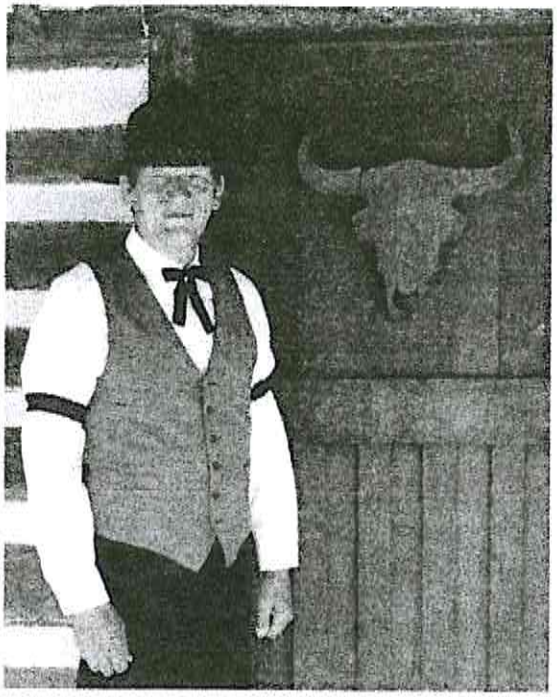
Charlie Russell's Pranks and Stunts as Told by Sid Willis



On June 6 at 7 pm in the old church at Bannack State Park, Richard Baker will perform a living history depiction of Sid Willis. Shortly before he died, Charlie Russell wrote, "Life has never been too serious with me. I've lived to play and I'm playing yet." Richard Baker, speaking in old-time cowboy lingo, depicts Sid Willis bringing to life his recollections of his best friend, the likeable, humorous, and mischievous young wrangler the cattlemen called "that ornery kid Russell." Most of these yarns did not appear in Russell's own writings.

Sid Willis was the proprietor of the Mint Saloon in Great Falls, which until 1948 housed the largest collection of Russell's art in the world. In his life, Willis was also a cowboy, sheriff, U.S. marshal, state representative, state senator, and national election delegate. He probably knew Charlie better than almost anyone, except for Russell's wife.

In addition to relating humorous accounts of Russell's wild years, Sid Willis discusses the controversial sale of Russell's "Mint Collection" and explains, from his point of view, why the famous collection now resides in Texas instead of Montana.

Richard Baker, author of six books, lecturer, historical musician, and amateur historian, is a life-long student of C. M. Russell. He grew up one block from the late cowboy artist's home at a time when many of his neighbors still remembered Russell and told many accounts of Charlie's interesting life. He has written two historical fiction books about Russell that have won national literary awards.

FWP Embarks On New Mountain Lion Plan

Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks is developing a statewide management plan for mountain lions and is seeking the public's help identifying issues of concern.

FWP's last statewide look at mountain lion management was completed about 20 years ago. The updated plan will summarize the latest science and monitoring data, describe conservation and harvest strategies, and compile policies in a single document.

"Management plans provide guidance to wildlife biologists and Fish and Wildlife Commissioners and they provide the public information on how and why specific decisions are made," said Jay Kolbe, FWP's wildlife biologist tasked with updating Montana's mountain lion management plan.

Anyone with an interest in how Montana manages mountain lions can provide information and comment online by visiting FWP's website at fwp.mt.gov; then click Mountain Lion Plan. The deadline to comment is July 22 at 5 p.m.

"Mountain lion research and population monitoring techniques have come a long way over the past 20 years," Kolbe said. For more information, call Kolbe at 406-499-2356 or contact him via e-mail at jkolbe.fwp@gmail.com.

FWP expects to have a draft mountain lion management plan ready for public review by the end of the year.

Bigots

By: MJ

Bigot is a word we hear but we would probably not apply to ourselves. Take a good hard look at yourself. You might find you are a bigot. Question is: are we born a bigot or is it something we learn through the society we live in?

What is a Bigot? A person that is intolerant toward those holding different opinions. A bigot can be described as a person that is hard-headed, an extremist, dogmatist, a racist, hypocrite, chauvinist… History proves we are intolerant people.

Throughout history bigotry has been prominent. People have been shunned and destroyed by others. Humans have a very difficult time taking a good look at themselves. People spit words out without thought, they make snap judgments without facts to back it up. Bigotry can be caused by judgements that might be made because of your, your nationality, your gender, your education, you're dress, your bad breath, your hair color, where you live, type of work you do, your education is not adequate, you don't mow your lawn… Humans view their world through rose colored glasses for many reasons.

Would it be a better world is if we would pay more attention to what we say? If what comes out of your mouth you cannot put it back in, chew it up and swallow it, then maybe it should not come out in first place.

Beaverhead County Animal Shelter

Please note that the Beaverhead County Animal Shelter in Dillon will be closed between Sunday, June 7 and Sunday, June 14. Susie will be taking a well deserved vacation. And, yes, the "care crew" will be there every day to clean kennels/cages, pass out meds, feed/water and exercise the animals. No adoptions during this time.

There will be an emergency number posted on the gate. It may change from day to day, so you will need to go to the Shelter to see what number is posted. If you have a non-emergency message, you can leave it on the Shelter's answering machine which will be checked once a day.

Parisian Cleaners Closure Notice
