FWP INVESTIGATING WOLF POACHING CASES

Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks Enforcement is investigating two incidents of poaching occurring in SW MT in the last month.

On May 10, a hiker found a dead wolf in the Gardiner area, a couple hundred yards off Old Yellowstone Trail. FWP staff responded, and determined the wolf to be a yearling female. It is estimated she was shot sometime between May 4 and 7. Prior to May 4, several young wolves had been active in the Cutler Meadows area.

Then, on May 23, an adult male wolf was discovered shot dead at the Ruby River Long Creek Divide just north of the Centennial Valley at the intersection of Ruby Road and Forest Service Road 1216. It is estimated the animal was shot one or two days prior to being found.

As with any species, it is illegal to kill a wolf during a closed season. Penalties for doing so involve a citation and $1,000 in restitution to the state of Montana.

In addition to any TIP-MONT reward, Wolves of the Rockies has offered $2,000 for information that helps FWP solve these crimes.

Regional Supervisor Sam Sheppard said, "We take poaching very seriously and it's no different for wolves. This is a theft and wanton destruction of Montana wildlife resources."

Anyone with information about either of these cases is asked to call 800-TIP-MONT. Callers may remain anonymous and may be eligible for a reward.

Growth Policies

Many of you know that long term Community Plans, known as Growth Policies in Montana, are required for cities and counties. These plans document communities' current status and recommendations to the governing bodies for future development.

Dillon's Planning Board is currently working with Sanderson Stewart to update the City's plan to reflect changes since the last revision in 2009.

Public involvement is an important part of the update process and the first opportunity is scheduled for this coming Tuesday, June 2 from 4:00 - 7:00 p.m. at the Depot, south of the Museum.

Attendees can expect an informal "drop-in" event with various opportunities to learn about the planning process and provide input to the team. Spend as little or as much time as desired. There will also be food and door prizes.

Looking ahead, the second public meeting is set tentatively for July 28th, also 4-7 p.m. at the Depot. Maps and other information will be available and input regarding goals will be solicited.

The public is also welcome at the regular Planning Board meetings which will be focused on the Plan for the next few weeks. As of now, meetings are scheduled for every-other Tuesday: 5/26, 6/9, 6/23, 7/7, and 7/21. All meetings are at 7:00 at the City Council Chambers on Idaho Street.

Finally, information, survey forms, etc. are available at the City of Dillon offices. The 2009 growth policy is available on the web here:

<http://www.dillonmt.org/wp-content/uploads/2015/03/Growth-Policy-FINAL-033109.pdf>

and project updates, draft documents, etc. will be available here:

btpdillon@qwestoffice.net • (406) 683-9844Legislators worked together for public safety, privacyBy Attorney General Tim Fox*

While news coverage of the 2015 Legislative Session focused on high-profile and often contentious issues, legislators in both parties worked together diligently to pass bills I brought forward to improve public safety, protect privacy, and strengthen consumer-protection laws.

Leading up to session, the Montana Department of Justice crafted an ambitious and important legislative agenda aimed at addressing real needs throughout the state. To pass these bills, we enlisted the help of a diverse group of legislators, including Republican and Democrat men and women from all over the state.

Building on our landmark DUI reforms from the 2013 session, Rep. Keith Regier (R-Kalispell) sponsored our bill doubling the minimum fines for DUI offenses and requiring people to pay an administrative fee when they refuse to provide a breath sample. These changes, along with our efforts to expand the 24/7 Sobriety Program around the state, are important in my goal to reduce the number of repeat DUI offenders. One DUI-related death or injury on our highways is too many.

Rep. Kim Dudik (D-Missoula) carried our bill taking a comprehensive approach to addressing human trafficking. It helps ensure that human traffickers are brought to justice, but it also will help foster a victim-centered approach to those impacted by what truly is modern-day slavery.

