Pima Medical Institute to Host Open House at Dillon, Montana, Campus

Public is Invited to Attend June 29

Pima Medical Institute's Dillon, Mont., campus will host an open house on June 29 from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. to introduce its veterinary assistant and veterinary technician programs.

The public is encouraged to stop by for tours and potential students are welcome to meet with admissions and financial aid representatives to find out about enrolling. Current students will also be on hand to talk to anyone interested in the programs.

Pima Medical offers the veterinary assistant certificate and veterinary technician associate degree programs in Dillon. The programs' classrooms and labs are located on the University of Montana Western's campus.

Curriculum focuses on hands-on work caring for domestic animals, livestock and even exotic animals. Over the programs' 18-month period, students learn animal behavior, care, surgical assisting, laboratory testing and nursing procedures. Veterinary technicians that graduate are qualified to work closely with veterinarians in the areas of surgery, lab procedures and radiography.

The first cohort of students began class in November of 2015 through a collaboration between Pima Medical and the University of Montana Western. They will officially earn their veterinary assistant certificates on June 24, with a ceremony to begin at 1 p.m. at Beier Auditorium on the university's campus. Nine of the 11 graduates have already begun the veterinary technician program, and will graduate in May of 2017.

The following students will be graduating June 24 with their veterinary assistant certificates:

- Caelan Colyer, Poulsbo, Wash.
- Madison Cooper, Great Falls, Mont.
- Kayci Davis, Snoqualmie, Wash.
- Kyleen Elpel, Great Falls, Mont.
- Sydney Greenslade, Butte, Mont.

Johnny Cash Tribute Show

The Johnny Cash Tribute show will once again appear at the Depot Theater in Dillon, Montana on Friday, June 24, 2016 at 7:00 p.m. It will be only one of two shows offered in this corner of Montana this year. The show is a benefit for the Beaverhead County Museum.

The show is a wonderful rendering of favorite Johnny Cash songs done by a very good group of performers and many of you will remember seeing them in July 2015. Tickets are $10 and are available at the Beaverhead County Museum. There are only 119 seats available so we will be selling tickets in advance as well as at the door, but it probably a good idea to either reserve your seats or purchase tickets in advance.

The number to reserve seats is 406-683-5027.

Senior Commodity Food

The Senior commodity Food boxes will be delivered this Friday June 24th. Anyone picking theirs up can do so after 9 AM at 759 Kentucky Ave, rear of the house. Any questions call 865-0747

Why I Write Articles

By: MJ

The time has come once again when I would like to tell you why I attend the local government meetings and write articles. I write to provide people with another outlet for information. I write what I hear at the meetings and if I don't understand I call someone to explain in detail or I listen to the tape recordings. I do not write to deceive, condemn or personally judge the members of the committees or council. I write about the issues they bring to the table.

When I go to the meetings the only public I see attending a Zoning Committee meeting are people who are asking for approval of a Compliance Certificate. People attending a Council meeting have issues they want the council to address and those attending Variance Committee meetings are hoping for an okay to proceed with their project. The same goes for all other committee meetings held.

Summer is short however the daylight hours are extended allowing for baseball games, golfing and many other family events. Unless you have something special you need to attend a city meeting for my question is, 'why would you go' and miss out on family time or a little fun? If you have ever been involved with government you know it moves slowly. Attending a meeting where you know nothing about the subject is like watching paint dry, (very boring).

That's why people elect representatives to attend the meetings and make decisions. When I report on the topics discussed at meetings it might jog someone's memory and they want to have a say. They can contact their Ward Representative, Mayor, Director of Operations or any other personnel at the city that can answer their questions or just have someone hear their concerns.

On the street I am hearing "not so nice talk" about articles I have wrote on the zoning committee. If you find that I have misquoted something or wrote in error please call Brenda at 683-4903 and let her know in order that I can make corrections. Thank you MJ

Memories of a 1970s Dog

By Tom Purcell

A thread on the question-and-answer website Quora discussed the stark differences between dog ownership in the 1970s compared with today.

That made me remember the time my family's beloved dog, Jingles, ran away.

