City Hall Committee

By: MJ

Present: Committee members Don, Hand, Tom Straugh, and Chair Mandy Maas.

Employees' Salaries: This was tabled at this time. Committee Straugh stated the city is hamstrung unless additional funds can be located.

Usage Agreements: A city contract that could be used by all organizations using the Council Chambers, Auditorium, Basement, Street Events, Food Trucks... It was recommended that City Attorney draft an agreement.

Hiring a Building Inspector: This was tabled for further information. Committeeman Straugh questioned if there was enough building happening within the city to pay for an inspector. Committeeman Hand discussed the standards as per the zoning code and the city having no way to monitor that.

Carpet Replacement: The carpet in the Director of Operations office, Clerk and Mayors office have tears, unpleasant odors and stains. Type of flooring besides carpet was discussed. The committee recommended getting bids. There was an open discussion on further cleanup, expansions, and window added to mayor's office. Only a discussion with no action taken.

Emergency Button System: After a lengthy discussion it was decided to get current update on the cost of installing two buttons. One would be installed in the judge's office and one in the front the front desk in city hall. If the buttons are activated it would ring directly into the police station.

Audio: Committeeman Hand presented information that included description and prices for an audio system to be installed in council chambers. It would include mics for council members, (4) four speakers and have the capability of connecting to the city's computer systems. Chairlady Maas asked if two members of the council could share a mic thus saving money. Chief Craft has more information on the system however he was unable to attend the meeting. Chairlady Mass is researching grants that may or may not be used for building improvements to make city hall more user friendly for the public..

ACHIEVING A COMPETITIVE EDGE IN GRAIN
MARKETING THROUGH HARVEST MANAGEMENT

with John T Gnadke, AGS, Inc.
Harvest Management Consultant
Wednesday, October 26th @ 4:00pm

Lewis & Clark Room, University of Montana Western

About John Gnadke

Along with innovative ideas, dedication, and genuine enthusiasm for the grain industry, John's career & expertise spans 51 years of experience working with grain drying, storage & harvest management. John has coauthored a complete manual titled, Quality Grain Care, A Grower's Quick Reference Guide. There are currently 80,000 copies in print. They have been used in training seminars attended by thousands of producers in the "corn belt".

His seminars have focused on three major areas: "Generic Grain Quality," "Identity preservation," and "Variety Specifics." John has been instrumental in providing leadership for the producer, the country elevator, and for both domestic & foreign end users.

Prior to his consultant work, he was a District Sales Manager with Beard Industries for twelve years (1977-1989). Because his dealers sold both grain drying & storage equipment, John had numerous opportunities to test and virtually dry every grain variety in the marketplace.

Since 1996, John has been employed as a "Quality Grain Care" Consultant for Pioneer Hi-Bred providing Harvest Management Seminars and On-farm Assessments.

The major focus of AGS, Inc. is "Excellence in American Agriculture." John promotes a definite strategy that challenges the producer to focus on maximizing his profitability by utilizing state of the art technology combined with a focus on proper harvest management skills.

Argos Prove too Much for Bulldogs to Handle

Montana Western (11-11, 4-4) fell in straight sets (22-25, 17-25, 24-26) to the visiting Argos of the University of Great Falls (10-11, 3-4) last night in a Frontier Conference matchup.

Western had too many errors both serving and attacking, and the inability to sustain any momentum hurt the Bulldogs, who dropped into fourth place in the conference with four games to go. They are, however, only two and a half games out of first place in a tight Frontier Conference.

The Bulldogs committed 21 attack errors and finished with a team hitting percentage of a paltry .067. Senior setter Callie Hanson (Spokane, Wash.) had 21 assists and 11 digs, sophomore libero Dylan Fowler contributed 12 digs, and outside hitters sophomore Cady Siemion (Huntley, Mont.) and senior Bailey Wilson (burley, Idaho) each had seven.

"We didn't get enough digs," Head Coach Brent Lewis said, "it's hard to win that way."

Sophomore outside hitter Kylie McCree (Belgrade, Mont.) had 8 kills, and junior middle blocker Tessa Miller (Manhattan, Mont.) added 6.

The Bulldogs will hit the road as they travel to Lewis and Clark State College (7-10, 2-5) on Thursday, Oct. 27 and to #23 ranked Montana Tech (16-7, 4-3) on Saturday, Oct. 29.

Wood Bank Ministries Update:

May folks wonder how we deliver all that wood? The typical delivery of wood is three cords delivered in our dump-bed truck and trailer. We schedule our deliveries for Tuesday or Thursdays and when possible encourage clients to pick the wood up. We have already begun our deliveries for this winter season and anticipate distributing over 100 cords.

You may be wondering who does all of this. Wood Bank Ministries has a steady group of volunteers we refer to as our Wood Chucks and Chicks. These folks come from all walks of life and have logged over 100 volunteer hours over the past year. Folks like Bob & Sarah Pfister, and board members of Beaverhead United Way, Lynn Stonelake, Monte Elliot, and a number of other individuals make this work possible. Another important group of volunteers we would like to thank are the cadets at Youth Challenge. Each year a group of cadets take time from their schedule to donate their energy and time to split, pile, and organize wood. Thank you to all of our Wood Chucks and Chicks! You make this possible. Do you have some time to contribute to our efforts to ensure no one goes without heat this winter? Please call 406-596-3690 for more information.