Working with Rep. Stephanie Hess (R-Havre), we asked the legislature for authorization to create a permanent sexual assault prosecution unit within the Montana Department of Justice. This will help us dedicate resources to train prosecutors and law enforcement throughout the state to better deal with sex crimes that affect so many Montanans. Much more needs to be done on this issue, and I look forward to working with prosecutors, law enforcement, victim advocates, and legislators to achieve real results.

To address real threats to Montanans' privacy, we brought forward three important measures. Sen. Jennifer Fielder (R-Thompson Falls) carried our bill to fix Montana's outdated laws against secretly viewing/recording another person by including the use of cell phone cameras and other means made possible by new technology. Rep. Ryan Lynch (D-Butte) was instrumental in our efforts to require companies doing business in Montana to notify our Office of Consumer Protection whenever they have suffered a breach compromising personal data. Working with Rep. Kirk Wagoner (R-Montana City) to protect constitutional privacy rights, we created penalties for anyone who abuses their authority to access confidential criminal justice information.

Thanks in large part to the hard work of Sen. Diane Sands (D-Missoula), Montana has joined the vast majority of states in prohibiting the sale of electronic cigarettes and "vaping" equipment to minors. We worked together to address the significant risk to our children's health posed by the use of e-cigarettes.

Because a growing number of Montana small businesses are becoming victims of "patent trolling," we worked with Sen. Cary Smith (R-Billings) to set standards for what constitutes a bad-faith assertion of a patent right. Our main-street businesses deserve legal protection from persons or entities that acquire patents not to develop products but for the sole purpose of suing, intimidating, and/or extorting supposed infringers.

These are just some of the 20 bills my office brought forward this year. All of them passed the legislature with broad bipartisan support and were signed into law. Legislators found common ground, worked together, and advanced solutions to address real issues impacting Montanans.

While the legislature's work may be done for now, our work at the Attorney General's Office and the Department of Justice continues. We will use these new laws and tools to improve public safety, protect privacy, and strengthen consumer protection with the goal of helping build a safer and more prosperous Montana.

Tim Fox is the 24th Attorney General of Montana.

New Survey

"A new survey came out and Washington D.C. has been named the fittest city in the country. And it make sense. Just think of all the exercise they get running for re-election, walking back statements, dodging questions, and jumping to conclusions. That's all cardio."

MONTANA WESTERN WOMEN'S BASKETBALL SIGNS CALIFORNIA POINT GUARD

Montana Western head coach Lindsay Woolley has announced the signing of Aniese Palmore of Santa Monica, Calif. to an NAIA Letter of Intent for the 2015-2016 year.

Palmore is a 5-foot-4 point guard who averaged 16.8 points per game, 4.3 assists per game, 1.9 steals per game and 7.3 rebounds per game last season at Santa Monica College.

"Aniese is a talented player," Woolley commented. "She will fit very well into our system because of her ability to deliver the ball on time and to the right person."

Last season Palmore was named to the all tournament team at the Fullerton College Tournament, Cypress College Tournament, and was selected as MVP of the San Mateo College Tournament. She was honored as the Santa Monica College Student-Athlete of the Year, and earned All-Western State First Team recognition and was the conference athlete of the week during the season.

"In addition to distributing the ball well, Aniese has proven that she can score when needed," Woolley said. "We are excited that she has chosen to continue her playing career and earn her degree at Montana Western."

Palmore is the daughter of Angie Pittman and Morris, and has been named to the Dean's Honor List for her work in the classroom. Palmore will study Early Childhood Education at Montana Western.

SUPPORT GROUP FOR SLEEP APNEA

A support group is being formed to help individuals who have been diagnosed with sleep apnea. The Doctor writes a prescription for the patient to use a CPAP machine with a face mask so they can breathe a normal breath consistently while they sleep. Many patients find it difficult.

This newly formed support group will hold their meetings at the First Presbyterian church using the Fellowship Hall downstairs. Use the back door and meet with others who have questions and comments.

The first meeting will be at 9:30 am Wednesday, June 3rd. For more information, call Joyce at 683-4177.
