stadium in Dillon, visitors to the web site can get a view of the field and a view of the weather conditions around Dillon. The image is updated about every 10 minutes. There is also a time-lapse video of the past 24 hours. It is a great way to see just how much our weather in Southwest Montana changes on a daily basis.

The camera located on a tower at the East end of the field was originally installed by Brendan Reints. After his passing, the camera became inoperable. Harv Lake, Jr said, "Though the camera has been replaced, the inspiration still belongs to Brendan".

A tip of the hat goes to Eric Ostergard for his tower climbing and camera mounting skills. You can see the camera's images at <http://beaverhead.com/webcam/>

VFW ANNOUNCES NEW MENTAL WELLNESS CAMPAIGN

Largest War Veterans' Organization Builds Coalition With Give An Hour, One Mind, PatientsLikeMe

The Veterans of Foreign Wars of the U.S. is launching a new nationwide campaign to focus on mental wellness within the military and veterans' communities. Joined by three high-profile national partners, Give an Hour, One Mind, and PatientsLikeMe, the campaign kicks off during a joint press event inside the National Press Club's Lisagor Room at 2 p.m., Tuesday.

The VFW Mental Wellness Campaign, commissioned by VFW National Commander Brian Duffy and VFW Auxiliary National President Colette Bishop, leverages the power, influence and reach of nearly 1.7 million members in more than 6,600 VFW Posts around the world with the nation's leaders in mental health care, research, and peer-to-peer support. The campaign's goal is to raise awareness, foster community engagement, improve research, and provide intervention for veterans, service members, and their loved ones who may be suffering from invisible injuries or emotional stress.

"We are proud to be joined by the nation's leading mental health organizations to help change the veteran's narrative — the veteran's brand — which right now has America regarding us more as individual heroes instead of strategic assets in every community," said Duffy, who is the first Operation Desert Storm veteran to lead the 117-year-old VFW.

Bishop, who leads the 102-year-old VFW Auxiliary, echoed the VFW national commander's sentiment, and said "the community is where our troops come from and where our veterans return, so it benefits everyone to know what resources are available and where to turn to for help."

The VFW is already working closely with Give an Hour to train VFW-accredited service officers and state leadership to "Know the Five Signs" of emotional suffering as a way to better serve clients coping with invisible injuries, and to help change the narrative on mental health in America through its Change Direction campaign.

Give an Hour Founder and President Dr. Barbara Van Dahlen said, "We are honored to join the VFW in this historic effort. VFW Posts can serve as important anchors in communities across the country — and around the world — to engage, educate and inspire veterans from all eras to learn the Five Signs and to reach out to those who are suffering." Dr. Van Dahlen added, "Our veterans are assets in our communities and they can help lead the way as we change the culture so that those in need receive the care and support they deserve."

In addition to the upcoming press event, the VFW and Give an Hour are hosting a "Day to Change Direction" on Saturday, Oct. 8. Individual VFW Posts and state departments will work hand-in-hand with Give an Hour's nationwide network of mental health providers and volunteers, as well as the Department of Veterans Affairs, to help facilitate peer-to-peer discussions on mental wellness, as well as participate in a community action or event designed to empower Americans to "Change Direction" on mental health and well-being.

Over the coming months, the VFW will also work closely with Seattle-based One Mind to encourage VFW members to participate in online communities to better understand and improve their own brain health. They can also volunteer patient and caregiver input to research aimed at developing new evidence-based diagnostic and treatment options.

According to One Mind's CEO, retired Army Gen. Peter Chiarelli, "It is imperative for us to find better and lasting treatments for our veterans, their families, and caregivers who are affected and suffering from brain injuries and illness. We have an amazing ability to save soldiers on the battlefield, but we must extend that support beyond active duty and aggressively address their invisible wounds. We are honored to be part of this new and sustainable VFW Mental Wellness Campaign."

The inclusion of the peer-to-peer perspective via PatientsLikeMe is equally important to the VFW's campaign. The online network helps people living with any one of 2,500 conditions, including post-traumatic stress and traumatic brain injury, to compare treatments, symptoms, and experiences; connect with others like them for support; track and learn what impacts their health; and give data for research. The tools and support provided by PatientsLikeMe are invaluable to patients, potential patients, and their families.

Though this is a joint campaign commissioned during the one-year leadership terms of Duffy and Bishop, the VFW's goal is to build a sustainable program through which all levels of the organization can remain proactive advocates for those coping with emotional stress, which will build upon the VFW's century-plus legacy of veterans' advocacy, service and assistance to others.

Electronic Message Centers (EMS): Committeeman Graham showed a video of EMC signs in existence around town. In order to demonstrate the difference in the brightness of the signs between day and night viewing Graham videoed both day and night for the demo. "Reader Board" signs like the one at the high school only give public information, and are not classified the same as EMC sign.

Note: The committee will be hosting an open house, and passing out questionnaires to gather more information from the public and businesses. The committee is making a sincere effort to reach out to the community. Now it's your turn. It is up to the community to respond with their input. There are several sides to this coin. Vision problems for traffic, businesses that pay thousands of dollars to erect a sign, the look of the community... If public does not participate then the few people on the committee will make the final decisions on what will be accepted in Dillon.

Hand Outs: Committeeman Mooney often passes out writings on issues the committee is working on. These papers are seldom included in the packets that the public has access to before the meeting yet it is discussed. Montana public records law allows the public to see everything any government agency writes, including e-mails and internal memos. If a private company or individual receives public money, their records become public also.

Fees for Trailer & Signs: This was tabled.

Public Health will also be offering its popular "Drive-Thru" clinic this Friday, October 11 from 11 to 2. That afternoon, the Van will travel to Dell and Lima and on Friday, October 14th the Van will stop by Polaris, Jackson, Wisdom, Wise River, and Dewey, and Melrose.

The vaccine cost is $25.00. For the Drive-Thru and mobile clinics, bring a copy of your insurance card. Please call 683-4771 for more information.

3D mammography at Barrett detects threats sooner—and better

3D mammography is a revolutionary new way to detect breast cancer. Our 3D mammography machine, made possible by a generous gift from the Barrett Hospital Foundation, is more comfortable for patients, improves detection by 27 to 50%, and reduces the chance of being called back for repeat testing by up to 40%.

Join us for an Open House October 6th from 4 to 7 p.m. See the new machine, enjoy refreshments and giveaways, and take a tour of the women's health section of the radiology department.
