"Big Book of Family Tales"

The Dillon Junior Fiddlers will be bringing their latest show, Tales and Tunes, to the Old Depot Theater on Sunday, July 31st at 7:00 pm. This program showcases the acting and singing talents of the fiddle players along with a liberal sample of their traditional music. When the "Big Book of Family Tales" is opened, the audience will be given a chance to meet a cast of characters, some real and some imaginary. The music will feature a variety of music styles and ethnic origins.

Tickets are on sale at the Beaverhead County Museum and at the door the night of the show. Seating is limited at the Old Depot Theater, so the group suggests you get your tickets ahead or come early the night of the show. The price of admission is $8 for adults and $5 for children under 12 years old. All proceeds from the show go to the Dillon Junior Fiddlers scholarship fund. In June, 17 fiddlers from the group were sent to the Montana Fiddle Camp in Monarch, MT on half scholarships.

The United Way granted funds to the Dillon Junior Fiddlers this year to fund production costs for making a new recording of the group's music. Many of the songs played in Tales and Tunes will be featured on the CD.

MONTANA WESTERN STUDENT LEADERSHIP GAINS SUMMER EXPERIENCE

Both president and vice president of the Associated Students of the University of Montana Western (ASUMW) are using their summers to gain valuable experience related to their majors.

ASUMW President Delaney Hansen is spending the summer commuting from Dillon to Twin Bridges, Mont., volunteering at Pride Summer Group (PSG) as part of her pursuit of an elementary education degree from Montana Western.

"I love the kids and having this authentic experience on a consistent basis has been great," Hansen said.

PSG is a children's camp where Hansen is part of a group that teaches 30 students ranging from kindergarten to fifth grade. Each week the camp focuses on teaching a moral such as courage, respect and kindness. They also take field trips and have visited the Museum of the Rockies in Bozeman, Mont. and mining museums throughout the state.

"Montana Western's Experience One program and the education department prepared me well for this teaching opportunity," Hansen said. "My professors have provided me with the skill sets and ability to handle the work load involved with running an elementary class."

X1 is Montana Western's innovative block scheduling program where students take a single class at a time, three hours each day for 18 days before moving on to the next. UMW is the only U.S. public four-year university offering block scheduling.

ASUMW Vice President Kelsie Field is working for the local Montana Fish, Wildlife and Parks office. Her responsibilities include inspecting boats for aquatic invasive species (AIS) at a station on Interstate 15 south of Dillon.

Aquatic invasive species are those that impact water bodies and wetlands. They usually come in the form of plant species or snails and are found on the trailers or hulls of recreational boats, Field explained. Their presence can cause severe damage to local ecosystems, industry and tourism.

"This job is very important because AIS poses a threat to many forms of outdoor recreation," Field said. "Southwest Montana is a particularly beautiful and amazing place to hike, fish and hunt. I want to help to protect that."

Field is earning an environmental sciences and biology degree from Montana Western. She enjoys hiking and fishing and wants to become involved in conservation efforts to safeguard the state's environment and wildlife.

Field said she was first drawn to Montana Western because of its affordability, but was also attracted to the supportive community, environmental sciences program and Experience One.

"My classes have given me a tremendous amount of experience working outdoors," Field said. "With my career I will spend a lot of time working in the field and Montana Western's environmental sciences and biology classes can often be found outside working in streams or studying local geology. It's the perfect fit for me."

Hansen and Field said they will be creating sustainable projects around campus next year, including installing more hygienic water fountains, raising awareness about recycling habits and increasing accessibility to recycling options.

PEOPLE OF DILLON, MONTANA! OUR COMMUNITY LOVES YOU!

Now is our chance to love it back!

I had the opportunity of talking with a couple of our county commissioners this month and was pleased with the response I received when I pitched a BIG idea. I want US to build a Community Putt Putt Golf Course at the beautiful Chris Kraft Park. The location is prime, with ample parking, picnic tables and a shelter. What a phenomenal place for kids and families to go, for FREE! Parents or kids would have to provide their own putters and balls, pack in and out any trash or food they bring, and provide their own drinks (it will be hot, staying hydrated would be important).

If you are not familiar with what a putt putt golf course is, let me explain. It is a small "green" about 10-20 feet long. Sometimes in the middle there are small obstacles like bumpers, rocks, hills and the like. Some more creative holes have a big feature at the end, like a windmill, or a clown face, or just a box with different holes in it. The object is to putt (with a golf ball and putter) down the green, and make your ball in the hole at the end in the least number of strokes possible.

Here is what we'd need from you DILLON! We would like our businesses, family, friends, organizations, and clubs to BUILD a putt putt hole. The possibilities are endless, and we have tons of room at the park. You can build it as extravagant or as simple as you like, it just has to get to the park. Wood construction would be ideal, think 2x4's and plywood with a short pile outdoor carpet "green".

