appointed Mr. Don Guiberson to the Police of Chief position.
Chief Paul Craft retired opening the position for a new appointment. Guiberson has been on the Dillon police force for 20 years. He thanked those he had served with for giving him advice and support during his career. Councilman Straugh

Election of Councilman for Ward #2: Two candidates, Russell Schwandt and Ed Mooney introduced themselves.
The council members asked question and made comments.
Councilman Nye expressed the difficulty that a councilperson sometimes has with listening and truly hearing what others are saying and to remain unbiased. Councilman Nye stated that he had the privilege of working with both men.
All of councilperson stated they had had phone calls and received emails from the public expressing their views on the candidates. There were several members in the public that attended the meeting and personally expressed who they would like to see seated as the councilperson filling the vacated seat. Mr. Schwandt was elected via majority vote.

Reserved Parking Spaces: In the Judiciary minutes included in council's packets was the recommendation to reserve spaces for the Cowboy Taxi and University Bus to pick up people. Council discussed marking places for them to Montana Western art student conquers self-doubt, completes self-portrait

University of Montana Western junior Logan Thomas recently completed a large self-portrait for a painting class this past block.
Thomas used acrylic paint on a masonite board for the lifelike painting, which measures a full eight feet tall by seven feet wide.
The size of the photo was somewhat strategic in that it was large, but still able to fit through a doorway, Thomas explained. The piece took three weeks; the entirety of Block Four.

"At first I was a bit daunted by the fact that I was going to paint myself as I struggled with what could be perceived as narcissism," Thomas said. "But after going through the process,

I realized that I was my own best model and easiest to work with. Spending three weeks poring over every detail of a photograph of yourself and translating that to canvas does make you see your imperfections, however " Thomas said with a laugh.

Originally from Elliston, Mont., Thomas graduated from Deer Lodge High School in 2014. He explained he was able to attend Montana Western largely in part due to being a recipient of the Chancellor's Leadership Scholarship Award. The scholarship covers four years of tuition and is awarded to Montana residents with a minimum cumulative 3.6 grade point average and 26 ACT or 1760 SAT.

In addition to his artwork at UMW, Thomas runs a small business where he takes the photos of people and pets given to him and renders them into charcoal portraits. He is interested in continuing his artistic pursuits and possibly pursuing a career in graphic design.

When asked his plans for the painting, Thomas said he was unsure, but that he was pretty certain it wasn't going to end up hanging over his own fireplace.

He will graduate with a visual arts degree in fall 2017.
