50 Things You Didn't Know About Montana

1. Montana has more bookstores, birdwatchers, firearms, people who hunt, and people who fish per capita than any other state.
2. Montana is larger than Japan, the United Kingdom, and Italy. If Montana were to secede from the union (and there have been numerous calls to do so) it would be the 62nd largest country in the world.
3. Tweets originating from inside the state of Montana are longer than those from any other state—averaging just more than 43 out of 140 possible characters in length.
4. A Montana Yogo Sapphire is the only North American gem included in the Crown Jewels of England.
5. By law it is a felony in Montana for a wife to open her husband's mail.
6. Montana is the only state bordering three Canadian provinces; Saskatchewan, Alberta, and British Columbia.
7. When Great Falls High School was built in 1896, a herd of sheep was used to compact earth around the foundation.
8. Jordan, Montana, the county seat for Garfield County, is 175 miles from the nearest airport, 85 miles from the nearest bus line, and 115 miles from the nearest train.
9. It is perfectly legal in Montana to ride your horse home if you are drunk.
10. Montana is the only state to allow double proxy weddings. In other words, both the bride and groom can have stand-ins exchange matrimonial vows on their behalf. Double proxy divorces, unfortunately, do not exist.
11. Montana is the only state with rivers that drain into three different oceans; the Pacific Ocean, Atlantic Ocean, and Arctic Ocean (by virtue of its drainage into Canada's Hudson Bay).
12. Montana has more residents (8,529 per 10,000 people) serving in the United States military than any other state... yet it is the only state without a modern naval ship named in its honor.
13. An earthquake in 1959 caused Hebgen Lake in Gallatin County, Montana to recede 22 feet, leaving a wide gravel beach along its lakefront.
14. In 1903 the library in Bozeman, Montana was intentionally built across the street from the city's red-light district and opium dens.
15. Montana is the only state in the U.S. that does not have any statewide ban on texting behind the wheel.
16. The Montana state constitution mandates the all students must learn American Indian history, culture, and heritage.
17. A cowboy once insisted on riding his horse to his room in the Grand Union Hotel in Fort Benton, Montana. When the manager objected, the two exchanged gunfire. The cowboy was killed before he and his horse made it to

 22. 46 out of Montana's 56 counties are still considered "frontier counties" with fewer than 6 residents per square mile.
 23. Mary Fields, who was born into slavery in 1832 and who would later become known as "Stagecoach Mary," was one of the toughest women in the Montana Territory. She was described as a "tart-tongued, gun-toting, hard-drinking, cigar-and-pipe smoking, 6 foot tall, 200 pound black woman who was tough enough to take on any two men." She arrived in Montana to help establish mission schools on the Cheyenne, Crow, Blackfoot and Fort Belknap Indian Reservations.
 24. Montana permits urinating along the side of the road (so as long as he or she attempts to be modest and does not bother anyone else in the process).
 25. Montana has more one-room schools—around 90—than any other state in the country.
 26. Montana has more than 29,000 family farms and ranches covering 66 percent of the state's land mass.
 27. In 1993 the town of Ismay, Montana unofficially changed its name to Joe, Montana as part of a well-organized publicity stunt by the Kansas City Chiefs to honor quarterback Joe Montana.

29. Cattle rustling in Montana is still punishable by hanging.

30. There are 77 mountain ranges in Montana and 2,991 mountain peaks with names...none of which are among the 50 tallest in the United States.

31. During a smallpox epidemic in the early 1800s two Crow Indian boys rode a white horse over a cliff to sacrifice their lives to save their tribe from the disease. The exact location of that cliff is believed to be along the Yellowstone River near Billings, Montana.

32. According to the folklore of the Crow Nation, the Little People of Montana's Pryor Mountains were dwarves so violent and fearsome they could tear the heart out of an enemy's horse.

33. Montana was the first state to elect a woman to Congress in 1916.

34. The Roe River near Great Falls, Montana is only 201 feet long and is considered the world's shortest river.

35. In 1960 late Senator Ted Kennedy rode a bucking bronco named Skyrocket at a rodeo in Miles City, Montana while stumping for his brother John for President.

36. It is illegal in Montana for a married woman to go fishing alone on Sundays. It is also illegal for unmarried women to fish alone at all.

37. Stars who call Montana home (at least part of the year) include Michael Keaton (Big Timber), David Letterman (Choteau), Huey Lewis (Stevensville), Dennis Quaid (Livingston), Bill Pullman (Whitehall), Howie Long (Flathead Lake), John Mayer (Bozeman), Tom Brokaw (Livingston), and Ted Turner (Gallatin Gateway).

38. Montana has fewer acres of wetlands than any other state.

39. Montana has almost three times as many cows than it has people.

40. Thomas Francis Meagher was an Irish revolutionary convicted of treason and exiled to a penal colony in Tasmania before he served as Montana's territorial secretary and governor.

