EDWARD RUSSEL BROWN 1927-2016

The Book of Ecclesiastes teaches us that there is nothing sadder or more magnificent than generations changing hands. On the evening of February 14, 2016, another of America's 'greatest generation' passed from this life into the next.

Edward Russel Brown entered peacefully into rest at home in Lynnwood, Washington after suffering a major stroke.

Born in the 'old' Barrett hospital in Dillon on February 16, 1927, Ed was the son of John Jackson "Jack" Brown and May E. (Marchesseau) Brown. Ed had two stepbrothers, James "Jim" Brown and Emerson "Joe" Brown. Known as Russel growing up in Dillon, Bannack, and the Grasshopper, Ed was the grandchild of Beaverhead pioneers Edmund and Elizabeth Marchesseau, who had 12 children. Ed's mother May was their fourth, born in the Grasshopper in 1893. May attended Polaris school, graduated from Montana State Normal School (now UMWestern) and taught school in Kidd and Dell before she married Jack at St. James's Church in Dillon in 1919. In the 1920s, Jack and his sons built the Elkhorn Lodge and Hot Springs in Polaris and also built the long gone Pipe Organ Lodge near Armstead, now under Clark Canyon Reservoir. Jack worked the gold mine in Bannack for a time in the 1930s. May worked as a real estate agent and teacher. Jack and his sons also built houses and barns and other structures that can still be seen in the Grasshopper. In his later years, Ed enjoyed sharing stories about growing up in Beaverhead County in the 1930s and 40s with all the dozens of members of the extended Marchesseau family around. He was especially close to his first cousin Erwin "Bud" Marchesseau, and his great aunt, Mary "Mame" Shepherd.

Ed attended grade school in Bannack and the Bagley school in Dillon. He, along with most of the other boys in the BCHS class of 1945, volunteered to fight in WWII, enlisting in the United States Navy. He served in the Naval Air Corps, with a rank of ARM3 (E4), and was honorably discharged in late 1946. After his discharge from active duty, he served four years in the Navy Reserve. Taking advantage of the GI Bill, he attended Western Montana College for a year before attending the University of Washington in Seattle, graduating in 1950 with a degree in Russian. Edward obtained a Master's degree in political science from the University of Montana in 1951.

At the suggestion of his brother Jim, then a commander in the U.S. Coast Guard, Edward moved to Washington D.C. This move resulted in three major life events. First, he became a lifelong Baltimore Colts Fan. He never adjusted to the Colts moving to Indianapolis, or to the loss to the Jets in Super Bowl III. Second, as a result of a blind date, Edward was introduced to Reba Jo Guy, originally of Welch, West Virginia. Reba and Ed married in Washington on April 5, 1952. Out of this union were born Cynthia (Brown) Plenert, Russel John Brown, and James Edward Brown. Oldest son Kevin Brown, was adopted from an orphanage in Tehran, Iran. Ed and Reba divorced in 1987, and Reba made Dillon her home until her death in 2007.

Third, in 1952 Edward was hired by a new federal agency known as the Central Intelligence Agency. Edward spent almost thirty years with CIA, primarily in the area of covert operations. Edward was truly a 'cold warrior' in every sense of the term. During his time in the agency, Ed served in Greece, Iran, Turkey, Afghanistan, Pakistan, and Nepal. During his career, he received high level recognition for his service on behalf of the United States and the American people during the Cold War. As well as Russian, Ed spoke Farsi and Turkish. He enjoyed history and talked extensively about the gift of being able to visit personally the battlefields of ancient places and persons such as Alexander the Great, Sparta, Rome, and Genghis Khan. From his earliest days, Edward had a love of learning and a love for travel. Both interests were satisfied many times over, thanks to his work in the Foreign Service and his travels across the world - visiting every continent except Antarctica. He said his biggest regret was never being able to visit Russia and to see Red Square in person, not surprising for a man whose professional career centered around countering the influence of the Soviet Union throughout the Cold War.

Edward truly had a remarkable, active, and memorable life.

Although Edward was not a man of many words and rarely spoke of his work in the CIA, on occasion, and when his children were lucky enough to hear it, Edward enjoyed telling stories about the many interesting characters he encountered during his military and government service. After retirement from federal service, Ed worked for a time with his brothers in business in Seattle before settling into a life of peaceful retirement, where he pursued his interests in reading, history, and caring for his cats, a species for which Edward had a long and abiding love – even though he was allergic to them! His favorite time of the day was mornings, where he could drink coffee, pet his cat, and read the newspaper.

In 1991, Ed married Beli Lama, and the two settled in Lynnwood. While married to Beli, Edward helped raise two of her Nepalese nieces, Sarah and Parvati, providing them with a college education and a home in this country. During the last years of his life, Edward became very bonded to Tej Tamang, Beli's nephew – who served as his caretaker and close friend during the period of Ed's declining health.

Ed is survived by his second wife, Beli, along with his children, Kevin (Dawn) Brown of Dillon, Cindy (Jack) Plenert of Dillon, Russel Brown of Maryland, and James Brown of Helena, and by four grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Now that these words have been written, Edward's children want to convey the following: If life is nothing more than a collection of memories, then our father blessed us with a lifetime's worth. Our father truly introduced us to the wonders of this magnificent world. Our father would often repeat his mother's saying that "life is sweet". While the book of Ecclesiastes also teaches us that the former generations are not remembered; we respectfully disagree. We will never forget time spent together in such far flung places as Kabul, Afghanistan or Karachi, Pakistan or in places closer to home such as Yellowstone Park, Disneyland, or the museums of Washington D.C. Our father was a remarkable man, we are thankful to him for giving us the gift of life, and we were and are honored to call him 'Dad'.

