EDMC to Change Practices, Forgive Loans Through Agreement with Attorney General Tim Fox, State Attorneys General

Agreement with Pennsylvania-based for-profit education company addresses consumer complaints and investigation by state attorneys general

For-profit education company Education Management Corporation (EDMC) will significantly reform its recruiting and enrollment practices, and forgive more than $159,635 in loans for approximately 197 Montana former students, through an agreement with Attorney General Tim Fox and a group of state attorneys general.

EDMC, based in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, operates 110 schools in 32 states and Canada through four education systems, including Argosy University, The Art Institutes, Brown Mackie College and South University.

The agreement with attorneys general in 39 states plus the District of Columbia, through a consent judgment filed in First Judicial District Court in Helena, mandates added disclosures to students, including a new interactive online financial disclosure tool; bars misrepresentations to prospective students; prohibits enrollment in unaccredited programs; and institutes an extended period when new students can withdraw with no financial obligation.

Nationwide, the agreement requires the for-profit college company to forgive $102.8 million in outstanding loan debt held by more than 80,000 former students.

Thomas Perrelli, former U.S. Associate Attorney General, will independently monitor the company's settlement compliance for three years and issue annual reports.

Interactive Financial Disclosure Tool

The agreement will put in place a significant interactive online financial disclosure tool required for all prospective students who utilize federal student aid or loans. The impending online system, called the Electronic Financial Impact Platform (EFIP), is currently under the final stages of development by the U.S. Consumer Financial Protection Bureau (CFPB) and state attorneys general.

Based on a prospective student's individual data, EFIP will produce a detailed financial report that includes the student's projected financial commitment, living expenses and potential future earnings.

"This civil enforcement action holds EDMC accountable for what we allege were unfair and deceptive recruitment and enrollment practices," Attorney General Tim Fox said. "EDMC's practices were unfair to our state's students, and they were also unfair to our nation's taxpayers who backed many of these federal student loans that were destined to fail," Attorney General Fox added. "This is a rigorous agreement that not only provides some relief to a large number of former students through loan forgiveness, but helps ensure that the company will make substantial changes to its business practices for future students."

After receiving numerous complaints from current and former EDMC students, state attorneys general initiated a multistate investigation in January of last year. Attorneys and investigators reviewed consumer complaints, reviewed company documents, and interviewed former EDMC employees.

"Our investigation gave us a pretty clear picture of how EDMC lured prospective students into its programs, and how many students left the program with unfulfilled promises and oftentimes tremendous debt," Attorney General Fox said. "We think this agreement addresses our biggest concerns about the company's business practices and puts in place new transparency and accountability."

As part of the agreement, EDMC does not admit to the conduct alleged by attorneys general.

Agreement Highlights

Under the agreement, EDMC must:

- Not make misrepresentations concerning accreditation, selectivity, graduation rates, placement rates, transferability of credit, financial aid, veterans' benefits, and licensure requirements. EDMC shall not engage in deceptive or abusive recruiting practices and shall record online chats and telephone calls with prospective students.
- Provide a single-page disclosure to each prospective student that includes the student's anticipated total cost, median debt for those who complete the program, the default rate for those enrolled in the same program, warning about the unlikelihood that credits from some EDMC schools will transfer to other institutions, the median earnings for those who complete the program, and the job placement rate.
- Require every prospective student utilizing federal student loans or financial aid to submit information to the interactive Electronic Financial Impact Platform (EFIP) in order to obtain a personalized picture of the student's projected education program costs, estimated debt burden and expected post-graduate income.

- Reform its job placement rate calculations and disclosures to provide more accurate information about students' likelihood of obtaining sustainable employment in their chosen career.
- Not enroll students in programs that do not lead to state licensure when required for employment or that, due to lack of accreditation, will not prepare graduates for jobs in their field.
- Require incoming undergraduate students with fewer than 24 credits to complete an orientation program prior to their first class.
- Permit incoming undergraduate students at ground campuses to withdraw within seven days of the beginning of the term or first day of class (whichever is later) without incurring any cost.
- Permit incoming undergraduate students in online programs with fewer than 24 online credits to withdraw within 21 days of the beginning of the term without incurring any cost.
- Require that its lead vendors, which are companies that place website or pop-up ads urging consumers to consider new educational or career opportunities, agree to certain compliance standards. Lead vendors shall be prohibited from making misrepresentations about federal financing, including describing loans as grants or "free money;" sharing student information without their consent; or implying that educational opportunities are, in fact, employment opportunities.

Relief Eligibility

Those who will receive automatic relief related to outstanding EDMC institutional loans must have been enrolled in an EDMC program with fewer than 24 transfer credits; withdrew within 45 days of the first day of their first term; and their final day of attendance must have been between January 1, 2006 and December 31, 2014.

The agreement is expected to provide an average of $1,370 per person in loan forgiveness.

Separate Resolution of Federal False Claims Lawsuit

Today, EDMC also agrees to pay a $95 million settlement of a separate federal whistleblower lawsuit under the False Claims Act. In that case, brought by the U.S. Department of Justice on behalf of the Department of Education, the government alleged that EDMC illegally paid incentive-based compensation to its admissions recruiters tied to the number of students they recruit.

Attorney General Fox Awards Chrome for Kids Grants to Five Montana Non-Profits Today

This morning, Attorney General Tim Fox announced the five recipients of the second Montana Department of Justice Chrome for Kids Wish Fund grants at a Helena press conference. The grant funding came from sales of the department's Motor Vehicle Division's Chrome for Kids motorcycle license plate. Proceeds from plate sales fund efforts by Montana-based nonprofit organizations to grant wishes to chronically or critically ill Montana children.

"On behalf of the Montana Department of Justice, I'm so pleased to be able to award these grants for the second time in the last two years," said Attorney General Tim Fox. "It's only fitting that as we begin this holiday season, we thank Montana's participating motorcycle owners for their generosity, which will impact our critically ill children and their families in ways beyond measure. I'm always proud to be a Montanan, but never more so than on a day like today," Attorney General Fox added.

A Chrome for Kids motorcycle license plate costs $35. Twenty dollars of that amount is a donation to the Chrome for Kids Wish Fund for Montana-based nonprofit organizations that grant wishes to Montana children who are chronically or critically ill. To view the plate online, visit: <https://dojmt.gov/driving/plate-designs-and-fees/service-organizations-associations/>.

Motor Vehicle Administrator Sarah Garcia encouraged motorcyclists to choose the plate, adding, "The grant funds we awarded two years ago enabled 29 chronically or critically ill Montana children to receive a special wish. We know how important something like a dream vacation or something as simple as a superhero birthday party is to families who are dealing with a seriously ill child, and we're gratified that the sale of the Chrome For Kids license plate helps make these opportunities possible."

The Chrome for Kids plate was first released in June 2008. The grant funds awarded today represented plate donations from July 1, 2013 – June 10, 2015. Including today's grants, a total of $98,350 has been awarded through Chrome for Kids grants, which equals a total of 4,917 special license plates sold since 2008.
