Press Release

Officers of the Dillon Police Department acting on information received, applied for and received a Search Warrant for a residence located at 303 North Walnut Street. This warrant was served Monday October 19th at approximately 10:00 AM. During the service of the initial warrant, interviews were done and additional information was received that lead to applying for and receiving three (3) additional search warrants. Information received indicated that there was a Methamphetamine producing device located in an out building located on the property.

Prior to entry into the outbuilding, the Southwest Montana Drug Task Force was notified and a request for their assistance was made. Two agents having training and certification in the field of dismantling these types of devices responded to the scene. On Monday night the agents entered the outbuilding and found numerous items used in the production of Methamphetamine. Agents removed all items from the outbuilding and neutralized the compounds for shipment to a disposal site. This lead to the closure of the 300 block of North Walnut for about 21 hours. This closure was continuously monitored by an Officer of the Dillon Police Department to ensure that unauthorized personal or the public did not enter the area.

On the afternoon of October 20th, an additional Methamphetamine producing device was located in a camp trailer on the property. This device was dismantled by Agents of the Southwest Montana Drug Task Force and made ready for shipment to the disposal facility. The components and compounds were shipped to the disposal Facility by Environmental Restoration a contractor of the Drug Enforcement Agency. During this closure and removal only one residence was asked to evacuate. There was never an immediate threat to any of the other residence in the area. Precautions such as these are taken to ensure public safety in incidents like this.

During the course of the incident three individuals were arrested and have been charged with the following offenses, Manufacture of Dangerous Drugs (F), Possession of Dangerous Drugs (F) and Possession of Drug Paraphernalia (M).

Press Release

On October 20, 2015 at 11:29, I was notified by Randy Shipman, Principle of Dillon Elementary, that they had found a hand written bomb threat at the Middle School. At the school, I met with Dr. Glen Johnson, Greg Fitzgerald and Shipman. We considered the options and the threat. With the threat stating that it would happen tomorrow, we determined that it was not an immediate threat and would continue classes for the day. It was also decided that Law Enforcement would conduct a sweep of the School after classes.

I was also informed that the School had scheduled a practice evacuation for Oct 21st at 10:21. This practice evacuation was scheduled to coincide with the "Great Shake Out, Earthquake Drills". With this being planned, the school would be evacuated during the 10:30 threat time.

Law enforcement conducted a sweep of the School on the afternoon of the 20th and determined there was no threat present. Law Enforcement was also present when School opened on the 21st. There was also a general sweep of all "common areas", as well as monitored the in-coming students. Law enforcement was also present during the practice evacuation at 10:21.

Along with Administration and Facility Members, we in Law Enforcement take the safety of the students very seriously. We feel that the threat is completely without merit and are investigating the incident.

Allow me to commend the Administration, Facility Members and the Students on a job well done during the practice evacuation.

Chief of Police

In case you are wondering.....

Sandi Eby

NO - I have not gotten my new stem cells YET. I was to be treated at okyanos in freeport, grand Bahamas for the M.S. I have suffered from for almost 32yrs. At the last minute my appointment was cancelled because I had too many inflammatory markers in my blood work. Lately I have been dealing with piriforis syndrome which is a pain in the butt = seriously.....A pain in the butt. piriformis syndrome is a condition in which the piriformis muscle, located in the buttock region, spasms and causes buttock pain. The piriformis muscle can also irritate the nearby sciatic nerve and cause pain, numbness and tingling along the back of the leg and into the foot (similar to sciatic pain).

In me, this pain drops me to the ground w/o warning.....kinda like being hit with a tazer. I don't know all the movements that will cause this pain so I am being slower than normal. I know people are concerned and I wanted everyone to be updated. My treatment will be rescheduled when the inflammation goes down. For now I will continue with doctors, x-rays, MRI's, physical therapy, drugs, ice, stretching, cutting my days at work and anything else that might bring relief. When I know more – I will let everyone know = Thanks for your thots 'n prayers!

Opening Day of General Hunting Season Renews Montana Traditions

In Montana, a weekend like none other awaits.

After purchasing hunting licenses, applying for permits months ago, and laying plans over hot coffee and topo maps, young and old are filled with the anticipation that only comes with the opening day of Montana's general deer and elk hunting season. Beginning Saturday, Oct. 24 and continuing until the Sunday after Thanksgiving, Nov. 29, hunters in Montana will head afield with friends and family in pursuit of tradition as much as deer and elk.

"There's really nothing to compare it to," said Jeff Hagener, director of Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks in Helena. "About 100,000 hunters will be afield this weekend. Grocery stores will be busier than on Super Bowl Sunday. Rural coffee shops have ordered extra bacon and eggs and stocked up on homemade pie. FWP phones in every region of the state are ringing constantly and the FWP website will try to hold its own as folks far and wide try to find last-minute information on their favorite hunting areas."

In additional to bring family and friends together as cherished holidays do, deer and elk hunting alone generates $287 million for the state's economy year in and year out as hunters travel about Montana, stopping by local inns, roadhouses and sporting goods stores.

And these are good times for elk and deer hunters as Montana elk populations continue to be strong and deer numbers are bouncing back across most of the state after a spate of tough winters.

Even hunters who didn't draw a special permit this year, can fashion a rewarding experience in Montana with numerous opportunities to hunt for elk and deer with just a general hunting license.

Depending on the hunting district regulations hunters can pursue brow-tined bull elk, spike bull elk, either-sex elk, antlerless elk, and mule deer and white-tailed deer.

Deer and elk are found throughout most of Montana. In all, hunters spend about 946,000 days afield in Montana and enjoy nearly 35 million acres of National Forest and other public land, more than 30 wildlife management areas as well as 8 million acres of land made available through the Block Management Program.

"It's not an exaggeration to say this is a big, big deal here in Montana," Hagener said. "I've been in this job awhile and I'm always reminded of just how important hunting is to the people who live, work and vacation here. We Montanans talk and debate and laugh and argue about it all year long because we're passionate about these special Montana opportunities that can be found in few places these days. In Montana, hunting is bigger than just a hobby or recreational diversion, it's really a celebration of our culture and our history —and we look forward to it year after year."

For more information on elk and deer hunting in Montana, visit FWP's website at fwp.mt.gov, click "Hunting" then click Plan Your Hunt.

Hunters must follow all regulations and obtain permission to hunt on private property, where 65 percent of the state's the deer and 40 percent of the elk occur.

FWP wildlife biologists and game warders will be operating hunter check-stations throughout the state to collect biological information and ensure regulations are followed. All hunters are required to stop at check stations.

MONTANA WESTERN PROMOTES STUDENT HEALTH

Montana Western students received free flu shots and learned about local health resources during the annual health and wellness fair on campus this week.

The goal of the fair is to promote student health awareness and provide students access to local health care options they can take advantage of during their time at the university.

Along with flu shots, this year's fair included resources from local health care providers, therapy dogs, chair massages, healthy snacks and an alcohol risk management demonstration provided by UMW counselor and addiction specialist Jerry Girard. In the demonstration Girard highlighted the dangers associated with excessive alcohol consumption and how to properly measure amounts of alcohol poured.

"The annual health and wellness fair is an excellent opportunity for us to provide our students with health education and flu shots they otherwise might not receive," said UMW student wellness coordinator Lexi Benson. "Our community partners are great at participating in the fair and letting UMW students know about a variety of health care options right here in Dillon."

The year's annual fair was attended by well over 100 students.
