Forest Service Reminds Hunters To Store Food, Attractants and Animal Carcasses Safely

In recent years many public lands in Montana, including the Beaverhead-Deerlodge National Forest, have implemented Food Storage Orders that affect hunting practices and how hunters set up camp. The Beaverhead-Deerlodge National Forest would like to share some tips for storing food, attractants and carcasses to help hunters develop good habits as bear populations expand.

- Bring your animal carcass home or to the butcher while you finish your hunting trip if you live within driving distance. If you're from out of town, some businesses offer storage for carcasses. There are many butchers, outfitters or other businesses with walk-in freezers who can provide space to hunters.

- Plan for animal carcass storage while camping. Bring storage for the carcass for example, in the form of a truck with topper, enclosed trailer, horse trailer with full doors, or certified bear resistant containers. If you use hang poles, the carcass must hang ten feet high at its lowest point and four feet away from climbable supports and must be 100 yards away from your camp. You may also want to bring pulleys and ropes to help hoist your carcass between trees.

- Pack a tarp or strong plastic sheet to gut your animal in case you down your game near a trail or need to leave your carcass overnight. Gut piles are the most attractive to bears and other scavengers. If you use a tarp or plastic sheet to drag the gut pile away from your animal you may avoid finding a bear on your carcass in the morning. You must drag gut piles at least 200 yards from National Forest system trail to help prevent trail users from surprising a bear feeding on it.

- Don't hang or butcher your animal in camp. Blood on the ground is a powerful attractant to bears and other scavengers.

- When retrieving game, leave a member of your party to "attend" the carcass if possible.

- Borrow bear-resistant containers for FREE from your local Forest Service office. There are a variety of items from coolers to panniers to backpack barrels. Please call ahead to find out what is available at each office.

- Take advantage of the permanent food storage boxes in many of the Forest Service campgrounds for your food and other attractants.

- When in doubt, call your local Forest Service or MT Fish, Wildlife and Parks office. They are happy to help you plan your trip and troubleshoot any attractant storage concerns. Be aware that Montana State Wildlife Management Areas have similar requirements.

Remember that all attractants must be acceptably stored at night and attended or acceptably stored during the day. Carcasses or partial carcasses may only be left on the ground if they are one-half mile away from any sleeping area and 200 yards from any Forest Service system trail.

The Beaverhead-Deerlodge National Forest instituted a forest-wide order on June 1, 2014 which is in effect from March 1 through December 1 annually. The storage requirements and tips can be viewed online at: http://www.fs.usda.gov/Internet/FSE_DOCUMENTS/stelprd3844391.pdf.

For more information contact your local Forest Service office.

Letter to the Editor
LaVon D. Brillhart

Lets face the facts! Both major U.S. political parties are dysfunctional. But this year the Republican Party takes the booby prize for dysfunction.

Sorry must not say the "B" word around Donald Trump. It has been estimated that 130 million Americans don't like Hillary Clinton or Donald Trump. But they do have a choice! Move to Canada, and they don't want us, cry and swear a lot, don't vote, or vote for the lesser of the two evils, whatever that means.

The Republicans have a man running for President they didn't want, then they made him sign a pledge to run as a Republican and now they are sorry for what they can't remember!

Hillary Clinton can't deal with her past. Donald Trump can't deal with his future. The American voters can't deal with the present.

You do realize the election will take place on Tuesday November the 8th. But you do also realize after the voting the election will never be over. Never!

Sorry for all the dysfunctional writing. I was groping for new words but it taxed my brain. I tried to build a wall around my brain but my thoughts got lost in my emails. I'm sure an illegal alien took my words. Maybe that nasty you know, took my words.

Whatever the case might be, I know this whole page has been rigged from day one!
