Poindexter Slough

For the past 5 years, The Beaverhead Watershed Committee has been working with Montana Fish, Wildlife and Parks, the Dillon Canal Company, Confluence Consulting, RE Miller & Sons, and various other partners on the Poindexter Slough Fisheries Enhancement Project near Dillon, MT. When completed, this project will improve fish habitat and flows through 4.75 miles of Poindexter Slough, a popular fishing destination due to lengthy, publicly accessible segments of the stream to anglers.

Following several years of planning, permitting, and fundraising, construction of the Poindexter Slough restoration project began in January 2015 with replacement of a headgate on the Beaverhead River to improve the flow of water in the Slough. The new headgate allows flow to be increased to 200 cfs for a short period of time approximately every 5 years to promote more sustainable habitat by flushing fine sediments, scouring deep pools, rejuvenating spawning habitat, and increasing aquatic insects. Base flows ranging between 20 and 50 cfs will be diverted into the Slough during most times of the year to provide more consistent year-round flows and generate water velocities and stream depths optimal for spawning, rearing, and angling.

Pool habitat was enhanced in the upper 2.25 miles of the Slough by removing fine sediments that had accumulated in the channel over several decades, and by reconfiguring the spacing, location, and dimensions of pool and riffle features. In addition, a 2,000-foot segment of the Slough just upstream of the fishing access was re-graded and narrowed to eliminate backwatering and sediment deposition caused by an old check dam that diverted water down the Dillon Canal. The check dam and headgate for the Dillon Canal were replaced with new structures placed at a lower elevation to prevent backwatering and fine sediment accumulations upstream in Poindexter Slough, while maintaining the ability to divert water down the Dillon Canal during the irrigation season. This highly acclaimed fishery is expected to rebound over the next five years.

A final phase of habitat enhancement in Poindexter Slough is planned for the lower 2.5 miles of channel downstream of the Dillon Canal to the confluence with the Beaverhead River. The Beaverhead Watershed Committee is in the process of securing funding for this phase, which is 100% publicly owned and managed by Montana Fish, Wildlife, and Parks. A fundraiser event will take place on July 25th, 2015 at the Depot Theater and Park in Dillon. The event will feature the Fly Fishing Film Tour, dinner and music in the park, and a silent auction. Advance tickets for the movie can be purchased at Frontier Anglers or Backcountry Anglers in Dillon. Contact Katie Tackett, coordinator for the Beaverhead Watershed Committee at beaverheadwatershed@gmail.com, or by visiting www.beaverheadwatershed.org if you are interested in learning more about the project or donating to the cause!

Private Land/Public Wildlife Council Nominations Sought

Governor Steve Bullock and Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks are seeking applicants for appointment to the Private Land/Public Wildlife Council.

The council, appointed by Bullock, will be made up of citizens representing the interests of hunters, anglers, landowners and outfitters.

"Montanans value our outdoor hunting and fishing heritage. This important council plays a critical role in ensuring access to our public spaces for hunters and anglers in the state, while respecting private property rights of landowners," Bullock said. "This council needs Montanans who have demonstrated their commitment to solutions and creative thinking that expands access responsibly for all Montanans."

During the next 18 months, the council will work to develop recommendations for consideration by the Governor, FWP, and the 2017 Legislature. PL/PW Council members are typically appointed to two-year terms, and meet four to six times a year.

Individuals may nominate themselves or someone else. Applications must be accompanied by a resume or an equivalent short written summary of work, education, and public services experience.

Application forms are available online at fwp.mt.gov. Click "Private Land/Public Wildlife Council". Applications will be accepted through July 17.