Jingles was part collie, a touch of Irish setter and goodness knows what else ---- and I had no idea how lucky my family was to have her.

Throughout much of American history, according to LiveScience.com, only the wealthy kept pets as companions.

Before the 1960s and '70s, few people in cities could afford dogs, particularly during the Depression years.

But after World War II, as Americans became more affluent and moved to the suburbs, more families had the means to care for dogs.

By the early '70s, the family dog was fairly common ---- though it was an era of the rough-and-tumble dog, like Lassie and Old Yeller, not the pampered pets that are commonplace today.

Jingles was loved unconditionally, but the only pampering she got was a rub on her belly ---- she loved that ---- or having her coat combed with a wire brush.

Though she never got treats from the gourmet pet aisle at the supermarket, she loved her daily can of Ken-L Ration and the occasional leftover burger.

She also enjoyed a freedom that few pets ever get to know.

My father was adamant that Jingles never be chained. He only agreed to get her if we taught her stay in the yard as our neighbor, Mr. Bennett, taught his dog to do.

We followed Mr. Bennett's techniques and Jingles learned the boundaries of our yard well enough. But she suffered from wanderlust and felt the need, now and then, to set off for the hills.

If she wasn't home by dusk, my father, grumbling, would get into our Plymouth station wagon and drive around the neighborhood calling her name. He'd usually find her within 30 minutes ---- usually outside the convenience store soliciting treats from customers.

"You get home right now, girl!" he'd say, pointing his finger. She'd sprint home ahead of him and greet him as he pulled in the

But one night, after she ran off, my father couldn't find her. He called the police and animal rescue, but there had been no reports.

My five sisters and I sobbed most of the night, worrying about Jingles' fate.

I rode my bike several miles the next day searching for her. That night my father and I drove around for several hours more, but we couldn't find her.

By the third day of her absence, a tremendous funk settled over our home ---- was she gone forever?

As I lay in bed sobbing that night, I heard the faucet dripping in the kitchen, a couple squabbling a few blocks away, Johnny Carson's monologue playing on someone's television over the next hill.

Then I heard her barking.

I jumped out of bed and raced downstairs and out the front door. I met her in front of the Kerns' house. I was crying as I held her in my arms, the two of us rolling around under the street lamp.

She was covered with mud and burrs. She smelled like a skunk. I didn't care.

Soon, the rest of my family was awake and outside hugging her, overcome with incredible relief.

That happened in the summer of 1974, when dogs were free to roam and sometimes break our hearts, but always fill us with joy and happiness.

In any event, Jingles' life reflects the stark differences between dog ownership in the middle-class '70s and the incredibly pampered purebred dogs of today that often are owned by Americans with incredible affluence.

With our declining middle class, regrettably, there aren't as many rough-and-tumble mutt dogs like Jingles around anymore.

"BHH RAYS HOST RELAY FOR LIFE 4-WHEELER FUN RUN"

Please join us for a 4-Wheeler fun Ride to benefit Relay for Life and the American Cancer Society. On July 9th, the Run starts at Twin Bridges Fairgrounds (back entrance) and goes to the Glendale Area/ Charcoal Kilns, and ends back at the Twin Bridges Fairgrounds for the tailgate feast and raffle drawings. Cost to ride is $20 per rider. To register, call or text Lori Ball at (406) 596-5559.

MINI ART WALK

The Southwest Montana Arts Council is celebrating the arrival of the RATPOD riders with a mini Art Walk on Friday, June 24, from 5-7 p.m. The businesses that will be participating are African Oasis, Atomic 79, The Bookstore, Muffalettas, Shabby Chic, Sweetwater Coffee, Wildwood Floral and The #1 Ladies Quilt Shop. Visit your local businesses and then enjoy a street party in front of the Elks.

The public is invited to tie dye with SMAC on the sidewalk in front of 36 N. Idaho St. from 5-7 p.m. Some t-shirts will be provided in limited sizes and participants are encouraged to bring a 100% cotton item to tie dye (tote bags and pillow cases work great). For more information, contact 683-6208 or SMACarts@gmail.com.

The Southwest Montana Arts Council has been advocating, nurturing and celebrating the arts & humanities in Southwest Montana since 1994.
