Attorney General Fox Announces Increases in Human Trafficking Victims Rescued in Montana

Collaborative Efforts Among Federal, State, Local Agencies and Increased Public Awareness Credited

Attorney General Tim Fox announced today that while the number of known human trafficking cases in Montana increased between 2015 and 2016, so did the number of child and adult victims rescued during that same timeframe.

The Montana Department of Justice's Division of Criminal Investigation (DCI) compiled 2015 and 2016 human trafficking statistics for the state* by merging DCI and known federal prosecution cases through the US Attorney's Office. Of note:

Montana experienced a 100% increase in human trafficking cases between 2015 and 2016.

The number of adult victims rescued in Montana between 2015 and 2016 increased by 83%.

The number of juvenile victims rescued in Montana between 2015 and 2016 increased by 400%.

"Our ongoing legislative advocacy and outreach efforts over the last four years to fight modern-day slavery have resulted in greater public awareness, increased detection by our law enforcement partners, and justice for more of its victims," Attorney General Tim Fox said. "Unfortunately, it's possible that human trafficking investigations would cease if the proposed 5% budget reduction impacts our Division of Criminal Investigation. Human trafficking investigations tend to be complex and expensive operations, but we can't put a price on the safety of Montana's children."

Bryan Lockerby, administrator of DOJ's Division of Criminal Investigation emphasized that the concept of human trafficking investigations has evolved primarily due to the increased attention and training that's available for law enforcement. Lockerby said, "Similar to peeling back the layers of an onion, we're getting better at these cases and figuring out appropriate responses. Although the large scale human trafficking 'sweeps' don't work in our state, the quick response to tips and immediate follow up to individual cases has proven much more successful and resulted in an increase in arrests and identification of victims."

Human trafficking awareness and prevention have been key initiatives of the Montana Department of Justice since Attorney General Fox took office four years ago. Montana's laws now have the clear definitions and penalties needed to protect children and help sex trafficking victims on the road to recovery.

In 2013, Shared Hope International ranked Montana as one of the top three states in the country for its efforts to prevent child sex trafficking, citing Montana's successful commitment to advancing legislation that same year to ensure that children are not for sale within our borders. During the 2015 legislative session, House Bill 89 was drafted by and introduced at the request of Attorney General Tim Fox, and was sponsored by Rep. Kim Dudik (D) of Missoula. Effective July 1, 2015, this important legislation updated Montana's human trafficking laws to reflect the model state human trafficking act.

More information on human trafficking, as well as a printable awareness poster, is available on the Attorney General's Office website at www.dojmt.gov/stoptht. To report suspected human trafficking cases or to request help, call local law enforcement or 1-888-3737-888 or text BeFree (233733).

Welborn's Weekly Senate Report

HELENA:

The 65th Legislative Session Started on Jan 2 with both House and Senate Members swearing in and preparing for the 90 day session, which is now upon us.

This being my first term as your Senator, and also as someone that represents you the people, our livelihoods, as well as our way of life, my committee assignments should position me well, to help direct policy that is important to our corner of Montana. I will be serving on Finance and Claims (Senate version of appropriations), Fish and Game, as well as Natural Resources where I will be serving as Vice Chair.

Representative Ray Shaw and myself will continue to work with, and putting pressure if necessary, on The Montana Department of Transportation, to make good on their agreed obligation to help defray the costs bared by both the Towns of Twin Bridges and Ennis for their respective, locally owned and operated rest areas. These stops benefit thousands of travelers that visit here during the year. Stay tuned as we work through this on this in the coming months.

The Colstrip power plant, along with coal production in general, and as always, water rights, are shaping up to be big ticket natural resource issues we will be taking up in committee during the upcoming session. We need to have a robust conversation about how to promote our oil, gas and coal communities, and help them whole as they pivot towards the future. As always, water rights will be a notable topic in the 2017 session. One such measure is being introduced by Senator Chas Vincent. Senate Bill 28, which would expand jurisdiction of the water court, and clarify the duties of chief and associate water judges.

