Random Acts Of Kindness should be a part of everyone's day!

The White Hat Coalition is currently looking for nominations for the 12th annual "Doer of Good Deeds" award to be presented to a person, group or organization that has performed an outstanding good deed in the last 12 months that has benefited or changed the life of others or the community as a whole. To nominate just give the name, the deed or deeds, contact info of the nominee and contact info of the person nominating to Stan Smith at 850 West Park. Or call him at 683-4429 or 660-4429 or drop of a nomination at the Big Sky Cinema by the deadline of Tuesday, February 9th 2016.

This year the annual "Day of Good Deeds" will be Sunday, January 17th. This day is dedicated to bringing our community together through good deeds, community service and service to others. Paying forward positive acts of kindness and actions that benefit not only those receiving but those giving. So, on this day as on every day we all should consider opening a door for someone or shoveling an elderly neighbors walks or donating to a good cause among others deeds. Make this day the first day of a giving mind set. Let's all catch the true spirit of community service.

Montana Rolls Out New Driver License

Statewide Implementation to be Complete by End of February

The Montana Department of Justice announced today that its Motor Vehicle Division is busy rolling out Montana's newly designed driver license and identification cards. The cards have undergone a complete re-vamping on the look, feel, and design of the card, and also include new security features that will help reduce driver license fraud and identity theft. Additionally, the new cards feature a more durable laminate.

"The Montana Department of Justice's Motor Vehicle Division is always looking for new ways to enhance the security of our driver license and protect the privacy of citizens' information," Attorney General Tim Fox said. "The redesigned license does all of those things. Our staff has invested considerable time into this effort and I am grateful for their hard work on behalf of Montanans."

The new cards are now available in several driver exam stations across the state, including Missoula, Superior, Great Falls, Choteau, and Fort Benton. They will be available at Helena's exam station today; Bozeman will start tomorrow, and Billings will begin on Friday. It is anticipated that the remaining locations across Montana will be issuing the new cards by the end of February.

"The 2015 Legislature appropriated funds for updating the three Driver License Bureau computer platforms," said Motor Vehicle Division Administrator Sarah Garcia. "The antiquated systems were still operating on Microsoft Windows

XP software and were in need of replacement. One of these platforms included the driver's license and identification card. This update included a computer system upgrade and a card redesign. We are working with two separate vendors who are in various stages of implementing the new equipment statewide, station-by-station."

The design of the new card is representative of the beauty of Montana. The background graphic was based upon a photo taken in Glacier National Park by Donnie Sexton, a photographer with Travel Montana. Some of the embedded optically variable security features found on the new card are also recognizable elements of Montana, including our state flower, our state bird, the word "Montana," and ponderosa pine trees.

Since November, the Motor Vehicle Division has been reaching out to businesses, law enforcement agencies, and other key stakeholders to inform them of the new license design. That outreach process will continue.

In accordance with a state law passed by the legislature unanimously in 2007, Montana is not compliant with the federal REAL ID Act.

Letter to the Editor

A Letter to Mr. Brilliant

Once again, our community Hindenberg has put ink to paper and flipped his narcissistic mirror over to show us what miserable excuses for humanity all of us are for not agreeing with his self loathing vision of American History. His illogical thesis this time is that, since we have only experienced 21 years of peace in the 239 years of our nation's history (I have not verified his math), then it follows that we are a "dreadful" people committed to "the business of war". I am offended. Veterans are offended. Our cat immediately dragged The Dillonite into his litter box and took out his revenge in kind. Let's briefly examine the facts of when we were in major wars and why to see if Mr. Brilliant's thoughts are true:

