Legislators worked together for public safety, privacy

By Attorney General Tim Fox

While news coverage of the 2015 Legislative Session focused on high-profile and often contentious issues, legislators in both parties worked together diligently to pass bills I brought forward to improve public safety, protect privacy, and strengthen consumer-protection laws.

Leading up to session, the Montana Department of Justice crafted an ambitious and important legislative agenda aimed at addressing real needs throughout the state. To pass these bills, we enlisted the help of a diverse group of legislators, including Republican and Democrat men and women from all over the state.

Building on our landmark DUI reforms from the 2013 session, Rep. Keith Regier (R-Kalispell) sponsored our bill doubling the minimum fines for DUI offenses and requiring people to pay an administrative fee when they refuse to provide a breath sample. These changes, along with our efforts to expand the 24/7 Sobriety Program around the state, are important in my goal to reduce the number of repeat DUI offenders. One DUI-related death or injury on our highways is too many.

Rep. Kim Dudik (D-Missoula) carried our bill taking a comprehensive approach to addressing human trafficking. It helps ensure that human traffickers are brought to justice, but it also will help foster a victim-centered approach to those impacted by what truly is modern-day slavery.

Working with Rep. Stephanie Hess (R-Havre), we asked the legislature for authorization to create a permanent sexual assault prosecution unit within the Montana Department of Justice. This will help us dedicate resources to train prosecutors and law enforcement throughout the state to better deal with sex crimes that affect so many Montanans. Much more needs to be done on this issue, and I look forward to working with prosecutors, law enforcement, victim advocates, and legislators to achieve real results.

To address real threats to Montanans' privacy, we brought forward three important measures. Sen. Jennifer Fielder (R-Thompson Falls) carried our bill to fix Montana's outdated laws against secretly viewing/recording another person by including the use of cell phone cameras and other means made possible by new technology. Rep. Ryan Lynch (D-Butte) was instrumental in our efforts to require companies doing business in Montana to notify our Office of Consumer Protection whenever they have suffered a breach compromising personal data. Working with Rep. Kirk Wagoner (R-Montana City) to protect constitutional privacy rights, we created penalties for anyone who abuses their authority to access confidential criminal justice information.

Thanks in large part to the hard work of Sen. Diane Sands (D-Missoula), Montana has joined the vast majority of states in prohibiting the sale of electronic cigarettes and "vaping" equipment to minors. We worked together to address the significant risk to our children's health posed by the use of e-cigarettes.

Because a growing number of Montana small businesses are becoming victims of "patent trolling," we worked with Sen. Cary Smith (R-Billings) to set standards for what constitutes a bad-faith assertion of a patent right. Our main-street businesses deserve legal protection from persons or entities that acquire patents not to develop products but for the sole purpose of suing, intimidating, and/or extorting supposed infringers.

These are just some of the 20 bills my office brought forward this year. All of them passed the legislature with broad bipartisan support and were signed into law. Legislators found common ground, worked together, and advanced solutions to address real issues impacting Montanans.

While the legislature's work may be done for now, our work at the Attorney General's Office and the Department of Justice continues. We will use these new laws and tools to improve public safety, protect privacy, and strengthen consumer protection with the goal of helping build a safer and more prosperous Montana.

Tim Fox is the 24th Attorney General of Montana. www.dojmt.gov.

Black Pine Area Roads to Close for Mine Reclamation Project

Portions of Forest Service Roads #678 (Lower Willow Creek) and #78496 will be closed to public access from June 15 until Sept. 9, 2015 for construction of a mine waste repository for the Black Pine Mine Reclamation Project. The road closure begins at the junction of Forest Service Road #678 (Lower Willow Creek Road) and Forest Service Road #8724, located approximately nine miles northeast of Philipsburg, MT. The closure continues west for 0.4 miles along Forest Service Roads #678 and #78496 to the western junction of Roads #678 and #78496.

The Montana Department of Environmental Quality, in cooperation with the Beaverhead-Deerlodge National Forest, is conducting reclamation activities at the Black Pine Mine in order to limit human and ecological exposure to heavy metals (primarily arsenic, lead, and mercury) contained in mine wastes. Activities for 2015 include excavating a 425,000 cubic yard mine waste repository to contain mill tailings and waste rock from the South Fork Lower Willow Creek and Smart Creek drainages. Waste removal and placement into the repository will occur during 2016 and 2017.

