Rumor. Gossip on the Street

By: MJ

Gossip is a powerful tool. The rumor on the street today is that Mr. Raymond Graham is going to be the next Director of Operations. It appears Mr. Graham was very surprised at the rumor and confirms that it is a nonfactual statement and is just gossip. Question: Why do people have the desire or need to spread gossip? If this rumor is passed onto to you, you might ask yourself why the person needs to tell you.

1. When people are feeling bad about themselves, they sometimes think they'll feel better if there is someone worse off than they are. It's like they are saying, it's okay being near the bottom, as long as they're not actually on the bottom. The easiest way for them to make sure someone else is below them and on the bottom is to make up a rumor that puts him or her at the bottom.

2. Certain people always want to be in the control and at the top of the ladder. You probably know at least one person who needs to be the leader, say what goes, and makes all the decisions. One way people keep themselves at the top of the ladder is by reducing the "status" of another person. Spreading rumors and gossip is one of the main ways people reduce another person's status.

Studies have proven that the #1 reason people gossip is jealousy. Example: If you feel someone has done something bad to you, or deserves to be hurt, making up a rumor might satisfy your sense of justice. Example: How many times have you told your friends that it's not your fault you yelled nasty cutting words today; after all you had the right to because your husband did not take the garbage out or walk the dog before he left for work.

When you spread a rumor about someone you're sending a signal that the person is outside of your group, and somehow less worthy of friendship. Believing rumors from gossip may influence your behavior. Example: you shun a new student that comes to the school you attend because the gossip is that they are rich and very snobbish. Later you have an assignment with the person and find out they have the intelligence needed for the project and is a very nice person willing to share their knowledge with you.

Take a stand and stop the gossip when it is passed onto you by not repeating it. Take a stand by contacting a council member or the mayor and get the facts about the replacement of Director of Operations.

Bulldog Volleyball Drops A Heartbreaker To Montana State-Northern

The University of Montana Western volleyball team fell to the Skylights of Montana State-Northern in a hard-fought come from behind five-set loss on Friday night.

The Bulldogs (4-12 overall, 0-5 Frontier) dropped the first two sets of the evening, 19-25 and 22-25 before rallying to win the third and fourth set, 25-22 and 25-19. The fifth and final set proved to be as exciting as the rest of the match, as it ended in favor of the Skylights (9-12, 1-4) 18-16. (STATS)

Montana Western was led offensively by sophomore Tessa Miller's 19 kills and .390 hitting percentage. The Bulldogs saw three other players record double digit kills in the match, Bailey Wilson (12), Joanna Avery (10) and Mikayla Ness (10). Avery had a very efficient evening as well, with a hitting percentage of .321. The Bulldogs totaled a .149 hitting percentage on the night, their highest in the last eight games.

Junior setter Callie Hanson had her best outing of the season as she dished out 52 assists on 66 team kills. Hanson found her teammates early and often in one-on-one situations, allowing the attackers to gain an advantage and put the ball away.

Freshman Sierra Cahill notched three service aces.

Defensively, the Bulldogs were paced by sophomore libero Brianna DeCock, who recorded 24 digs. DeCock was followed by Cady Siemion (22), Hanson (17), Dylan Fowler (14) and Wilson (13).

Senior Mikayla Ness came away with two solo blocks, Wilson led the team with six block assists, as Miller and Avery recorded five and four block assists respectively to go along with their one solo block each.

Siemion also contributed with seven kills and a service ace in the match.

The Skylights saw a great performance from Cassie Krueger who tallied 28 kills, 19 digs and two solo blocks. The offensive attack was led by setter Emily Russell who matched her Western counterpart with 52 assists, Russell also recorded 13 digs in the match.

Libero Jacy Vining collected 33 digs to slow down the attack of the Bulldogs. Cydney Auzenne totaled 22 digs in the match.

Montana State- Northern was able to out-hit the Bulldogs on the night, .202-.149, and have less hitting errors, 25-31, that proved to be the difference of this Frontier Conference battle.

Montana Western will return to action next weekend as they travel to Denver, Colo. for a non-conference tournament hosted by Johnson & Wales University.

Attorneys General Urge Passage of the CARA of 2015 to Address Nationwide Epidemic of Heroin and Opioid Addiction and Abuse

As states continue to address the epidemic of heroin and opioid-based painkiller abuse and addiction and its devastating effect on public health and safety in communities, attorneys general from 38 states plus the District of Columbia today sent a letter to the leadership of the Committee on the Judiciary for the U.S. Senate and House of Representatives urging passage of the Comprehensive Addiction and Recovery Act of 2015 (S. 524/HR 953).

The Comprehensive Addiction and Recovery Act would provide states with the necessary tools to more effectively confront the growing challenge of heroin and opioid abuse and addiction.

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, drug overdoses now surpass automobile accidents as the leading cause of injury-related death for Americans between the ages of 25 and 64. More than 100 Americans die as a result of overdose in this country every day – more than half of them caused by prescription drugs or heroin.

"We know that addiction is a treatable disease, but we also know that only about 10 percent of those who need treatment are receiving it," said Attorney General Tim Fox. "And, while heroin and opioid abuse are the primary concern for states right now, we must move beyond simple responses to drug trends and emerging threats, and concentrate on improving addiction treatment and recovery nationwide."

In the letters, the attorneys general write, "Law enforcement has always been on the front line when it comes to drug crises, but we cannot arrest ourselves out of this current epidemic. Research shows the best way to address this challenge is though a strategy that includes prevention, law enforcement, reduction of overdose deaths, evidence-based treatment, and support for those in, or seeking, recovery."

The Comprehensive Addiction and Recovery Act of 2015 will:

- Expand prevention and educational efforts – particularly aimed at teens, parents and other caretakers, and aging populations – to prevent the abuse of opioids and heroin and to promote treatment and recovery;
- Expand the availability of naloxone to law enforcement agencies and other first responders to help in the reversal of overdoses to save lives;
- Expand resources to identify and treat incarcerated individuals suffering from addiction disorders promptly by collaborating with criminal justice stakeholders and by providing evidence-based treatment;

- Expand disposal sites for unwanted prescription medications to keep them out of the hands of children and adolescents;
- Launch and evidence-based opioids and heroin treatment and intervention program to assist in treatment and recovery throughout the country; and
- Strengthen prescription drug monitoring programs to help states monitor and track prescription drug diversion and to help at-risk individuals access services.

"Only through a comprehensive approach that leverages evidence-based law enforcement and health care services, including treatment, can we stop and reverse current trends," added Attorney General Fox.
