Beaverhead-Deerlodge NF Seeks Input on Travel Analysis

The U.S. Forest Service seeks public input on an analysis of the road system on the Beaverhead-Deerlodge National Forest. The travel analysis includes the identification of risks and benefits on National Forest System Roads (NFSR) roads as they pertain to safe and efficient travel and the protection, management, and use of the national forest.

The analysis of risks and benefits of the Forest road system used available data and tools, including Revised Forest Plan goals, objectives, standards and guidelines; watershed condition framework; travel analysis questions developed by Region subject-matter experts; and the roads analysis process.

An interactive mapping tool reflecting the initial results of the analysis is available on the BDNF website at: <http://www.fs.usda.gov/bdnf>. This is the primary tool for the public to view the analysis and provide input to help identify risks and benefits we may have missed. The Forest will accept inputs through the end of July, 2015. A hard-copy of the maps which capture the results of the analysis area are available at Forest Service offices located in Butte, Ennis, Dillon, Wisdom, and Philipsburg for those not able to view them online.

Beaverhead-Deerlodge National Forest Supervisor Melany Glossa says, "The travel analysis is not a proposal or decision, but is intended to help inform possible future road management planning. We will need public input to inform the analysis, but this will not be a formal public comment process. Before any projects are implemented on the ground the public will have an opportunity to comment through the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) process."

The agency expects to maintain an appropriately sized and environmentally sustainable road system that is responsive to ecological, economic and social concerns. The national forest system of the future must continue to provide access for recreation and resource management, as well as support watershed restoration and resource protection to sustain healthy ecosystems. Nearly everyone who uses the National Forest will be affected by possible future road management decisions, making it important to work together today to identify a sustainable road system.

Beaverhead-Deerlodge NF to Spray for Bark Beetles in Recreation Areas

The Forest Service will be applying insecticides in recreation sites throughout the Beaverhead-Deerlodge National Forest over the next few weeks. The need for this is driven by the current mountain pine beetle epidemic, which has heavily affected many areas throughout southwest Montana and has already impacted some individual trees within popular recreation areas.

If you're planning your annual family outing on the Beaverhead-Deerlodge National Forest, or if it's your first venture to the 3.35 million acres of Montana woodland, you may note that many of the recreation sites will look different than seen in years past or in the pictures that may have prompted your destination.

"We'll begin in June with individual tree treatments in those places we know a large majority of Forest visitors and users will be this summer – campgrounds, day-use areas and trailheads," stated Bruce Schuelke, Reforestation Forester for the Forest. "To be effective, we must spray the green trees before the beetles fly again in mid-summer when they'll bore into and lay their eggs in new-found trees." In addition Schuelke stated, "Campground users will notice packets stapled to trees. These 2"x2" packets are Verbenone and/or MCH and are used to ward away bark beetles in area's that we cannot spray the Carbaryl pesticides because of being too close to water".

Beginning mid-June and continuing through mid-July depending upon the weather, a Forest Service workforce and contract sprayers will be placing packets and spraying Carbaryl to protect individual pine trees from mountain pine beetles in recreation sites on the following ranger districts of the Beaverhead-Deerlodge National Forest:

Letter to the Editor

You and I are Members

The typical U.S. household headed by a person age 65 or older has a net worth 47 times greater than a household headed by someone under 35, according to an analysis of census data released Monday.

They like to refer to us as senior citizens, old fogies, geezers, and in some cases dinosaurs. Some of us are "Baby Boomers" getting ready to retire. Others have been retired for some time. We walk a little slower these days and our eyes and hearing are not what they once were. We worked hard, raised our children, worshiped our God and grown old together. Yes, we are the ones some refer to as being over the hill, and that is probably true. But before writing us off completely, there are a few things that need to be taken into consideration.

In school we studied English, history, math, and science which enabled us to lead America into the technological age. Most of us remember what outhouses were, many of us with firsthand experience. We remember the days of telephone party-lines, 25 cent gasoline, and milk and ice being delivered to our homes. For those of you who don't know what an icebox is, today they are electric and referred to as refrigerators. A few even remember when cars were started with a crank. Yes, we lived those days.

