THANK YOU

The family of Leonard Waldemar wishes to thank everyone who helped us get through our loss. We appreciate the cards, food, flowers and sympathy you extended to us.

Mary Jo really appreciated the neighborhood help, concern and love.

Thank you to Dr. McIntyre, Lori, Julie, Home Health and all the others who offered care.

We very much appreciate the love that Dillon has shown us. Thank You!

Sobering Study: Is Moderate Drinking Overrated?

Tyrades! By Danny Tyree

"Tell me, Hank, whyyyyyy do you drink...?"

In one of his signature songs, country music superstar Hank Williams, Jr. uses "family tradition" to answer that question; but for the past several years, lots of other people have answered "for my health."

Yes, several studies have trumpeted the benefits of moderate drinking. According to CBS News, those selling points may be exaggerated.

High-volume alcohol use remains harmful, but apparently moderate drinkers have no longevity advantage over non-drinkers.

Scientists at the University of Victoria's Center For Addiction Research in British Columbia, Canada analyzed 87 previous studies on alcohol and death from all causes and concluded that the results linking moderate drinking to longer life may be skewed because of "abstainer bias" (i.e. comparing moderate drinkers to non-drinkers often included people who don't consume alcohol due to other health issues, such as former drinkers who stopped because of poor health).

So-called "abstainer bias" leads to false conclusions. "Abstainer bias" lends behavioral support where none is warranted. "Abstainer bias" gives college kids a whole new phrase to listen for when taking alcohol shots.

The U of Victoria group would not go so far as to speculate why the previous researchers missed such a glaring error; but when the paper was presented to "The Journal of Studies on Alcohol and Drugs," a state trooper was on hand to intone, "Buzzed researching IS drunk researching."

Except for my father's elderberry wine (for croup) and my wife's grandfather's blackberry cordial (for digestive problems), I've never imbibed. But I'll admit that the prevailing medical wisdom of the past few years made me wonder if I was cheating myself. Who WOULDN'T like an extra year or two on their lifespan, to listen to feuding scientists deliver completely opposite "settled science" conclusions every other week? ("I can lick any scientist in the place — except the one on that pink elephant.")

As the new reality sinks in, relationships will change. The cocky moderate drinker who told his non-drinking neighbor, "I'll dance on your grave, you holier-than-thou, teetotaling &%$#@"?

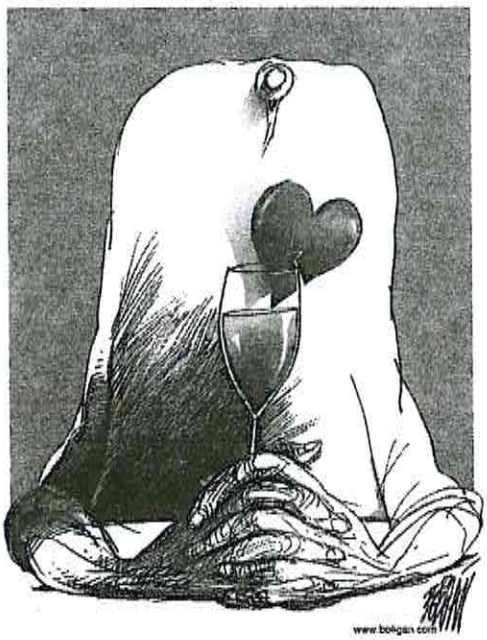
He now reassures his neighbor, "Oh, is THAT what you thought I said???? No, I asked if you could let me on your shuffleboard team at the assisted living facility, silly."

Many moderate drinkers are now realizing that the earlier studies that validated their imbibing were really wishful thinking. I have to wonder about some of the other wishful thinking papers that have been published in scientific journals over the years. The top three myths would surely include:

1. Filling your purse with restaurant condiments staves off carpal tunnel syndrome.
2. Double-dipping potato chips is a major preventer of hyperthyroidism.
3. Letting your dog secretly relieve himself in your neighbor's yard is the pituitary gland's best friend.

To be sure, some experts still say that moderate drinking has benefits related to blood pressure, stress reduction and improved cholesterol numbers. Brags one self-described moderate drinker, "Alcohol makes my blood platelets less sticky. But, oh, this bathroom floor is sticky. Baaaarrrrffff!"

And sociologists still see the value of moderate drinking in the area of meeting strangers and achieving moderate pregnancy.



I'd love to write more about the long-term implications of the U of Victoria study, but all of Hank, Jr.'s rowdy (but resigned to reality) friends are coming over tonight. They just have to swing by the convenience market advertising "Coldest yoga/ Pilates mats in town."

