Thea May Barnes Hamar

Thea May Barnes Hamar was born December 18, 1943 in Port Orchard, Washington to Clarence and Alta Barnes.

She grew up in Olalla, Washington and enjoyed running the barnaced beaches in her bare feet. She played in the woods with her friends and her little brother, Dale. She was a comical person, an avid storyteller, a skilled artist and a delight to anyone who knew her. During her first marriage she entered into a life of motorcycles and four wheel drive clubs such as the Four Wheel Drifters. Weekends were often spent camping in the woods, getting stuck in and out of the mud, sledding in the snow up in the mountains, and playing in the Dewatto swamps. She worked as a retail clerk in the Anita shop in Bremerton, WA. She was a baseball coach for three years in the South Kitsap Western Little League and a trained x-ray technician.

Upon her marriage to Reese Hamar, a soldier in the US Army, she fulfilled her lifelong dream to travel the world. She journeyed to places such as Mexico, South Korea, Western Europe, Scotland, Switzerland and almost every state in the US to name a few. While living in Florida she became a taxidermist artist at American Sportsman bringing life to animal mounts with her artistry. She became proficient working with several breeds of animals both foreign and domestic such as deer, elephants, hyenas along with alligators and zebras. Over her entire life she painted various murals on walls for several friends and businesses. She was actively involved in her church and held many positions such as Chaplin's wife, song leader, Sunday school teacher, youth leader, and Bible study teacher. She was the founder and administrator of the Desert Diggers, a Christian women's group of encouragement. She was a volunteer at the New Hope pregnancy center in Dillon, Montana. She touched many lives and had a definite impact on anyone who knew her.

She is survived by her husband of 34 years, Reese Hamar; daughters, Cammie and Jeanie; grandchildren, Colin, Benjamin, Nathaniel, and Megan; brothers Ray and Dale; sisters Rita and Marlene; and many beloved nieces and nephews and their respective families.

Friends and family are welcome to join for an informal gathering service on Tuesday 6:30-8:00 pm at Assembly of God Church located at 104 S California St, Dillon, MT 59725.

The funeral service will be held at the Brundage Funeral Home Wednesday May 11th at 10:00 am for any who would like to attend and will be followed by a potluck reception hosted by the Assembly of God Church. Pastors Ryan Spurlock and David Andrew will be officiating the ceremony.

The family would like to thank caregivers and hospital staff at Barrett Hospital and Health Clinic for their efforts, care, and dedication.

Memorials in memory of Thea will be Ministry to the Military Bishop Robert Moore PO Box 5438 Cleveland, TN 37320. There is a guest book available online at www.brundagefuneralhome.com.

Independent Cattle Ranchers Sue Federal Dept. of Agriculture Over Beef Checkoff Program

Group Says Ad Campaigns Improperly Use Tax Dollars to Undermine U.S. Beef

The Ranchers-Cattlemen Action Legal Fund, United Stockgrowers of America (R-CALF USA) filed suit against the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) today, alleging that the agency's Beef Checkoff tax, which collected more than $80 million in FY 2015, is being unconstitutionally used to promote international beef, to the detriment of U.S. beef products and producers. R-CALF USA, whose members are independent cattle producers across the United States, says that while its members must pay a $1per-head tax to the Checkoff program, funds from that tax are used to convince consumers that beef from R-CALF USA members' cattle - raised domestically and in compliance with rigorous standards concerning safety, treatment and quality - is no different than beef produced under far less stringent procedures abroad.

"The Checkoff's implied message that all beef is equal, regardless of where the cattle are born or how they are raised, harms U.S. farmers and ranchers and deceives U.S. citizens," said R-CALF USA CEO Bill Bullard. "Despite what we know to be clear evidence about the high quality of beef raised by independent U.S. cattlemen, we are being taxed to promote a message that beef raised without the strict standards used by our members is the same as all other beef, a message we do not support and do not agree with."