We are probably considered old fashioned and out-dated by many. But there are a few things you need to remember before completely writing us off. We won World War II, fought in Korea and Viet Nam. We can quote The Pledge of Allegiance, and know where to place our hand while doing so. We wore the uniform of our country with pride and lost many friends on the battlefield. We didn't fight for the Socialist States of America; we fought for the "Land of the Free and the Home of the Brave." We wore different uniforms but carried the same flag. We know the words to the Star Spangled Banner, America, and America the Beautiful by heart, and you may even see some tears running down our cheeks as we sing. We have lived what many of you have only read in history books and we feel no obligation to apologize to anyone for America.

Yes, we are old and slow these days but rest assured, we have at least one good fight left in us. We have loved this country, fought for it, and died for it, and now we are going to save it. It is our country and nobody is going to take it away from us. We took oaths to defend America against all enemies, foreign and domestic, and that is an oath we plan to keep. There are those who want to destroy this land we love but, like our founders, there is no way we are going to remain silent.

It was mostly the young people of this nation who elected Obama and the Democratic Congress. You fell for the "Hope and Change" which in reality was nothing but "Hype and Lies."

You youngsters have tasted socialism and seen evil face to face, and have found you don't like it after all. You make a lot of noise, but most are all too interested in their careers or "Climbing the Social Ladder" to be involved in such mundane things as patriotism and voting. Many of those who fell for the "Great Lie" in 2008 are now having buyer's remorse. With all the education we gave you, you didn't have sense enough to see through the lies and instead drank the 'Kool-Aid.' Now you're paying the price and complaining about it. No jobs, lost mortgages, higher taxes, and less freedom.

This is what you voted for and this is what you got. We entrusted you with the Torch of Liberty and you traded it for a paycheck and a fancy house.

Well, don't worry youngsters, the Grey-Haired Brigade is here, and in 2016 we are going to take back our nation. We may drive a little slower than you would like but we get where we're going, and in 2016 we're going to the polls by the millions.

This land does not belong to the man in the White House nor to the likes of Nancy Pelosi, Harry Reid, and Eric Holder. It belongs to "We the People" and "We the People" plan to reclaim our land and our freedom. We hope this time you will do a better job of preserving it and passing it along to our grandchildren. So the next time you have the chance to say the Pledge of Allegiance, Stand up, put your hand over your heart, honor our country, and thank God for the old geezers of the "Gray-Haired Brigade."

Footnote: This is spot on. I am another Gray-Haired Geezer signing on. I will circulate this to other Gray-Haired Geezers all over this once great county.

Can you feel the ground shaking???
It's not an earthquake, it is a STAMPEDE.

Beaverhead Conservation District Tidbit- 310 Permits

What is a 310 permit? The simple answer is a permit to do any type of work that impacts a perennial stream or river. Unfortunately this simple answer gives rise to many more questions, such as: What is a perennial stream? Who needs a permit? What qualifies as work? What qualifies as an impact? Who issues the permit? How does one apply? Read on for a quick primer!

What is a perennial stream? Conservation districts define perennial streams as any stream which naturally flows throughout the year, including all portions of streams that may contain sections that run dry at some point during the year. All projects on rivers require permits.

Who needs a permit? Everyone! Private land owners, contractors, and public lands are all subject to the 310 law. What qualifies as work or an impact? Work that requires a 310 permit includes bank stabilization, bridge and crossing construction, in stream diversions, dams, culverts, and more. Anything that has to do with adding or subtracting material from the stream or its banks. Streams are dynamic systems that are constantly changing. Impact is anything that may alter or disallow the stream from naturally evolving or interrupt natural flows. If you have questions about whether or not your project qualifies, contact your local conservation district. Who issues the permit and how does one apply? Conservation districts issue 310 permits. In order to apply one must complete the joint application which may be obtained through the conservation district. The application process is simple, but is subject to public notice laws. After an application is received the project must be inspected by conservation district supervisors and the local Fish, Wildlife, and Parks biologist. After the inspection the project will be presented and voted upon at the monthly district meeting which is held on the third Thursday of each month at 7:00 pm in the USDA conference room. If you have questions or would like more information contact Jamie Cottom at the Beaverhead Conservation District, 683-3802 or beaverheadcd@gmail.com.
