle bronc event and fifth in the team roping header competition. Cartwright posted a second place finish in the steer wrestling, and a third among headers in team roping. Freshman Tristan Hansen also posted an impressive point total during the season with 690 points in saddle bronc, 130 in bull riding, and 319 in team roping, but narrowly missed a CNFR berth in his first season of collegiate competition.

Three other Bulldogs earned points in the saddle bronc competition throughout the year, junior Dakota Munns, junior Will Shirley, and senior Doug Hall. In the bareback even Hansen was joined in the point total by senior J2 Bridges and sophomore Carson Clements.

In addition to Cartwright and Friend, six Bulldog men collected points as headers in the team roping competition. Senior Ian Austiguy finished in fourth place in the event while seniors Nick Xeros, Parker Bignell, and Jesse Mediaris, sophomore Paul Peterson, and freshman Jake Worthen roped their way into the standings.

On the heeler side of the team roping, sophomore Holden Garrison finished in third place, just ahead of Hansen, seniors Newt Novich and Kolby Bignell, juniors Jade Gardner, Dane Andreasen and Colin Moore, sophomores Mike Vines, Shay Wacker, and freshman Tyrell Schofield collected points in the event.

Steer wrestling continued to be a strong area for the Bulldogs as Cartwright, Novich and Austiguy claimed the second through fourth spots. Senior Kolby Bignell, Bridges, Vines, Garrison and Worthen also earned points in the bulldogging.

IF YOU CARE—LEAVE THEM THERE

Every spring Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks issues a message to Montanans to leave new born fawns, birds, and other infant wildlife where people find them.

"If you care, leave them there," said Ron Aasheim, spokesman for Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks in Helena.

Aasheim said that most birds, for instance, learn to fly from the ground up, and not from the nest.

"Whether you find a fawn or fledgling bird under a tree in a neighbor's yard or bunny under a bush it's important to know that wild animals commonly cache their young for periods of time to protect them from predators while the adults are feeding."

Montana law prohibits the capture, feeding, possession and harassment of wildlife—both game and nongame species. These laws also protect Montana's wild animals from becoming "pets."

To learn more about living with Montana's wildlife, visit the FWP website at fwp.mt.gov then Living With Wildlife.

OPEN HOUSES SET TO DISCUSS 2016-2019 FISHING REGULATIONS

Montana Fish, Wildlife and Parks is hosting a number of public open house meetings statewide this month to discuss regulations for the 2016-2019 fishing seasons. In Region 3, meetings have been set for both Bozeman and Butte as follows:

- May 26 at 6:30 p.m. – Bozeman; FWP Region 3 HQ, 1400 South 19th Ave.

- May 28 at 6:30 p.m. – Butte; USFS Butte Ranger District; 1820 Meadowlark

Anyone interested is invited to review or submit ideas that could change fishing regulations for 2016-2019.

"Every four years, fishing regulations in Montana undergo comprehensive review, and that's happening now," explained Joel Tohtz, FWP's fisheries management bureau chief in Helena. "We're asking anglers to offer their thoughts on what needs to be considered when the 2016-2019 fishing regulations are proposed to the Fish & Wildlife Commission in July."

To view suggestions for regulation changes, visit FWP's website at fwp.mt.gov, then click Fishing Regulations-2016-19. Public comments must be submitted by May 31. Comments can also be sent by mail to: Montana FWP Fisheries Division, P.O. Box 200701, Helena, MT 59620-0701.

Regulations proposals will be available for further review and public comment through August, with final regulations presented for Fish & Wildlife Commission approval in October.

Free Greater Yellowstone Area Xeriscaping Guide

As another growing season is beginning, the Greater Yellowstone Coordinating Committee encourages people to be mindful and efficient in their water use and to utilize practices that use less water in their residential or business landscaping. The committee's Sustainable Operations Subcommittee is now offering a free, illustrated, color booklet entitled "Xeriscape Landscaping in the Greater Yellowstone Area" which includes suggestions for water-conserving plants and landscaping techniques.

"This year's lower-than-average snowpack across most of the Greater Yellowstone Area has caused renewed interest in water-wise landscaping," said the booklet's co-author and project coordinator, Jane Ruchman, Landscape Architect for the Custer Gallatin National Forest. "Decreasing our landscaping water use also decreases the energy required for pumping and distribution. It's a win-win approach to landscaping."

Water and energy conservation is a priority for the Greater Yellowstone Coordinating Committee, a group that is comprised of the Greater Yellowstone Area federal land managers.

For a free copy of this booklet, call your local Forest Service office on the Custer Gallatin, Shoshone, Bridger-Teton, Caribou-Targhee national forests, or the Madison Ranger District in Ennis. Blake Nursery, which provided valuable assistance in the creation of the guide. An electronic copy is posted online at <http://fedgycc.org/SOSOverview.htm>. For more information, contact Jane Ruchman at (406) 587-6966.

BEAVERHEAD OUTDOORS ASSOCIATION

The Beaverhead Outdoors Association will meet this Thursday, 7:00 pm, at the Search & Rescue building. This important meeting will be to set up final preparations for the annual Kid's Fish Day. Kid's Fish Day will again be held on Father's Day weekend, June 20th. Grounds mowing & clean - up will be planned, as well as prizes, food, and other preparations.

Unfortunately the BOA determined that unless more members can be obtained, this may well be our last Kid's Fish Day. It seems that all volunteer organization in our community are suffering from lack of adult members willing to step up. The BOA has exhausted all efforts in obtaining the necessary memberships to keep this organization active. We cancelled our annual banquet fund raiser this year, which was our only fund raiser. Left over funds from the past years will make this year feasible. If you have an interest in keeping the BOA & Kid's Fish Day an annual event for our kids, please attend Thursday's meeting.

Thanks for your consideration.

Opinions

By: MJ

Opinions are like noses, birthdays, arm pits... One might say that legal opinions are like belly buttons, every lawyer has one. Example: Five different lawyers look at the same facts and come up with five different opinions? Regardless of the reasons behind all the different legal opinions, the fact is that information is power. When seeking advice from anyone, the person with the most information will make the wisest decisions.

Opinions are all around us and something we deal with every day of our lives. A sales person will give you the facts as they know them and also their opinion. It is up to you to sort out the facts from personal ideas before you make a purchase. Remember the salesperson's paycheck and possible commission check depends on sales they made. Educated yourself and ask questions before you buy.

Your own opinions should be examined constantly. Identify why you have the opinions you have. Are they formed from your biases, prejudices, preconceptions, your privileges or are they formed out of love, respect, facts...

Remember; you will soon be dead. Your life is sometimes long and tough and God it's tiring. Sometimes you will be happy, sometimes sad and then all of a sudden you are old with new challenges; living with stiffness, pain... There is only one thing to do with life. FILL IT by learning as much as you can about everything, take pride in whatever you are doing, have compassion, share ideas, be enthusiastic... Understand your opinions & take opinions of others, with a grain of salt.

Opinions; are a belief or judgement that rests on grounds insufficient to produce complete certainty, a personal view and attitude. If one gets up on the wrong side of the bed one might have a different opinion at the coffee hour then if they got up on the right side. Just an opinion with no facts to back it up.*
