20th Annual Auto Festival & Cruise

The White Hat Coalition held their 20th annual Auto Festival & Cruise at the Depot Park recently.

The annual fundraiser makes possible the wooden yellow ribbons around town and care pack send outs to the troops during the holidays.

This year's winners of each category were Dennis DeVivo with his 1971 Honda side car motorcycle. Darrin Morast with his 1947 International Rat Rod. George Schisler with his 1946 Ford Pickup. Craig Widner and his work in progress 1966 Plymouth VIP. Jim Harvey's 1936 Chevy Truck. Mike Marsh with his 1969 Olds Cutlass. Ken Schaible's 1957 Chevy Belair. Luke Lenski's street rod 1940 Buick 4 door sedan and Peter Tomaryn's custom 1950 Oldsmobile.

This year's Joe Womack Best of Show winner is Luke Lenski with his 1940 Buick Sedan and the People's Choice award goes to Peter Tomaryn's 1950 Oldsmobile.

Congratulations to all the winners. The real winners were our troops and all those that attended the car show and free BBQ. Although the turn out for the cruise and show was lighter than in the past due to the heat everyone enjoyed a great American Past Time thanks to our troops and their families that serve our country.

Zoning Committee meeting 7.2.2015

By: MJ

Dillon has beautiful historical homes that have been well kept over the years. Some of those homes are on Idaho Street and the city has zoned that area commercial. Today and for the last twelve years residents with these homes have been asking the city fathers to zone the area residential instead of commercial, allowing for preservation and protection of a historical area.

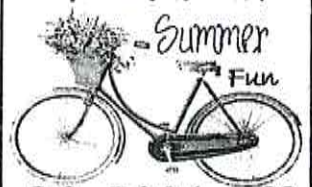

One argument against the residential zoning is that if the business district grows it would continue up Idaho Street. Fact: IGA built a new store in an area where they would have easy access for the public with adequate parking on the south end of town and left a vacant building on Idaho Street. Question: What facts does the zoning and planning boards have that the business growth will continue upward on Idaho Street? When concerned citizens attend meetings asking questions, would it be helpful if the zoning board and planning board gave the people the facts and figures they were basing their decisions on to the people asking questions? Years ago when the freeway was built by-passing Dillon, the statistics from the State of MT stated the growth for Dillon would be at the south end of town.

People that are looking to purchase a historical home look closely at the zoning of the area. Historical areas are an asset, are their own magnet, having their own niche in communities that adds to the character and beauty while supporting the historical culture of an area. Dillon has beautiful architecture throughout the town. Old buildings are like the golden years for people. Maintenance or restoration is expensive. Let's support and keep them if at all possible.

It is very hard to take a town that has been built for horse and buggy's centered around a railroad and turn it into an area that meets the needs of the people today that has adequate parking space. Then you factor in the element human laziness and wanting to park right in front of store doors. It becomes a problem for the city fathers.

The newly developed zoning map that is the other half of the zoning document was discussed. A gentleman brought it to the attention of the board that he owns a piece of residential property that is listed on the map as being in two different zoning districts. The board said they would look into it.

The zoning map they approved had several problems like: unzone areas, one piece of property zoned in two different districts...it is my understanding that the approval of this map forces the residents to go through the lengthy rezoning procedure. Some felt the map should be fixed before adoption and others felt it could be fixed after adoption. Time will tell which decision was correct.

Columbia Falls Man Ordered to Pay Over $45,000 in Restitution to Montana State Fund

On Thursday, Columbia Falls resident Salvador Maldonado-Medina pled guilty in Lewis & Clark County District Court to felony theft and employer misconduct for receiving Montana Workers' Compensation benefits while working after claiming to be injured at one of his businesses, when in fact he was injured at another business he owned, where he elected to have no workers compensation coverage for himself or his employees.

In March 2015, Maldonado-Medina, 36, was accused of defrauding the Montana State Fund for $45,858.02 in wage loss and medical benefits he received from 2013 to 2015. Maldonado-Medina pleaded guilty to charges of employer misconduct and felony theft in District Court in Helena and on July 2 was given a six-year concurrent deferred sentence, and ordered to pay a $2,000 fine and restitution to Montana State Fund in the amount of $45,858.02.

Assistant Attorney General Mary Cochenour alleged that on February 18, 2013, Maldonado-Medina, who owns La Fiesta Mexicana Restaurant in Kalispell and SM Roofing in Columbia Falls, lied when he filed a work comp claim stating he had injured his knee after falling from a ladder at his restaurant, where he had a workers compensation insurance policy in effect. Montana State Fund accepted the claim and paid medical benefits and bi-weekly temporary total disability (TTD) benefits based on information that Maldonado-Medina could not return to work due to his injuries.

After State Fund received a physical therapy note that indicated Maldonado-Medina was on his feet for long periods of time due to his work, surveillance was conducted to determine if his roofing company was in operation, whether it had any employees, and whether Maldonado-Medina was earning wages while collecting TTD benefits under his restaurant's policy. While Maldonado-Medina later told State Fund he had not conducted any roofing since his knee surgery and that he had no employees performing any roofing for the company during the policy period, investigators learned he had purchased more than $45,000 in roofing supplies which were delivered to 11 different residences in Flathead County during that time.

Subsequent interviews with the homeowners indicated that Maldonado-Medina had worked on several of the homes alongside two other men. State investigators were able to confirm that these men were Maldonado-Medina's employees, and that their pay had not been reported under work comp insurance to SM Roofing. Investigators also learned that Maldonado-Medina in fact injured his knee while performing roofing work at a new home construction site in Whitefish, not at his restaurant in Kalispell.

"This case was highly unusual because it involved a defendant who defrauded Montana's work comp system in two ways – both as an employer and as an employee," said Attorney General Tim Fox. "Let this serve as a warning to anyone who tries to games the system, no matter how complex your scheme is. If you don't report your employees for workers' comp coverage while at the same time cover yourself at a lower premium rate and file fraudulent claims, we will find and prosecute you," Attorney General Fox added. Premiums for coverage in the roofing industry are often many times higher than premiums in other businesses, such as those in an office setting, or restaurant work places.

Between February 2013 and March 2015, Montana State Fund paid $39,092 in medical costs and $6,765 in wage loss benefits to Maldonado-Medina. Curt Larsen, Special Assistant General Counsel at Montana State Fund, said that had his agency known that Maldonado-Medina was injured while roofing and not while working at his restaurant, Montana State Fund would not have accepted his claim. Larsen also praised the work of Assistant Attorney General Mary Cochenour, the Division of Criminal Investigation at the Montana Department of Justice, and his staff at Montana State Fund for their proactive and collaborative work on the complex and unusual case.
