Hearings

By: MJ

2-3-111. Opportunity to submit views -- public hearings.
(1) Procedures for assisting public participation must include a method of affording interested persons reasonable opportunity to submit data, views, or arguments, orally or in written form, prior to making a final decision that is of significant interest to the public.

Currently the city is holding hearings on the Growth Plan, Marijuana, Zone change of an area from R3 to R2 and Zoning document changes. If you are interested in any of the issues listed make it appoint to attend hearing or contact your council representative.

It is a lengthy process to make changes of any kind when working with the government. Example: If public would ask for a zone change in a certain area they would take that request to zoning committee. The committee gathers all required information before making a decision as to whether it is in the best interest of community to make the change. Everyone in the area must have opportunity to comment thus public hearings are held by committee. The zoning committee after public hearings, sends the request onto the council with their recommendations. Council then must hold their own public hearings before they can make a final decision. It's a lengthy procedure and a bit confusing however it allows the public many opportunities to comment. If the public chooses not to participate often the decisions will be made with inferences, feelings, via associations...

Avoid Becoming a Victim of Tax-Related ID Theft – File Your Tax Return Early

This Week is Tax Identity Theft Awareness Week

The Montana Department of Justice's Office of Consumer Protection reminds Montanans that one important way to protect themselves from tax-related identity theft is to file their returns well before the tax deadline, which is April 18 this year.

The Internal Revenue Service (IRS) reports there has been an increase in tax-related identity theft in recent years. "This type of identity theft occurs when a criminal uses your stolen Social Security number to file a tax return claiming a fraudulent refund," Attorney General Tim Fox said. "However, these tax refund thieves can only be successful if they file a tax returns in the victims' names claiming refunds before their victims file, because the IRS only accepts one return per person per year."

Attorney General Fox noted that taxpayers usually do not know they are the victims of tax-related ID theft until they receive a notice from the IRS after they have filed their tax return. The notice might indicate that your Social Security number has already been used on another return, or the notice might say that you collected wages from an employer for whom you did not work.

If you receive such a notice, you should take several steps to deal with the issue:

- First, fill out IRS Form 14039, Identify Theft Affidavit, which is available at www.IRS.gov. The IRS will issue you an "identify protection personal identification number" (IP PIN), which is intended to prevent future fraud.
- Second, set up a fraud alert with one of the three credit reporting bureaus. They include: Experian (www.Experian.com/fraud/center.html, 888-397-3742), Equifax (alerts.equifax.com/AutoFraudOnline/jsp/fraudAlert.jsp, 888-766-0008, and TransUnion (https://www.transunion.com/fraud-victim-resource/important-contacts 800-680-7289). The bureau you contact will share the information with the other two bureaus.
- Third, report the matter to local law enforcement.
- Fourth, review the Department of Justice's Identify Theft web page. https://dojmt.gov/consumer/identity-theft/
- Fifth, report the matter to the Federal Trade Commission at www.ftc.gov

It's also key to remember the IRS does not initiate contact with taxpayers by email to request personal or financial information. This includes any type of electronic communication, such as text messages and social media channels. If you are contacted by anyone who claims to need personal identification or financial information from you, the best course of action is to hang up the phone, do not respond to the email or text, and do not click on any links. Find the company's phone number in a phonebook, or by searching for it online, and call the company directly to ask if they do indeed need any information from you. A good rule of thumb to follow is don't give out your identification or financial information to anyone over the phone or via electronic communication unless you initiated contact.

Because of the nationwide increase in identity theft and filing of fraudulent returns, the Montana Department of Revenue is taking more time to review returns to ensure they are valid. This means it will take longer for Montanans to receive their refunds than in previous years. "We want to make sure the returns we receive are really from you before we send you a refund, and this takes a little more time. We want to protect your money and we appreciate your patience if your refund takes a little longer to get to you," said Department of Revenue Director Mike Kadas.

For more information on protecting your data, visit the IRS security webpage www.irs.gov/taxsecuritytogether, the Montana Department of Justice Office of Consumer Protection at <https://dojmt.gov/consumer> or the Montana Department of Revenue at revenue.mt.gov.

