Should Corporations Sponsor National Parks?

Tyrades! By Danny Tyree

Whether I was a preschooler hiking in the Great Smoky Mountains National Park, a young adult spelunking in Kentucky's Mammoth Cave or a father introducing his son to Shiloh National Military Park, I always felt I could enjoy America's treasures without too much intrusion from Madison Avenue.

According to the Washington Post, things are about to change.

Facing an $11 billion backlog in unfunded maintenance projects, the National Park Service is tinkering with the definition of philanthropy. They're granting corporate sponsors the opportunity to prominently display logos and gain limited naming rights at the nation's 411 national parks, monuments and conservation areas.

You say you want to know why Congress hasn't come to the rescue? Hey, those humanitarian snowplows for Tahiti's national monuments don't come cheap, pal. And it's not that congressmen don't have national treasures on the brain. Or is it they have a Grand Canyon between their ears? Something like that.

Observers fear that corporate sponsorship/meddling will ruin the beauty, simplicity and tranquility of our parks. The rules as written do not allow any actual advertising or marketing slogans, but watch for such blemishes to creep in. Old Faithful geyser would seem an irresistible icon for the Acme Bidet Company. Out west, campaigns will proclaim, "Home, home on the range, where the deer and the antelope play...Laser Tag!" War of 1812 buffs should not be surprised if loudspeakers at Fort McHenry blare, "Oh, say can you see...who's behind those Foster Grants?"

Don't get me started on the sleazy advertising possibilities for Valley Forge. ("The Father of Our Country...on dollar bills. Dollar bills...in G-strings. What could be more natural?")

Other concerned citizens worry more that park managers will be devoting too much of their time to fundraising. I can just imagine park rangers using a tranquilizer gun on a potential sponsor. ("Now, now — slow down and let's talk this over before you give all your money to PBS.")

Yes, park officials will be tempted to give up on studying the mating rituals of migratory birds and start studying the mating rituals of CEOs. ("Couldn't help but notice you and the showgirl getting out of Motel 6. Perhaps for a small donation this photo could disappear before it reaches your wife...")

Park Service officials hope corporate sponsorships will help attract a younger, more ethnically diverse class of tourists. Right. ("Shoot! My posse and I were planning a road trip to the all-star hip-hop festival, but if a company that has

Maybe instead of accepting corporate tie-ins, we could redesign some of the sites to attract millennials. Instead of Lincoln's childhood home, we could have Lincoln's Parents' Basement He Had To Crash In While Paying Off

Student Loans.

There will be tremendous pressure on both park officials and corporate executives to strike the best deals. And there will be mistakes.

"Johnson, I expected our huge investment to get us the naming rights for the Coke Amphitheater and Coke Zero Amphitheater."

"Well, yes, but..."

"And you got us the Emma Amphitheater and the Noah Amphitheater????"

"But they're both such POPULAR names. I couldn't resist..."

"We're reassigning you to the Siberian territory. Just keep your nose to the grindstone and don't mess with the U.S.-supplied humanitarian beach blankets."

Letter to the Editor

HD #72 Has Two Respected Candidates

This community and District are fortunate to have two quality individuals willing to represent our interests in the legislature. There is however a difference between these two candidates. I believe Tom Welch has the ability to better bridge the gaps that have made our state government so dysfunctional. I have known Tom as a friend, neighbor, business man, community leader and very generous individual for over 40 years. The professionalism Tom has developed in actively addressing the needs of our community has nurtured the amenities necessary to be a problem solver. Tom's ability to listen and hear, seek out information, his common sense, patience, maturity and solution oriented style gives him the tools to successfully work with all legislators, whether liberal or conservative, Republican or Democrat, urban or rural. As a rancher and member of this community I urge your support for Tom Welch to represent HD #72 in Helena. He will champion our needs and seek our guidance.

Jim Hagenbarth

Forest Service Resource Advisory Committees Seek Projects for Grant Funding

The Forest Service announces that Resource Advisory Committees (RAC) for Southwest Montana and Tri County RAC are now accepting new project proposals. The application deadline is June 10, 2016 and the committees have approximately $455,000 in project funding to award.

Projects must benefit National Forest System lands and ecosystems in one of six counties: Beaverhead Deer Lodge, Granite, Madison, Powell or Silver Bow. Projects must meet established criteria and improve Forest Service lands in the following areas: roads and trails, infrastructure maintenance, soil and forest ecosystem health, watershed restoration, maintenance and improvement of wildlife and fish habitat, control of noxious weeds, and re-establishment of native species. At least 50% of all project funds are dedicated to restoring streams and watersheds; or road maintenance, decommissioning or removal. Projects may be on private land, but must show a direct benefit to National Forest System lands.

Project applications are available online by visiting the Secure Rural Schools Resource Advisory Committees for either Southwest Montana RAC or Tri County RAC at the Beaverhead-Deerlodge National Forest website <http://www.fs.usda.gov/main/bdnf/workingtogether/advisorycommittees>.

Projects funded in the past include trail reconstruction, restoration of historical sites, improvement of wildlife habitat, treatment of invasive species, road improvements, riparian restoration, and recreational site improvements.

For more information or details on submitting a project proposal please contact RAC Coordinator Breck Hudson at (406) 683-3935 or bhudson@fs.fed.us.

The Beaver Head Hunters Genealogical Society

The Beaver Head Hunters Genealogical Society will meet on Tuesday, May 17, at the museum research room at 7:00 pm. If you have ever wondered if you may be prone to a certain disease or malady, it can be worthwhile to study your pedigree to see if there are patterns in your family. After the brief business meeting we will be talking about longevity and medical pedigrees. If there is time, we will also talk about our latest genealogy successes. As always, the public is invited.

Update - Barrett duplexes

By: MJ

The city issued a stop order on the original construction because it did not meet the current zoning requirements or fire code.

The insurance company took possession of the construction site. They sold it to a local contractor. Ken Grose is now in the process of completing the project. It has been downsized to (2) two apartments in each unit. By means of the downsizing the building meets all the zoning requirements and fire code.