I remember a few years ago, the Chamber of Commerce put on an indoor golf scramble, and the holes that folks dreamed up were fantastic. I'm hoping for the same creative juices to flow for this project. We have room for as many holes as this community can dream up and I've had several folks already let me know that they are planning their holes (think of the advertising possibilities you could incorporate into the hole geared toward customers who will be spending quality time with their families). This can and should be done.

As some of you know, I have lived in Dillon for the last 11 years, my husband and I graduated from BCHS, and I have two kids that have grown up here and will be attending Beaverhead County High School in the fall. I have a vested interest in this community, and I am proud to know that many of my neighbors feel the same way. The County Commissioners are also great neighbors and are behind this BIG idea, and Commissioner McGinley has already built and installed hole number 1.

Please contact me with questions about this project at wendydumke@gmail.com.

Best Regards and Bright Futures, Wendy Dumke

Nostalgic for the Drive-in Theater

Tom Purcell

Here's something I miss more each summer: the drive-in movie theater.

It's a uniquely American creation, after all.

According to Kerry Segrave, author of "Drive-in Theaters: A History from Their Inception in 1933," only two other countries, Canada and Australia, were able to come close to America's "intense love affair with drive-ins."

In order for drive-ins to spring up over America during the post-World War II boom, a unique blend of conditions had to exist.

First, there had to be an abundance of relatively inexpensive land, as drive-ins take up a lot of real estate ---- and America had lots of affordable farmland near our newly formed suburbs.

Second, there had to be wealth. Families needed to not only be able to afford comfortable automobiles but to also "enjoy an emotional relationship" with them.

"A country whose inhabitants regarded automobiles as simply a mode of convenience to get from A to B would never develop a drive-in industry of any extent," writes Segal.

The next ingredient necessary to the success of the drive-in theater was large baby boom families.

Whereas taking the kids to an indoor theater in the city was a costly hassle, the drive-in was convenient and affordable. Parents could load all of the kids into the car, enjoy their family theater event, then return home with minimal hassle.

At a time when mom and dad wore formal wear to the office every day, the last thing they wanted to do on the weekends was dress up ---- and the younger kids could be dressed in pajamas, allowing mom and dad to put them directly to bed as soon as they returned home.

The first large-scale drive-in movie theater was built in Camden, N.J. in 1933, the brainchild of a young entrepreneur, Richard Hollingshead.

His idea wouldn't catch on in big numbers until after World War II ---- in part because of Hollywood moguls who only screened their A features in the movie theaters they owned. Drive-in theaters were limited to B features until 1949 when the courts broke up Hollywood's monopoly system.

Another change happened in 1949. Hollingshead lost his patent on the drive-in movie concept and outdoor theaters began popping up everywhere. The '50s and '60s became the golden era of the drive-in theater with nearly 5,000 in operation across America.

Some argue that federal laws mandating an extended Daylight Saving Time in the early '70s ---- which made the shows start an hour later ---- is what began to kill the drive-in phenomenon. But there are lots of other reasons for its decline.

As the suburbs continued expanding, real estate costs soared. Increasing lawsuits eliminated the drive-in playground and insurance costs soared. The family unit began to change in the late '70s into the '80s ---- families had fewer children and lots more divorce. Increasing fuel costs caused cars to get smaller ---- making them less suitable to a comfortable drive-in experience.

One of my last great drive-in memories dates to 1969, when my parents took my five sisters and I to see "Herbie the Love Bug." My father tested several parking spots before finding a speaker that worked.

Soon, the blue sky fell dark and the film projector began rattling behind the concession stand. Black and white numbers ---- "5, 4, 3, 2, 1..." ---- flashed onto the screen. Yellowed 1950's footage advertised hot dogs, popcorn and other concession items. And then the feature film would begin and our eventful family outing kicked into high gear.

So I am nostalgic for the golden era of the American drive-in, a historic slice of Americana that I long for this time every year.

"Hey Jude"

A free weekly forum to find answers to your questions about anything in our lives, from the Bible.

Question:

In your opinion, Is the flood fact or fiction? Skeptical

Dear Skeptical,

Let's look to the Bible for our answers.

You, no doubt have read the account of Noah, the ark & the flood, or heard it from family, friends or clergy. There is scientific and archaeological findings to show that indeed the flood occurred, such as rocks found atop mountains that have fossils of fish and shells embedded in them. This is in line with the Biblical acct. Gen. 7:19, 20, 'that waters covered the mountains..by 15 cubits.' A cubit is about 17.5 inches.

If you believe the Bible to be the Word of God, then you also believe in Jesus. And if you do, you can believe him when he, himself mentioned this event, "they didn't listen, an the flood came & swept them all away." (Mt 24:38-39) It also is mentioned again in 2 Pet.2:5.

So we can assuredly conclude, the flood to be a true and accurate account of early history.