The general fund budget, which delivers basic services, i.e. highway maintenance, k-12 education, health services, infrastructure etc., for the next two year period is going to be front and center this session, especially given the substantial reduction in revenues coming in. In both the House Appropriations and our Senate Finance and Claims, my sense is that we will start the budget process by cutting Gov. Steve Bullock's proposals by an additional $50 million, to his already $74 million in budget cuts for state agencies, we feel this is necessary to avoid having a tax increase to backfill the budget and get us to reasonable and prudent rainy day balance.

It is extremely unlikely, given the makeup of the (Republican) majority, that there's going to be a tax increase on our traditional economy, therefore we need to address the problem of reduced revenue with additional budget cuts, not with tax increases or transfers.

The Governor's budget office could have taken action last year to throttle back spending, when it became clear that tax revenue was declining, however, they chose not to. We've been called in to help clean up a mess, that we didn't create. We can do our best to stop the bleeding. It's just not going to be very pleasant.

Another issue that I've received numerous phone calls about, over the past several months, will be front and center this week in the Senate. We are looking at a proposal to prevent air ambulance patients from being on the hook for exorbitant balance bills, however we also have to balance this, while avoiding violating a federal law that exempts air carriers from regulation.

I will be supporting this measure that would leave patients out of the bill negotiations between their insurance program and out-of-network air ambulance providers. Some Montana residents had received so-called "balance bills" for $50,000 or more for a trip for instance from Dillon to Missoula, much more in some instances, from out-of-network providers after their insurance has either paid a very small portion or completely denied payment. What we are saying with this proposed legislation is to find a workable middle ground. It's a matter of fairness, nobody is denying either the air ambulances or the insurance companies a fair profit, but it's an atrocity to put this entirely on the backs of Montana consumers and their families. The lack of accountability by insurers as well as providers alike is bankrupting folks that don't have a choice in which provider shows up when they need an air ambulance.

This bi-partisan proposal being introduced by Senator Gordy Vance, a Bozeman Republican, and proposes to set up a framework to settle the reimbursement issue while holding the patient harmless. The bill initially would require the patient's insurance company to pay at least what it would pay an in-network provider for the same service. If the air ambulance company does not believe rate payment schedule is adequate, the two sides can negotiate a payment, agree to binding arbitration to determine a fair price, or they can take the issue to court. The patient would only be held responsible for their deductible and co-pay.

RE: Nonfiction Reading Group to discuss Quiet: the Power of Introverts in a World that Can't Stop Talking by Susan Cain

The Dillon Public Library's Nonfiction Reading Group will meet on Tuesday, January 17 at 7:00 p.m. in the Library's basement programming room to discuss Susan Cain's book, Quiet: the Power of Introverts in a World that Can't Stop Talking. The reading group is open to the public, and copies of the book are available for checkout at the Library in both hard copy and electronic format. Copies are also available for sale at The Bookstore, 26 North Idaho Street.

The Amazon Book Review has this to say about Quiet: At least one-third of the people we know are introverts. They are the ones who prefer listening to speaking; who innovate and create but dislike self-promotion; who favor working on their own over working in teams. It is to introverts—Rosa Parks, Chopin, Dr. Seuss, Steve Wozniak—that we owe many of the great contributions to society.

In Quiet, Susan Cain argues that we dramatically undervalue introverts and shows how much we lose in doing so. She charts the rise of the Extrovert Ideal throughout the twentieth century and explores how deeply it has come to permeate our culture. She also introduces us to successful introverts—from a witty, high-octane public speaker who recharges in solitude after his talks, to a record-breaking salesman who quietly taps into the power of questions. Passionately argued, superbly researched, and filled with indelible stories of real people, Quiet has the power to permanently change how we see introverts and, equally important, how they see themselves.

There are four additional titles lined up for monthly discussions in February, March, April and May. Stop by the Library to find out more about the group and the titles scheduled for discussion. We invite everyone to consider joining this book discussion group. It is free and open to the public. See you @ the Library!
