Author to be featured during Art Walk

Aaron Parrett, takes Montana's relationship to Americana music and compares it to the vast depth and width of the famed Missouri river. In his new book "Montana Americana Music: Boot Stomping in Big Sky Country" he tells of the countless musicians that were inspired by the Treasure State. From the fiddling of Pierre Cruzatte and George Gibson in the Corps of Discovery to the modern day loner-folk of Joey Running Crane and Cameron Boster he tells of how the Montana landscape inspires the production of top-notch country music. In the 1950s, bands like the Snake River Outlaws fostered a longstanding love of hillbilly honky-tonk, and in 1970s the Mission Mountain Wood Band added a homegrown flavor of their own. Contemporary acts like The Lil' Smokies and songwriter Martha Scanlan promise a vibrant future for the local sound. This book is the key to finding Montana's contribution to this country's finest musical modes and evidence of our cultural richness.

Author and musician Aaron Parrett explores this history to show what it means to boot stomp in Big Sky Country. He is also the author of "Literary Butte: A History in Novels & Film" and "Montana Then & Now." He has published widely and in 2004 won the People's Choice award from the Montana Historical Society. The multi-talented Parrett has released several albums of acclaimed Americana music himself, including The Sinners, The Legend of Jim Collins

RECORD-BREAKING ENROLLMENT UP
NINE PERCENT OVER 2015

Officials at the University of Montana Western said official 15th day enrollment figures show the university's student headcount is 1,501, up nine percent over last year.

In addition, this is the second consecutive year Montana Western has broken the modern record for students enrolling at the university for the first time.

Montana Western Registrar and Director of Institutional Research Charity Walters said the university's 15th day statistics include 1,418 full-time equivalent (FTE) students as compared to 1,332 last year (a six percent increase). Student headcount is 1,501 compared to 1,378 in the previous year. This year's record-breaking class includes 336 new freshmen and 131 transfer students.

University Chancellor Beth Weatherby attributed enrollment increases to the university's unique Experience One (X1) program. "Experience One is working and our numbers continue to show it. Most importantly it is contributing significantly to the success of our students. Our hardworking faculty and staff have made Montana Western a very special place where students thrive and succeed," Weatherby said.

She said the university also awarded a record number of degrees this past spring for the second consecutive year.

Montana Western is the only U.S. public four-year institution offering X1 where students take a single class at a time. Now in its 11th year, the innovative program of teaching and learning has realized phenomenal success by a number of measures including enrollment, retention, class completion, graduation rates and placement.

The university has received a number of top rankings recently. Montana Western was named the best university in the state by Money Magazine; was ranked third among western public universities by U.S. News & World Report; and was listed one of the top 40 in the west in the "Best Bang for the Buck" category by Washington Monthly.

The 15th day of classes serves as the official point of reference for reporting enrollment to the Montana Office of Higher Education.

Nez Perce Fire Update

The lightning caused Nez Perce Fire located approximately 11 miles northeast of Butte has not grown in size over the last week. The 699 acre fire continues to burn within the interior of the fire in very steep and rocky terrain and remains upslope from adjacent private property. Firefighters are continuing to monitor the fires activity and keep local residents in the area of the fire informed.

Isolated smoke from areas within the interior of the fire will continue to be visible along the Interstate 15, Elk Park corridor, over the coming days/weeks and will continue until we get significant rain or snow to extinguish them.

For more information call the Butte-Jefferson Ranger District at (406) 494-2147 (M-F). As conditions change, information will also posted on Inciweb at <http://inciweb.nwcg.gov/>.

50 Things You Didn't Know About Montana (Part 1)

1. Montana has more bookstores, birdwatchers, firearms, people who hunt, and people who fish per capita than any other state.
2. Montana is larger than Japan, the United Kingdom, and Italy. If Montana were to secede from the union (and there have been numerous calls to do so) it would be the 62nd largest country in the world.
3. Tweets originating from inside the state of Montana are longer than those from any other state—averaging just more than 43 out of 140 possible characters in length.
4. A Montana Yogo Sapphire is the only North American gem included in the Crown Jewels of England.
5. By law it is a felony in Montana for a wife to open her husband's mail.
6. Montana is the only state bordering three Canadian provinces; Saskatchewan, Alberta, and British Columbia.
7. When Great Falls High School was built in 1896, a herd of sheep was used to compact earth around the foundation.
8. Jordan, Montana, the county seat for Garfield County, is 175 miles from the nearest airport, 85 miles from the nearest bus line, and 115 miles from the nearest train.
9. It is perfectly legal in Montana to ride your horse home if you are drunk.
10. Montana is the only state to allow double proxy weddings. In other words, both the bride and groom can have stand-ins exchange matrimonial vows on their behalf. Double proxy divorces, unfortunately, do not exist.

National Newspaper Week: This Time It's Personal

Tyrades! by Danny Tyree

"So, are you still writing for the paper?"

Whenever a friend or acquaintance poses that innocent-sounding question, it rubs me the wrong way.

Yes, besides being nationally syndicated since 2010, I've submitted a column to my hometown paper every single week for the past 15 years. Maybe I'm thin-skinned, but I invariably infer that the underlying message is, "I am somewhat interested in your musings, but I can't be bothered to buy the paper, borrow the paper OR read it at the library."

Okay, maybe they DO read part of the paper but have an irrational fear of certain pages because of an urban legend. ("And in the morning light, there was Dear Abby's hook on the car door handle!")

October 2-8 is National Newspaper Week, and I'd like to address an open letter to the people least likely to READ it.

I've lost count of people grouching, "There ain't ever anything in the paper." That may be true -- if you have an unhealthily NARROW view of your community. Just because not every issue is focused on YOUR kids, YOUR street or YOUR church, it doesn't make the paper an irrelevant waste of ink.

It can be educational, entertaining and inspirational to learn about OTHER people's struggles, achievements, hobbies and pet peeves.

Twitter is faster than newspapers. Magazines and books have the luxury of going more in-depth. But a newspaper is unmatched for melding the virtues of timeliness and fact-checking. Paul Revere's shouts of "The British are coming!" served their purpose, but declarations such as "The British are Brexiting" require more background, context and nuance.

Different newspapers have different resources, styles and political leanings; but that merely means you must find the one that works for you. Drifting through life and trying to absorb vital information through osmosis is not a plan.

Newspapers have a reputation to uphold (perhaps a founder who fought to end child labor) and more "skin in the game" than most sources. They can't be as cavalier with the facts as Facebook meme-dispensers or anonymous loudmouth callers to sports radio shows.

Keeping abreast of the news can save you from awkward situations ("Sorry, I wouldn't have asked about your lead-footed nephew if I had known he died in a car wreck three months ago"), surprise confrontations ("When did they pass a $500 fine for junk cars in the yard?") and rude awakenings ("Nobody told ME there was a new telephone scam.")

Your local newspaper can help you know BEFORE IT'S TOO LATE that a new factory is taking applications (maybe your son can finally move out of your basement!), that your all-time favorite bluegrass artist is making a farewell appearance at the Elks Lodge, that a neighbor is offering a rare collectible only in the classifieds and not via Craigslist or that the election commission is holding a public meeting on major changes.

Clip this column to fortify your own commitment to journalism. Share it with a lapsed reader.

And remember this year's National Newspaper Week theme: "Way To Know!"

Let's not mention runner-up themes such as "Paper beats rock AND scissors, you bigots!" and "How did lining your birdcage with smartphones work out, smart guy?"

Uh oh. Someone dug up my own creepy submission of "Newspaper carriers: They KNOW where you live."

Gulp I am still writing for the paper, aren't I?