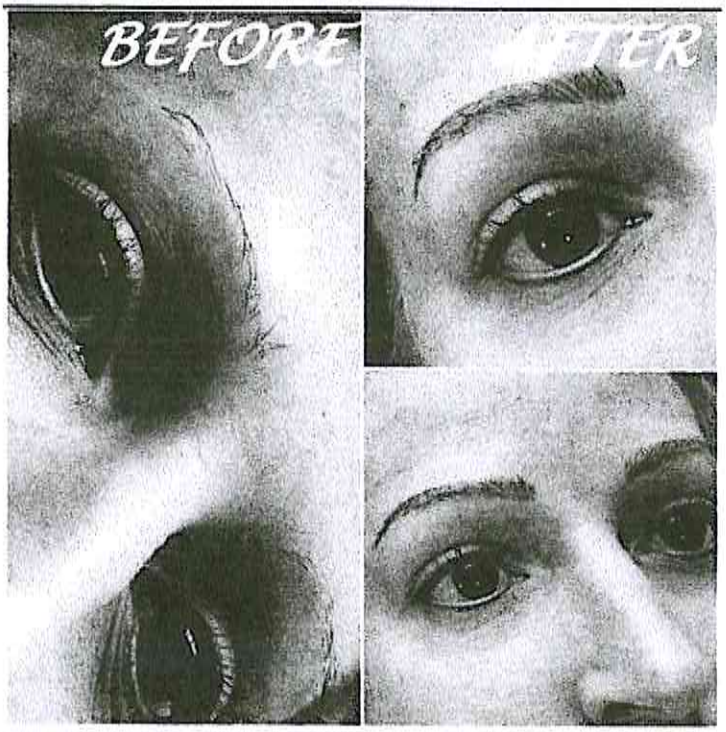
Brows Speak Louder Than Words... What are yours saying?



Microblading also known as "3d feathering", "eyebrow embroidery", is a relatively new method that is a semi-permanent tattoo using hair like strokes to create a very beautiful natural looking eyebrow for anyone looking to clean up their sparse or sporadic eyebrows! It is a two step process and last 1-3 years. Pamper yourself or your sweetheart! After all they say that the eyes are the window to the soul... and your eyebrows are the expression of that soul!

Now serving Dillon! Call to save your spot today!

6th Annual Hagenbarth Livestock Charity Pheasant Hunt and Wood Bank Raffle Results

The Sixth Annual Hagenbarth Charity Pheasant Hunt and Wood Bank Raffle was held near Glen Montana on Saturday, March 12, 2016. Nine 3 man teams, aided by man's best friend tried their skills in harvesting 10 pheasants from the cattails along the Big Hole River, breaking ten clays and retrieving 5 thrown birds. Don and Janet Richardson of Glen organized the event and secured the raffle sponsors. All ran smoothly with the help of family and friends. Special thanks going to Janet Richardson, Carol Bryan, Candice Wondercheck, Lori Butori, Bob Wolf and Wood Bank volunteers ,who kept time, records and scores on the events. Three places were paid and the following teams earned the bragging rights, 1st Paul Cleary of Glen, Steve Luebeck of Butte and Ray Gross of Dillon (302.65), 2nd Steve Luebeck of Butte, Don Richardson Jr of Buel, Idaho and Jim Hagenbarth of Dillon (275.56), and 3rd Mark Bartlett of Butte, Dustin Hover and Roger Beatty of Missoula(269.12). A raffle was held with 35 items donated by 28 area businesses and individuals. This year $8168 was donated to the Beaverhead Community Wood Bank Ministry. Heads to Tail Groomer won the sponsor's raffle, a 3 bird hunt. We thank KDBM, The Dillon Tribune, The Montana Standard and the Dillonite Daily for donating advertising. We thank all the hunt participants, organizers, raffle ticket purchasers, those donating cash, and the participating area businesses for making this a successful and fun event. We are looking forward to next year.

Stained Glass for Beginners - using the copper foiling techniques ('Tiffany Style')

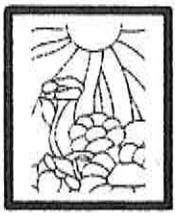
Course tuition: $360, includes the following:

1. Professionally guided hands-on instruction.
2. Stained glass toolbox of quality tools and materials (worth $325).
3. Use of workspace facilities during class.

This class is a hands-on immersion course using proven techniques, tips and tricks to make a piece of fine quality stained glass art. The course goals are to create participant confidence to work independently, to explore making advanced stained glass art and to build a piece of stained glass art. This class will use the American Method of construction with reference to the English Style of construction.

Participants will learn how to:

1. Recognize stained glass basic design elements, styles and high quality.
2. Design a stained glass pattern.
3. Critique glass for character, color and visual quality appropriate for the design.
4. Cut glass using a variety of techniques ensuring clean breakage and safety.
5. Assemble cut glass to neatly and snugly fit the design.
6. Foiling glass to ensure secure clean lines.
7. Make well rounded, smooth 60/40 solder draws and joints.
8. Neutralizing chemicals, apply patina and polish.



Course overview of the following basic topics:

1. Designing - Making a good design, assessing glass and learning how to 'listen to the glass'.
2. Cutting glass - Cutting techniques, safety, design fitting & assembly.
3. Foiling - Applying foil to the glass, burnishing, re- grinding and snug fitting to design.
4. Soldering - Soldering iron safety, making a draw and pulling smooth bead.
5. Finishing – Chemistry of clean-up, self-assessments and 'repairs'
6. Independent work time ... with supervision.

Class Limit: 5 individuals, no less than 3 individuals

When: 2 day weekend workshop. Weekend date will depend upon when class participants can convene. (Other group scheduling will be considered.)
