Variance Committee and Goals

By: MJ

At the March 7th Zoning Committee meeting the Variance Committee was discussed as another option for people to get a permit accepted if it was rejected by the zoning committee. City Charter in Title 17.36.030 defines the powers and duties of a Variance Board. You may read this document on the internet at dillonmt.org.

Mr. Mooney is a member of the Variance Committee and during the discussion of the downtown parking subject he informed the committee that the Variance Committee is where people can submit an application if turned down by the zoning committee. The Variance Board can allow special exceptions to the ordinance. Example: If you have a business and could not comply with the requirements of the zoning documents off-street parking requirements the owners may file with the Variance Committee for an unnecessary hardship imposed upon them via the zoning document.

QUESTIONS: The Zoning Committee is mindful of the fact that the downtown area in Dillon has no off-street parking areas large enough to accommodate most of the existing downtown businesses. Knowing this why would the people be required to pay another $350 dollars to go before the Variance Board? Would this be an unfair tax on a few and people that are supporting the economy in Dillon via taxes, employment...

SUGGESTION: Fix the zoning document so that it represents the needs of the community. Instead of more overwhelming rules and regulations let's start working with and for the betterment of our community and inhabitants as a whole. Let's put away our desires to impose our opinions on others by serving on committees, boards... Yes, it is hard to not bring your feeling to the table. That is why seeking the facts and figures are important before making decisions. NOTE: The zoning board gathered those facts when they accepted and application for a home business recently.

Let's get a long term plan that the entire community and all organizations within, can be a part of and work toward instead of transforming our future into a ghost town. If you go onto the internet there seems to be very few facts and not much data posted about the Dillon community or area as compared to other locations in Mt. We have what the people in the metropolitan areas enjoy experiencing. The wide open spaces, beautiful sunshine, the quiet, peacefulness, what the federal lands and fisheries have to offer, historical sights and events depicting how the west developed, three (3) highways that intersect in Dillon, on the main route off I-15 to Virginia City... Working toward developing a long term plan that high lights the community and area would go a long ways to help and support the community of Dillon work toward goals. There is abundant information contained in existing documents representing, the city and area that would assistance in starting to outline a long term plan.

Senator Jeff Welborn's Weekly Capitol Report HELENA:

In recent weeks, I've had several calls and emails in regards to Montana's vital and under funded infrastructure needs. Simply put, Montana's aging infrastructure is in serious need of our attention. From neighborhood roads and community schools to safe drinking water, from dams that produce energy and prevent flooding to waterways that irrigate our crops. Public infrastructure is used by all Montana residents and is essential to our economic viability now, and into the future. Polling shows that most Montanans have a strong interest in facing our infrastructure challenges, because regular maintenance and improvements today, will keep them working longer and ultimately save taxpayers money.

Aside from ever-dwindling state and federal grant monies, the funding source for other critical infrastructure needs is borne entirely on the backs of Montana taxpayers mostly in the form of property tax, and also utility ratepayers. In both cases, that's you, myself and all other Montanans. Together, we are facing more burden to maintain existing infrastructure, upgrade aging systems, and accommodate new growth. This coupled with extended funding shortfalls, is precisely why later this week, I will be introducing SB 335 to provide an additional mechanism for funding vital infrastructure needs especially in difficult budget cycles like we are faced with currently.

SB 335 provides an innovative tool where others are lacking or falling short by creating a path forward for utilizing private/public partnerships or otherwise known as P3s. P3s are contractual arrangements between public agencies and the private sector to provide infrastructure for the public. Both public and private partners contribute financially and share in the risk and reward. The public agency administers and regulates the infrastructure, while the private sector infuses capital and focuses on operational and executive aspects. Again, P3s are just another mechanism, in addition to traditional, fully tax payer funded, sources of revenue for all types of engineered building projects, for the benefit of the public.

This partnership drives innovation because agencies can present a problem to the competitive business community and ask for creative solutions rather than specifying the "best" solution up front.

Thirty two states have some form of public-private partnerships in place. In most every case, the private sector is responsible for the project design and construction while the public sector maintains its traditional role of identifying the infrastructure need, arranging the financing terms, and owning, operating and maintaining the final asset after construction is complete.

We need not delay infrastructure investment. Montana should engage private sector partners to bring new investment and innovation into the public infrastructure arena. Public private partnerships mean innovation, cost savings, while creating more immediate solutions.

Conservation Tidbit- Floodplains

Beaverhead Conservation District Tidbit

March 21, 2017

Beaverhead Conservation District is a political subdivision created by the Montana Legislature in 1950 to help carry out locally led conservation initiatives throughout Beaverhead County. We will be writing tidbits for the local newspaper regarding conservation initiatives every other week.

As the weather warms and our minds turn to spring, we also find snow melting, water rushing, and occasionally flooding. Flooding is on some level an annual event and floodplains are an important piece of the picture. What exactly are they? How do they work? Why do they matter?

Floodplains are low-lying areas next to rivers and streams. During periods of heavy rain or snowmelt, rivers and streams rise and spread across their floodplains, which then take in the excess water. In many areas developed for agriculture, urban use, or transportation infrastructure floodplains have been eliminated or vastly reduced. This can be problematic because without a floodplain, high water in streams has nowhere to go which may cause flooding. Reconnecting floodplains can be a low cost and effective way to reduce flooding, and the benefits don't end there! Floodplains also help support productive fisheries, recharge groundwater, take up nutrients that can cause harmful algae blooms or "dead zones" and provide important habitat for birds and other wildlife. In addition a functioning floodplain system increases groundwater holding capacity by essentially slowing the water down and recharging aquifers, which in turn makes areas more resilient to drought.

Bottom line, floodplains are important! As we consider ways to better manage our natural resources reconnecting and rejuvenating floodplains is one tool that provides vast benefits to people, wildlife, and ecosystems as a whole. If you would like to learn more, contact your local conservation district office.

The monthly district meeting is held the third Thursday of each month at 6:00 pm in the USDA conference room. If you have questions or would like more information contact Jamie Cottom at the Beaverhead Conservation District, 683-3802 or beaverheadcd@gmail.com.

CATS AND KITTENS

Can you imagine nearly 200 cats and kittens in one place. Well, you don't have to. Just stop by the Beaverhead Animal Shelter and you can see for yourself. These cats are bored. They need a job. They are good at being a companion or can keep your garage/barn/office free of mice. They are social and are willing to live inside with you or outside as long as they have some food/water and protection. If you want long hair, or short hair, they are there. Any color you might like. They have all been spayed/neutered and are up to date on shots. Right now they are have a special adoption fee of $25. Yep, just $25. The medical care alone has been more than that. Stop by and take home one or two or three. It will be a worthwhile investment.

PASS YOUR STASH

It is that time again. We are having the pass your stash sale to benefit the humane society. If you have any fabric or craft supplies hanging out that you would like to donate please drop them at the quilt store. We ask that you bring only stuff that you would purchase yourself. Good quality, not stained or junk. Items can be dropped off at the quilt store.

The sale will be May 20th at the 4 H building. All proceeds from this sale go to the Beaverhead animal shelter. Sale sponsored by The No.1 Ladies Quilt Shop.

For more information you can contact the quilt store at 683-5884 or Susy at the Humane society, 683-8119.