2016 HUNTING LICENSES ON SALE MONDAY WITH CHANGES IN FEES

Montana's 2016 hunting and fishing licenses go on sale Monday, Feb. 1, under a new fee structure passed by the state legislature. Licenses will be available at all Montana Fish, Wildlife and Parks license outlets.

This year hunters must purchase a new "base hunting license" that is a prerequisite to buying any state hunting license. The $10 resident license includes the hunting access enhancement fee that was charged separately for $2 last year. The new base hunting license was created in lieu of adjusting license fees for individual species.

A season-long Montana resident fishing license will increase by $3 this year to $21. Fishing licenses will no longer be sold in combination with a conservation license – which is required for any hunting or fishing license purchase. The price of a resident conservation license will remain at $8 for all ages.

Under the new structure, most licenses that were free or discounted in 2015 will be charged at half of the standard license cost. Previously, free licenses or a variety of discounted prices were offered to some youth, seniors and disabled sportsmen. In 2016, only military recognition and block management cooperator combination licenses will remain free. FWP is reimbursed by the state general fund for military recognition licenses and block management cooperators provide hunting opportunities for all sportsmen.

Starting Feb. 1, the new fee structure will standardize the definition of youth as those between 12 and 17 years old. This language replaces a number of age categories.

The price of all other resident tags, licenses, drawing fees and permits will remain the same as in 2015.

MNA's Management Series Will Strengthen Nonprofits in Dillon

The Montana Nonprofit Association (MNA) announced the return of its Nonprofit Management Series in 2016 with series workshops offered in Dillon and Missoula. Each day-long workshop in the four-part series focuses on an essential of nonprofit management: good board governance, strong financial management, bold strategic planning and successful fundraising.

Dillon workshops are on Feb. 18, March 17, April 21 and May 19 at the University of Montana Western campus and all workshops will run from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Registration starts at $90 per workshop for MNA member organizations, and certificates of completion for continuing education are available upon request.

MNA Executive Director Liz Moore said, "The Nonprofit Management Series is tailored to nonprofit staff, board members, and volunteers. It is intended to equip them with the tools they need to move the organization's mission forward." The Nonprofit Management Series is limited to two Montana communities each year. According to Moore, "When leaders from a particular area like Dillon take a deeper dive into nonprofit essentials together, the entire local nonprofit community benefits."

Deb Sivumaki, executive director of Eagle Mount Therapeutic Recreation, said she received many valuable tools that helped her organization update their by-laws and policy and procedures manual when she attended the 2015 series in Great Falls.

"Quality trainings that are affordable for a small nonprofit is so helpful," she said of the series. "We have actually involved the entire staff in the process of updating the policy and procedures manual. Our training [at the management series] has become a staff training tool!"

MNA believes Montana's vitality and livability depend on a thriving nonprofit sector. We are working toward a future where nonprofits have the resources, partnerships, and stakeholder support necessary for mission achievement. We focus on advocacy and public policy, affordable products and services, organizational development and training, promoting nonprofit networks and partnerships, and supporting philanthropy. Cowboy Disobedience

Why the Oregon Uprising? Good question. Montana State Senator, Jennifer Fielder (R- Thompson Falls), believes the well-armed uprising was the result of the federal government having too much control over local land management. Sound familiar? Of course it does. We've listened to this same old song and dance for the past 35 years. It started in the bad old days of the Reagan-Watt Sagebrush Rebellion nonsense and continues into the Bundy-Barrett-Fielder era.

It should be noted that Ms. Fielder prayed that the upraising "situation" would be resolved peacefully. Like most situations involving morons with guns, the end result is evidence the good senator needs a little work in praying skills.

Like this writer, many readers are fed up with this type of cowboy led uncivil disobedience.

For the disgruntled Utah-Oregon ranchers doing business on my property, I respectfully request you stop your pathetic whining about the federal government. Your grazing fees are around $1.50 for a cow unit. Is that too much?
