Future Projects or Committees Bucket List:

Parking: Opinions & ideas along with suggestions were topic of discussions. There were no actual hard facts presented that would help the committee make decisions like; type of businesses and how many businesses are located downtown, number of parking spaces needed to accommodate each business, how many overall parking places there are downtown, how the city bus might be incorporated into transporting people from parking lots, how many parking spaces would angle parking make available verses parallel parking, why museum has private parking... There was no proof that the parking downtown was detrimental to any businesses income flow. A parking garage was mentioned. New businesses and businesses relocating that "change the use" of buildings, like Sweetwater Café were discussed.

Director of Operations told the committee that if there was a 1,000 sq. ft. serving area the business would have to have twenty (20) parking spaces. A retail business would have to have one (1) parking space for every 300 sq. ft. NOTE: When Sweetwater was in the original building they were not required to comply with parking regulations because they were established before the new zoning ordinance was adopted.

Audience Members speak up: Ideas were presented on towns of equal size with same characteristics as Dillon have done for parking. It appears that Dillon's requirements are twice as strict as many other towns. Thanks goes out to the public representatives that take their time to attend a local government meeting expressing their ideas and making suggestions on issues that defines the future of their business, their family and their community. It was expressed by a public member that over regulations hurts construction and commerce. The committee was asked to consider the impact on future business and existing businesses when they make decisions.

Zoning Potato Cellar area: Chairman Graham stated the AG issues would need to be resolved. Mr. Mooney spoke of information he had gathered on state statutes that pertain to the classification of agriculture. He stated that the states classification for Mr. Kent Graham's business is commercial and not AG. Committeeman Garry stated the Potato Cellar area was like a jigsaw and maybe the city limits could be trimmed up and made more boxlike. Zoning at the Potato Cellar was (tabled) until more information can be obtained.

Long time passed zoning committee members, Mr. McIsaac and Mr. Mooney were in attendance to offer assistance.

Strangulation a Felony Offense

Attorney General Tim Fox, along with Sen. Margie MacDonald, D-Billings, and Yellowstone Co. Attorney Scott Twito, announced Thursday the introduction of a bill that would make the crime of strangulation of a partner or family member a felony offense in Montana.

SB 153, sponsored by Sen. Margie MacDonald, was drafted by the Montana Department of Justice in concert with the Yellowstone County Attorney's office. The bill would establish in Montana law that a person commits the felony offense of strangulation of a partner or family member if the person purposely or knowingly impedes the normal breathing or circulation of the blood of a partner or family member by:

- applying pressure on the throat or neck of the partner or family member;
- or
- blocking air flow to the nose and mouth of the partner or family member.

Montana's current law does not distinguish the offense of strangulation from other crimes of assault. To convict a person of felony assault by strangulation under current law, prosecutors must prove a victim suffered a substantial risk of death or serious bodily injury. This is often very difficult to prove in the case of strangulation as injuries are often internal, and not always immediately apparent.

Last year, Attorney General Fox held a series of crime victim forums across the state to give victims an opportunity to speak about their experiences with the justice system, as well as their thoughts on how victims might be better served in the future. After hearing disturbing testimony from two victims in Missoula who were strangled by the same man, Attorney General Fox made it a priority for his office to work with county attorneys and legislators to make strangulation a felony offense in Montana.

"Non-lethal instances of strangulation are a red flag for identifying future lethal violence in an abusive relationship, and current law doesn't adequately protect victims or hold offenders accountable for this particularly dangerous form of abuse," said Montana Attorney General Tim Fox. "I'm pleased that my office was able to work with the Yellowstone County Attorney's office, and Senator MacDonald, to improve protections for victims in Montana through Senate Bill 153."

"If someone is going to commit the crime of strangulation, it is more likely than not that it is their intent to cause serious injury," said Senator

Margie MacDonald, D-Billings. "Unfortunately, there is a hole in Montana's current law that doesn't provide victims of domestic abuse the protection they need when they find themselves in an abusive relationship. SB 153 is a much needed tool for prosecutors to use to address serial domestic violence in Montana."

"The Yellowstone County Attorney's Office supports Senate Bill 153, sponsored by Billings Senator Margie MacDonald," said Yellowstone County Attorney Scott Twito. "This bill will address problems with the current aggravated assault law in prosecuting strangulation cases. Domestic violence involving strangulation poses significant risk to victims and this proposed bill will provide additional tools for prosecutors and law enforcement to protect victims of this serious, violent crime. This office gives this bill its full support."

Montana is one of a small minority of states across the country that doesn't have a law specific to the crime of strangulation. The bill has been referred to the Senate Judiciary committee with a hearing date tentatively set for next week.

WATER CLARITY

A joint presentation about water clarity in the Beaverhead
River will be held Tuesday, Feb. 7 at 6:30 p.m. at the USDA Service Center Conference Room, 420 Barrett St, Dillon. Please enter through the east door.

The past three summers have seen turbidity problems in the upper reaches of the Beaverhead River. The Department of Environmental Quality deployed a monitoring program that included measurements in the reservoir, the Beaverhead River, and tributary streams. The U.S. Bureau of Reclamation has conducted a bathymetric survey to measure the reservoir bed elevation. The Department of Fish, Wildlife & Parks performed routine monitoring of fish populations and conditions in the reservoir and streams.

Montana DEQ, FW&P, and the Bureau of Reclamation will jointly present on:

- Our current understanding of the chronology of the turbidity in the Beaverhead River and the reservoir.
- Review of data collected during the past two years and how it compares to historic information, including identification of the turbidity material and minerology.
- Analysis and interpretation of potential mechanisms causing the turbidity. A review the importance of factors like water movement and reservoir mixing, whether fish and other biota contribute to the turbidity, and geochemistry that could further exacerbate such events.
- Potential effects on fish and other aquatic life.
- Finally, the agencies will discuss potential next steps.

FROZEN PIPES
 With more cold weather predicted, the City of Dillon would like to remind homeowners to take measures to prevent their pipes from freezing. Here are several tips: (1) allow a small trickle of water from your cold water faucet to run to keep pipes from freezing. The cost of the extra water is low compared to the cost to repair a broken pipe; (2) keep garage doors closed if there are water supply lines in the garage; (3) open kitchen and bathroom cabinets to allow warmer air circulation around the plumbing and also remember to move any harmful cleaners and household chemicals out of reach of children; (4) If you will be going away during the cold weather, leave the heat on in your home, set to a temperature no lower than 55 degrees Fahrenheit.

The City would prefer to make adjustments for running water to prevent frozen lines than to have customers inconvenienced with frozen water lines which could prove to be very costly.

Spay Neuter Clinics

FROZEN PIPES

With more cold weather predicted, the City of Dillon would like to remind homeowners to take measures to prevent their pipes from freezing. Here are several tips: (1) allow a small trickle of water from both your cold and hot water faucets to run to keep pipes from freezing. The cost of the extra water is low compared to the cost to repair a broken pipe; (2) keep garage doors closed if there are water supply lines in the garage; (3) open kitchen and bathroom cabinets to allow warmer air circulation around the plumbing and also remember to move any harmful cleaners and household chemicals out of reach of children; (4) If you will be going away during the cold weather, leave the heat on in your home, set to a temperature no lower than 55 degrees Fahrenheit.

The City would prefer to make adjustments for running water to prevent frozen lines than to have customers inconvenienced with frozen water lines which could prove to be very costly.