41. Nearly one fourth of Montana—22.4 million acres—is forested. And the most common tree in the state of Montana is the Ponderosa pine, which was formally adopted as the state tree in 1949 at the urging of the Montana Federation of Garden Clubs.

45. Montana was the last state to establish an age limit for buying cigarettes.

46. The first federal census in 1870 showed only 20,595 people living in the Montana Territory.

47. The population of Petroleum County, Montana is just 494 people despite being larger than the state of Rhode Island.

48. Before being named the Montana Territory, Congress considered naming the state "Shoshone" to honor the Indians who lived in the state and "Jefferson" to honor the former President who commissioned the Lewis and Clark Expedition.

49. For over 100 years no one knew the name of the person who sculpted the bronze sculpture of a woman that sits atop Montana's Capitol dome or where it came from.

50. Roy, Montana (pop. 108) owes its name to a spelling mistake. When Walter H. Peck established a post office on his ranch in 1892 he requested the name Ray in honor of a relative. However, someone in Washington D.C. misread the application and returned it with the name Roy instead.

ZONING PROTECTION

By: Lynn Westad

There have been lots of comments about zoning recently so I will try to give you information property owners need to know. When you are a property owner you want to have your investment protected. Zoning groups similar uses together. To accomplish this there are three basic zones, residential, commercial and industrial.

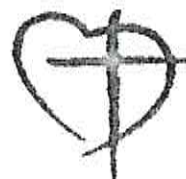

If you are in a residential area you do not a business next door. One exception is a home based business. If you live in a residential area and want to operate a home business it must be compatible with the adjacent homes. The Zoning Commission has to determine if the business use will create noise, odors, increased traffic, excess parking and accumulated junk. If the business does not create issues in a neighborhood and the adjacent homeowner's quiet enjoyment and investment is not impacted then it could be an appropriate home business.

Determining the correct zone for an area is important. The area called the Potato Cellar is being considered to be zoned C-2. The Commission considers uses that currently exist and other uses that may come in the near future. C-2 seems to be the zone that would achieve compatible growth and current property investments are protected and can continue.

When a rare denial is done the word TAKINGS is thrown about. You need to understand the legal definition before using in regard to zoning. Many court cases have determined that zoning is not a taking. Rather that it protects the property owners by not allowing uses that would be detrimental to their property.

Is zoning impacting growth? If you really look at the facts it is improving the existing growth and guiding new growth to be an asset to the community. Good zoning decisions give people confidence to invest in the community. I noticed 4 new businesses in Dillon just this month. Yes we lost a major one Kings. Do we have several empty buildings yes. Instead of being negative and stating incorrect facts lets be more productive with our energy. Let's ask questions like are there things are our City Government could do to encourage businesses to locate in Dillon. Are their things we as individuals could do to help? Perhaps join a group that is working on new ideas to improve Dillon. Let's move forward not back and keep Dillon being a great place.

Do You Know the Truth... Who is God and what are His characteristics? (pt. 1)

---We believe the following: (1) the Bible was given by the inspiration of God as stated in 2 Timothy 3:16-17; (2) all statements made in this and any ensuing articles will be based on what the Bible says; (3) the Bible only is the reliable source of spiritual & doctrinal truth; (4) all beliefs in conflict with Biblical teachings are false.---

God reveals Himself to mankind in a variety of ways. Creation & nature reveal much about God, but neither nature nor creation are God.

In Acts 17:23 we read of some who were religious but had no knowledge of the True God. This led them to erect an idol "To the unknown God." Possibly they were like many today who think of God as a vague force, principle, or idea that they can worship any way they choose. In the following verses Paul points out several very important facts about the God:

(1) "God made the world and all things therein..."; (2) God "is Lord (the supreme authority) of heaven and earth..."; (3) God does not "dwell in temples (shrines, buildings) made with hands...", Acts 17:24; (4) God gives life, and breath, and all things to all, and needs nothing from man to exist, Acts 17:25; (5) God "...made of one blood all nations of men for to dwell on all the face of the earth," and (6) God determines (appoints) the times (duration) and the bounds (limits) of the habitation of man, Acts 17:26; (7) We live, and move, and have our very existence in God, In Acts 17:28; (7) Since man is God's offspring he should not "think that the Godhead is like unto gold, or silver, or stone, graven (carved) by art (craft) and man's device (thought)," Acts 17:29; (8) God has overlooked much of man's ignorance, but has now commanded repentance, Acts 17:30; (9) God has appointed a day in which Christ, who arose from the dead, will judge mankind in righteousness, Acts 17:31.

Conclusion: In view of these facts, it would be wise to seek God's will and righteousness, beginning by repenting of sin and accepting God's Son as your Savior.
