Dr. Scott W Bentley

Our hero returned home to his loving Heavenly Father on January 1, 2017 in St. George, UT at the age of 63. He fought courageous battle with kidney disease for 30-years. In six decades, he lived a dozen lifetimes. His determination, humor and love for family and others made his life extraordinarily beautiful. He was a giant among men.

He was born on September 2, 1953 in Kanab, Utah to Wendell W Bentley and Barbara Jean Young. Scott married his high school sweetheart and love of his life, Peggy Heaton Bentley in the St. George LDS Temple on December 18, 1971. Their love story is one for the ages where selfless service and sacrifice welded the strongest eternal bond and blessed everyone in their sphere of influence especially their children.

He graduated from the Los Angeles College of Chiropractic in 1980 and moved his family to Dillon, Montana where they lived for 15 years before returning to Kanab, Utah in 1995. Scott loved being a chiropractor and made countless friends during his 36-year practice. His patients were his friends and he loved each one dearly.

He was a member of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints and had a burning testimony of the Savior Jesus Christ and His restored gospel. As a master teacher through example and word he instilled faith and hope in many including his children and grandchildren (two currently serving missions). He taught seminary and institute for many years in Montana and was a gifted public speaker serving as a stake high councilor for many years. Scott had a gift to not only heal the body but the soul.

Scott lived life to the fullest and never gave up. He was watched over throughout his life by is guardian angel son Nathan.

He lived by the motto-

There is no chance, no fate, no destiny
That can circumvent, or hinder, or control
The firm resolve of a determined soul.

Scott will be greatly missed by his eternal sweetheart Peggy Bentley, five children and their spouses: Jennifer Anne (Eric) Thueson, Natalie Nicole (Ryan) Frisby, Aaron Douglas (Amy) Bentley, Lacey Jean (Nate) Laird, and Joshua Sterling (Darci) Bentley. His 17 grandchildren will remember Papa as one of their greatest heroes. Scott is also survived by his siblings Jim (Georgia) Bentley, Karalee (Hubby) Grounds,

Hey, Google's My New Bud

By Peter Funt

I'm drinking morning coffee and exchanging pleasantries with the omnipotent Google Home device that arrived as a gift and was given a place near our kitchen table.

Google has designed this coffee-can shaped digital assistant so that it can only be addressed with the words "OK, Google" or "Hey, Google."

Me: "Hey, Google. How do you spell omnipotent?" It (she?): "Omnipotent is spelled o-m-n-i-p-o-t-e-n-t" Me: "Hey, Google. When is the Warriors' next game?" It: "The Golden State Warriors will be playing the Toronto Rappers Wednesday at 7:30 p.m."

"Hey, Google. Hay is for horses."

Ha. Just kidding. That's how my mom used to remind us that it's not polite to say "hey." I might add that mom knew how to spell omnipotent and, on balance, seemed to get along fine without guidance from inanimate objects-although she was prone to criticizing them, as in: "That darn toaster is taking too long!"

Google Home competes with Amazon's Echo, which for nearly two years has been the hottest thing on the planet. It answers to "Alexa."

"Hey, Google. Do you know someone named Alexa?"

"Sorry, I don't know how to help with that, but I'm still learning."

"Hey, Google. Do you know Siri?"

"She has a nice name."

Since I'm writing this on my iPad, I thought I'd ask Siri, "What do you know about Google Home?"

Siri: "I found this on the Internet: 'Home,' a 2015 film. An alien on the run makes friends with a girl."

Seems these devices are still easily confused. Yet, for some people the lonely days of waiting to hear, "You've got mail," have been replaced by the semblance of conversation with an entity that knows how many miles it is to the nearest pizza place, can convert dollars to Yen, and has a Silicon Valley sense of humor.

"Hey, Google. Tell me a joke."

"Who designed King Arthur's Round Table? Sir Cumference."

Back in the eighties our family had a Chrysler station wagon with limited vocabulary and laughably halting pronunciation. We'd jump in and the car would declare: "A...door...is...a...jar." That made us laugh, and it prompted my sister to quip, "I always thought a door was a fork."

Nowadays I can barely make it out of the driveway without audio cues from GPS. My alarm clock volunteers the temperature, and the moving sidewalk warns when it's coming to an end.

What's next? Bob, the talking toothbrush ("Don't forget to scrub your tongue"). Hank, the grouchy lawnmower ("Gotta do something about that crabgrass"). Marge, the nagging refrigerator ("Save some of that apple pie for tomorrow, big guy").

I think Google might have erred by not giving its gadget a name. Product reinforcement is one thing, but it becomes a real pain after you've said "Hey, Google" or "OK, Google" several dozen times.

We humans assign anthropomorphisms to many things in our lives-from pets to potted plants. Heck, the first thing Tom Hanks did when he was stuck on an island was name his soccer ball Wilson.

As for conversing with inanimate objects, we've come a long way. In 1949, when my dad, Allen Funt, hid a speaker in a mailbox in Manhattan so it could "talk" to passersby, folks were aghast. Even after settling in to conversation, not a single person asked the mailbox for the high temperature in Philadelphia, or to play a tune by Perry Como.

Nowadays young people think nothing of chatting with the machines in their lives. I suspect, however, that many of them wouldn't know what to make of a mailbox.