- Revolutionary War: Down with the King! One for the good guys.
- War of 1812: Invaded. Somehow we managed to stay sovereign. Number two for the good guys.
- Mexican-American War: Remember the Alamo. This one could go either way, depending on how you feel about California. If you currently love California as part of the USA, then this is also a win for the good guys. However, if almost two hundred years later you feel buyers remorse at still having California in the Union, then maybe this one goes on the wrong side of the ledger.
- Civil War: Even though I am distantly related to REL by marriage, I assert that there was no way to get rid of the scourge of slavery without this conflict. Score one for the good guys at a heavy price.
- Spanish-American War: Any war Harry Truman fought in, I support. Plus, we got Guantanamo which has been a thorn in Castro's caboose. Another winner.
- World War I: Dumb English. Dumber French. Really dumb Germans. Call to that Super Hero, Uncle Sam, to save Europe from itself. Like stooges, we took the call, but ended the unbelievable (until then) carnage. Another one for the good guys.
- World War II: We went home from WWI, but between the dumb English, French, Germans and an Ivy League pandering President Wilson (D.), the seeds for Hitler, Tojo, and Mussolini were sown and grew into Poland and Pearl Harbor. Back in it again to save the world! My physicist uncle was drafted to work in Wendover, UT

UT on a strange gadget. Thank God we didn't have a gutless President and Harry used it. One more for the good guys.
- Korean War: The UN actually did something to stop aggression. Score two thirds of a point for the good guys. MacArthur was right.

- Vietnam War: When I only have six months to live, I just may visit LBJ's grave in TX and . . . well, I'll probably be incontinent by that point and . . . well, when nature calls . . . What on earth made us think we were smarter than the French? Dumb war. Chalk one up for the dark side.

Enough. I said a brief examination. The point is Mr. Brilliant is dead wrong, once again. Most of America's major wars have been pushed upon us and our citizens responded with honor and purpose. We can examine wars since Vietnam, but the truth is that these recent conflicts have been building blocks towards a full clash of civilizations ever since 1948 and our subsequent support of Israel. Are we now going to dump Israel and totally disengage from the Middle East and the Muslim world? Politically and globally impossible. So here we sit, Mr. Brilliant, with 2 billion Muslims, 71% or so of which are blood pissed at the US and want our heads in an existential world street fight including nukes. Two choices. Either follow you and stay with our "sensitive" rules of engagement and "the best defense wins" strategy (which has never prevailed in the history of man in clashes of cultures/civilizations) and end up losing our country or beat these barbarians silly with all weapons and means at hand until they see the errors of their ways. This isn't about business and war profiteers, Mr. Brilliant. It is about survival of our country, our faiths, and our way of life. You are an insult to all of our service members who continue to stand in harm's way. If that makes you feel "dreadful", I could care less. My cat and I are not about to write any "We are Sorry" notes, as you suggest. We are damn proud of our country's history, though it contains flaws. We regret that you feel differently, but are still able to find a public voice to continually harangue the rest of us against the country that has given you so much. Give it a break!

Artificial Pancreas

JDRF-Funded AP Technology Receives
$12.7 Million Clinical Development Grant from the National Institutes of Health

We celebrate a significant achievement that advances delivery of artificial pancreas (AP) technology to the type 1 diabetes (T1D) community. Over the past decade, JDRF has provided more than $3.5 million to support the development of AP technology by University of Virginia (UVA) researchers. That technology has now taken a major step towards commercialization with the research team announcing that its inControl AP platform will be tested in a multi-center, $12.7 million clinical trial funded by the National Institutes of Health using money from its Special Diabetes Program, which JDRF persuaded Congress to renew last year. The trial is set to begin early this year. The research team also has licensed its inControl AP platform to the startup TypeZero Technologies for the purpose of commercializing the software should it receive FDA approval. This important accomplishment would not have been possible without help from our many supporters. We are extremely grateful to our donors, partners and the entire T1D community.

The inControl AP software is an algorithm that links insulin pumps and continuous glucose monitors to automate insulin delivery in a manner that prevents dangerous blood sugar highs and lows in people with T1D. Over the past decade, JDRF has supported development of UVA's project and other AP technology by creating the JDRF AP Consortium, providing more than $100 million in funding support and working with the U.S. Food and Drug Administration to develop a pathway for AP systems approval. UVA lead researcher Boris Kovatchev, Ph.D., has publicly acknowledged JDRF's role in helping to advance the UVA project.

The advancement of the inControl AP platform could play an important role in delivering highly reliable, effective AP systems that keep blood sugar within a safe and healthy range with little monitoring and action on the part of the user. It's an important step towards creating a world without T1D, made possible by JDRF supporters.
