Dear Dillon Community:

The Dillon Jaycees are exploring the idea of having a three day rodeo (Saturday, Sunday, and Monday) in 2017 to better support the community over Labor Day weekend and to sustain an ability to serve Dillon and southwestern Montana in years to come. As an organization that is committed to the community of Dillon this is not something that we would do without reaching out to you first.

If you go to <http://www.dillonjaycees.com/rodeo/3dayrodeosurvey.html> you can complete a short survey regarding the Dillon Jaycees Rodeo. For submitting a survey, your name will be entered in a drawing for two tickets for the Saturday and Sunday 2016 "Montana's Biggest Weekend" Dillon Jaycees Labor Day Rodeo and two tickets to the Labor Day Concert featuring Montgomery Gentry and Old Dominion.

We thank you for your continued support and we look forward to another great year.

Sincerely,
The Dillon Jaycees

"Because the Service to Humanity is the Best Work of Life."

Judgment

By: MJ

During the time humans get together in a conversation they seem get around to making statements that are judgmental. Judgmental is to be inclined to make a moral judgment about others and their conduct. Question: Do we allow our judgments about others to become harsh, hurtful and demeaning? In the course of conversations where we are making judgements about others, why is it that humans tend to laugh off condescending statements?

"When you judge others, you do not define them, you define yourself" Earl Nightingale. Example as per Shannon L Alde: If you Read it with sorrow you will feel hate; Read it with anger and you will feel vengeful; Read it with empathy and you will feel compassion, Read it with love and you will feel flattery, Read it with hope and you will feel flattery, Read it with hope and you will positive...

There is a well-known statement that explains (judgement) clearly: "Do not judge, or you too will be judged, for in the same way you judge others, you will be judged, and with the measure you use, it will be measured to you."

BEAVERS COACH OF THE YEAR AND ALL - CONFERENCE TEAM MEMBERS

The Beavers just finished with the Class A boys basketball title and now are getting many other awards.

Dillon's head coach Terry Thomas was voted the league's coach of the Year. He has a 22-2 record this year with the Beavers team going undefeated in conference play.

The team had three players picked to the Southwestern A's All-Conference tea and were the only team to have multiple players on the First Team.

Tanner Havrefield and Troy Andersen, the team's two leading scorers, were picked to the First Team. Nate Simkins led the Second Team selection. He had a great game for the title and scored 28 points last Saturday night.

Butte Central girls, Dillon boys dominate All-Star selections

After dominating all season long, the Butte Central girls' and Dillon boys' basketball teams were heavily rewarded for their efforts, Tuesday afternoon.

The Maroons and Beavers each had five players selected to the Southwest Montana All-Star Classic game, the most of any school.

The rosters were selected by a committee of sports writers, broadcasters, and media personnel after players were nominated by their head coaches.

The Big Sky Girls will be coached by current Butte Central football coach Don Peoples Jr., and former Butte High and Eastern Washington star Lexi Nelson, who is currently an assistant at Montana Tech.

That group will square off with the Treasure State Girls who are headlined by seven girls from Dillon and Anaconda.

The Dillon girls, who will also appear at the Class A

SCIENCE AND ART COMBINE TO CREATE UNIQUE STUDENT PROJECTS

Biology professor Michelle Anderson and art instructor Nolan Salix recently combined classes to tackle environmental issues.

Students from biology and art classes partnered up to create presentations and final projects about specific species. The projects portrayed issues from both a scientific and artistic perspective.

"This was a great final project for the students because it allowed them to broaden their view and approach about the species they were studying," Anderson said.

Biology and art are usually seen as being on opposite sides of the academic spectrum, Anderson and Salix explained but they believe that the disciplines intertwine and compliment each other well. Both are attuned to viewing nature from both a scientific and artistic perspective, as Anderson was raised by her artist mother while Salix is married to a scientist and is an avid conservationist.

"By combining these disciplines it allows the art to be driven by science and nature which is empowering and creative beyond the typical art market criteria," Salix said.

Salix plans to do similar collaborative projects with other members of the science department in the future.

The biology students researched their species extensively and created professional-level posters which are featured along side the artwork. The posters have specific details about the animals and plant-life such as its impact on the environment, its importance to the ecosystem and other unique characteristics it might have.

Species addressed in the project include elephants, platypus, elk, water bears, giardia, plant-life and others. Students used various mediums of art including water color, three-dimensional sculpture, Photoshop editing, photo transfer, assemblage, woodcarving and more.

"I contributed the facts and details about the species while my partner's art piece was able to draw the viewer in, get them engaged and evoke an emotional response," biology student Kelsie Field said. "I enjoyed this project because of the enthusiasm surrounding it and the inspiring and meaningful artwork that emerged."

Bulldog volleyball inks Junior College transfer

The University of Montana head volleyball coach Lisa Griffiths has announced the signing of Kiarra Johnson to an NAIA Letter of Intent.

Johnson, a 5-6 setter is a native of Idaho Falls, Idaho and a 2013 graduate from Idaho Falls High School. She is a transfer from Casper College in Casper, Wyo. While at Casper, she recorded 1118 assists, 337 digs, 73 kills, 49 blocks and 16 service aces during one full season of play.

As a prep, Johnson was a two-time First-Team all-state setter, a First-Team High Country Conference setter and the District 5-6 Player of the Year her senior season at Idaho Falls High School.

She was an academic all-state selection for three years and on her high school's honor roll.

"Montana Western has a strong reputation for academic excellence with the block schedule and I love the strong athletic programs and community support," stated Johnson.

The daughter of Ted and Wendy Johnson, Kiarra plans to major in Education.

"Kiarra is a competitor with a high volleyball IQ and great volleyball experience. She is passionate about the game and a great fit personally, academically, and athletically for Montana Western," said Head Coach Lisa Griffiths, "I am excited to add her to our volleyball family."