Services are scheduled for 2 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 27, at Brundage Funeral Home in Dillon followed with full military honors at Mountain View Cemetery.

State of the Art Lab Equipment

George and Donna Fryett, longtime residents of Dillon and generous donors to Barrett Hospital Foundation, have given $25,000 to purchase a state of the art Arterial Blood Gas Analyzer and enough reagents to last approximately two years. The Siemens Rapidpoint 500 will be able to analyze blood gas tests and measure the amount of oxygen and carbon dioxide in the blood.

The test performed on this machine, commonly known as a blood gas analysis or arterial blood gas (ABG) test, provides a precise measurement of the oxygen and carbon dioxide levels in the body, which can help providers determine how well a patient's lungs and kidneys are working; specifically, how well a patient's lungs are able to move oxygen into the blood and remove carbon dioxide from the blood. Imbalances in the oxygen, carbon dioxide, and pH levels of an individual's blood may indicate the presence of certain medical conditions, such as kidney failure, heart failure, uncontrolled diabetes, hemorrhage, chemical poisoning, drug overdose, and shock.

According to Larry Goss, Laboratory Manager, "The new Arterial Blood Gas Analyzer will allow us to provide testing and results to patients much more quickly than in the past. This, in turn, may help achieve better outcomes for patients when a diagnosis and subsequent treatment plan is identified more quickly."

The analyzer is the newest piece of equipment to be added to the already impressive lineup of laboratory and diagnostic equipment available to patients and providers at Barrett Hospital & HealthCare.

Barrett Hospital & HealthCare is grateful to the Fryetts for their continued generosity and commitment to the health of the people of southwest Montana.

Bulldogs drop fourth straight, fall to Montana Tech

The University of Montana Western women's basketball team dropped their fourth consecutive game as they lost to Montana Tech 72-66 on Saturday night, the Bulldogs emerged with victories in their first two meeting this season. (Box Score)

After a slow-start and facing a 16-point deficit late in the third quarter, the Bulldogs (13-15 overall, 3-13 Frontier) mounted a comeback as they tried to win at Montana Tech (8-19, 4-12) for the second time this year.

Montana Western was unable to regain the lead after Tech took a 12-11 lead at the 6:22 mark in the first quarter and never looked back until a 27-12 Bulldog run that started with visitors trailing 50-34 with 3:53 remaining the third quarter and ended with 3:39 remaining in the game and Tech holding a one-point lead, 62-61.

At that point, Martha Dembek finished off the game by scoring five of her game-high 29 points down the stretch as the Orediggers finished the game on a 10-5 run to take control of the sixth and final playoff spot for the Frontier Conference tournament.

Despite a season-high 23 points from Bulldog guard Sierra Higheagle, 10-15 shooting from the field, Montana Western dropped to the seventh spot in the Frontier Conference standings.

Higheagle was joined in double-figures by Aniese Palmore (16) and Frankie Bignell (10) as Kaye Bignell chipped in with eight points. The four players combined for 57 of the Bulldogs 66 points as the rest of the team struggled to get going offensively.

Kaye Bignell and freshman Britt Cooper tied with a team-high five rebounds in the game, as Bignell also finished with a team-high two assists.

Higheagle brought down four rebounds, came away with two steals and blocked a shot to add to her scoring effort.

Montana Western will return to action for a pair of home games next Thursday and Friday as they take on Carroll College and Rocky Mountain College. Both games are set to tip-off at 5:30 p.m., Friday's game against Rocky will be senior night for two Bulldogs.

Bulldogs earn three-game season sweep of Montana Tech

The Montana Western Bulldogs completed a three-game sweep over Frontier Conference rivals Montana Tech with a 64-56 victory. The win moved Western into a tie for second place with Carroll College heading into the final week of regular season.

Coming off a big upset win over No. 3 Lewis-Clark State on Thursday, the Bulldogs (18-10 overall, 11-5 Frontier) message for two days was to make sure they had no let-downs against the last-placed Montana Tech Orediggers (8-20, 3-13).

Montana Western was playing to keep their chances at the No. 2 seed for the conference tournament and their NAIA National Tournament hopes alive. Having won four consecutive games – including the first Frontier Conference road-sweep during head coach Steve Keller's nine-year tenure – the Bulldogs were helped out by No. 15 Carroll College dropping two games on the road.

In the early-goings, it appeared that senior night for Tech's lone senior Paul Engstrom was going to end in a blow-out, as Montana Western jumped out to an early 23-6 lead and was in complete control of the game. Tech guards scored 16 points over the next six minutes and cut the lead to just three points at 28-25.

Western responded to finish the half on a 7-2 run to take a 35-27 lead into intermission.

A back-and-forth second half saw Tech cut Western's lead to just two points, again the Bulldogs responded and stretched their lead back to as many as nine points as they led from wire-to-wire and controlled the final five minutes of the game.

Dexter Williams, Jr. continued to build steam as he finished with his ninth double-double this season with a team-high 21 points.

Connor Woodill (14) and Demetrius Balark (13) joined Williams, Jr. in double-figures, Woodill knocked down three 3-pointers as Balark finished 5-9 from the floor, including two monster slam-dunks that brought the crowd to their feet.

Quinn Smith was relatively quiet on the offensive end of the floor as he scored just six points, but he was a force at the rim, blocking a career-high six shots despite playing with foul trouble the entire second half.

Coates did it all for Tech, scoring a game-high 29 points on 13-28 shooting from the floor, including 2-10 from 3-point territory. He also had six rebounds, two assists and two steals in the game.

Sadiq Inuwa had a solid game off the bench for the Orediggers, he scored just two points but brought in a team-high nine rebounds, blocked three shots and had two steals.

Engstrom had eight points, four rebounds and a steal in his