Under the Checkoff, all Montana cattle producers, including

R-CALF USA's members, are required to subsidize the programs of the private Montana Beef Council, which is comprised of individuals closely aligned with some of the largest multinational, industrial cattle producers. In one promotion paid for by the Council, tax money was used to fund an advertising campaign for fast food chain Wendy's, in order to promote a product which could contain beef from 41 different countries. In addition, Checkoff funds have been used to advance the agenda of the National Cattlemen's Beef Association which promotes the idea that "beef is beef, whether the cattle were born in Montana, Manitoba, or Mazatlán."

"This is not only a battle to protect constitutional rights but a battle to ensure that our food supply is not corralled and constrained by multinational corporations leaving independent farmers and ranchers as mere serfs on their own land," said Co-counsel for R-CALF USA J. Dudley Butler of Butler Farm & Ranch Law Group PLLC.

The group's suit, filed today in the U.S. District Court for the District of Montana, alleges the USDA's allocation of Checkoff funds violates the First Amendment by compelling R-CALF USA members to finance the private speech of the Montana Beef Council. The Council encourages a misperception among consumers that harms the business of independent producers. Those non-domestic beef products promoted by the Council, R-CALF USA says, are "less safe and less wholesome than those produced by the organizations' members and originate from cattle not raised using the U.S. cattle industry's rigorous animal husbandry practices" "Tax money being raised here in the U.S. is being used to advertise beef being raised under conditions that are not transparent and that our members have no control over," Bullard added. "We're a non-profit association of proud, independent cattle producers from 43 different states who are committed to the safety and quality of our products. Our ranchers should!

not have to pay for advertising blitzes benefitting multinational operators that seek to turn our food supply over to huge corporations."

Public Justice, an impact litigation group, is also representing R-CALF USA. David S. Muraskin, a Food Safety and Health Attorney with the organization said that, "The Beef Checkoff program is using federal tax dollars to convince consumers that it does not matter where their dinner came from, or how it was raised. At a time of alarming food recalls and concerns about the health and safety of the food we eat, that's both irresponsible and troubling. This suit demands an end to that deception."

In addition to Butler and Muraskin, R-CALF USA is also represented by Montana attorney Bill Rossbach of Rossbach Law PC.

Lady Bulldogs sign two in-state standouts

Montana Western women's basketball coach Lindsay Woolley is excited to announce the signing of two Montana high school standouts, Savanna Bignell and Tiara Gilham, to an NAIA Letter of Intent.

Savanna Bignell will join her older sister Sierra, and cousins Kaye and Frankie on the Montana Western women's basketball team. Bignell is a 5-foot-5 guard from Helena Capital School and is a native of Avon, Mont. She was a two-time Class AA all-state selection for the Bruins as well as being named to the all-tournament team her senior year. She averaged 7.5 points, 5.1 rebounds, 3.3 assists and 2.1 steals per game in her final campaign. She was a starter on the 2014-15 AA State Champion basketball team and helped her squad to a fourth place finish at the state tournament her senior and sophomore seasons.

Outside of basketball, Savanna placed 5th at the state track meet in javelin her junior year. Bignell carries a 3.4 GPA and has been an academic all-state selection for three years during volleyball, basketball and track. She is the daughter of John and Tana Bignell and plans to major in Health and Human Performance.

Coach Woolley stated, "The first things that stood out to me with Savanna was her toughness and competitiveness. Any time we can sign a kid that plays as hard as she does we are excited. She is going to be fun to watch over the course of her career."

A 5-11 forward from Browning, Mont., Tiara Gilham comes to Montana Western after a successful high school career. Gilham was a four-time all-conference selection and a three-time all-state selection, including being named first team all-state this season and the Eastern A super-divisional Most Outstanding Player. She helped lead her team to the semi-finals of the Class A state basketball tournament and a third place finish, by averaging 14 points, 7.9 rebounds, 2.7 steals, two blocks and two assists per game.

Gilham is a member of the National Honor Society and holds a 3.2 GPA, she plans to major in Business Management and is the daughter of Gerald and Jackie Gilham.

"Tiara is going to be a player our fans are going to enjoy watching. She is a good player on the block, can stretch the defense with her perimeter shooting and is an excellent passer," stated Woolley, "she will fit in really well because of her ability to do so many different things on the court."