Planning Board 6.6.2015

By: MJ

Present: Mr. Ed Mooney, acting chair, Councilman Nye, and Mr. Mitch Staley and Director of Operations J.S. Turner.

It appears that the Pioneer Sub-division, behind Safeway's has revised the original primary plat plan that was submitted to the planning board and approved by council. There are state statutes as well as local laws that explicitly explain the procedure for sub-divisions. Any time there is a change in any plan that was approved by the council there must be a revised plan submitted for approval. At the June 6th Planning Board meeting Mr. Turner was ask to present the revised plan to the board. Mr. Turner did not submit the plan. He told the members that the plan was being worked on. Mr. Turner is the Director of Operations for the city and is the city representative that the engineers and owners of sub-divisions work directly with. Mr. Turner then advises the Mayor. The planning board was put in a precarious position when the plans were not submitted. In the meantime the sub-division is continuing to move forward without complying.

The board read and discussed the statutes, rules and regulations in depth and then decided to ask the mayor if he would have the plans at the next planning board meeting. It would be costly to developers if that large of project had to be shut down because of noncompliance.

EXTENSIVE SURVEYUniversity of Montana Western environmental field studies students have completed a 476-page study of Poindexter Slough, a side channel of the Beaverhead River near Dillon, Mont.Professor of Geology Rob Thomas said the report represents a detailed baseline inventory and assessment of the entire 4.73 mile length of the slough.The project's goal was to assess the stream prior to a major riparian restoration and fish habitat improvement project by Montana Fish, Wildlife and Parks (FWP) and the Beaverhead Watershed Committee. Thomas said 22 cross sections were identified and surveyed to assess stream function, invertebrate populations, riparian vegetation and stream habitat. The data will be used to conduct comparative studies to see if the restoration work was successful going forward.Matt Jaeger of FWP said the Poindexter restoration project includes replacing existing irrigation infrastructure, mechanically modifying channel dimensions, transplanting riparian vegetation to improve bank stability and restoring fish habitat."I am extremely proud of our students' efforts," Thomas said.
"Because we teach under Experience One where students take a single class at a time, we can provide concentrated learning experiences that are real, relevant to society and will prepare them for situations they will encounter in the working world or as they continue on to graduate school.""These student are doing graduate level research at the undergraduate level," he said.Students conducted the study between September and October 2014 and published their findings in May 2015. The report was prepared for Jaeger and his department and will be used to help guide the restoration work into the future.Sixteen students supervised by Thomas participated in the class including Robert Barnes, Jessica Bryers, Shelby Crandall,

UMW PROFESSOR TO BE panelist at "In the Footsteps of Norman Maclean Festival."

University of Montana Western English Professor Alan Weltzien will participate in three panel discussions at the inaugural "In the Footsteps of Norman Maclean Festival" July 10-13, 2015 at Seeley Lake, Mont.

Best known for his novella "A River Runs Through It," Maclean also received acclaim for his short stories and his hard-headed investigation of the Mann Gulch fire of 1949 in "Young Men and Fire."

Weltzien will join Maclean's son John Maclean and grandson Noah Snyder on a panel entitled "A River Runs Through It: 39 Years Later." He will also participate on "The Achievement of Young Men and Fire" panel and a writer's workshop during the festival.

In addition to being the author or editor of seven works, Weltzien edited "The Norman Maclean Reader," a compilation of the late author's writings published in 2008.

Festival sites include Mann Gulch and the Blackfoot River in addition to Seeley Lake where Maclean hand wrote much of his work on the deck of the family log cabin.

For more information about the festival, visit macleanfootsteps.com.

Little Fiddlers Performance

On Thursday evening June 4 the Dillon Junior Fiddlers presented a wonderful entertaining show as a fund raiser for the Beaverhead County Museum. The youngsters presented their 2015 "On the Air" show to the delight of a full house at the Depot Theater. Highlights of the show were solos by various members of the cast and a special rendition at the conclusion of "The Orange Blossom Special" at the request of an audience member. Maggie Magee, Ernie Gilbert, Isabella Kadrmas, Jasmine Falix, and Kia Coon picked up their fiddles and set the old theater building rocking! What fun. In addition to the great time had by all, the group raised $815 for the benefit of the Museum.
