REGISTER FOR MENTAL HEALTH FIRST AID TRAINING * MAY 16-17

Registration for the "Mental Health First Aid" training ends May 8th. Call the Women's Resource/Community Support Center at 683-6106 or email Melainya@cscfswmt.org. The eight hour training, divided into two four-hour sessions on May 16 & 17th and will be in the Swysgood Great Room on the University of Montana Western campus. Bold Predictions For Mother's Day 2037

Tyrades! by Danny Tyree

Whether it's a matter of hardwired instincts or dutifully handed-down rituals, we can all nod our heads and acknowledge that there are certain statements or behaviors that are typical of almost all mothers.

Even in another 20 years, Mother's Day will still bring to mind universally recognized traditions. But technology, economic conditions and social mores will bring subtle variations in the way mothers express themselves.

Some mothers will take disciplinary matters into their own hands, but others will continue to punt to their husbands. ("You're really in trouble, young man. Just wait until your father reconnects to the Matrix!")

Sometimes authorities even more fearsome than Dad will be invoked. ("As long as you're living under MY roof, you'll obey the rules of the One World globalist government.")

Children's caterwauling expressions of fear, anger and disappointment may be dealt with a little differently in the geopolitical world of 2037. ("Stop your crying right now or I'll GIVE you something to catch your tears in so we can re-process them and maybe survive this water crisis.")

As consumers continue to copy the daring fashions of Golden Globe nominees, it will be reflected in parent-child confrontations. ("You're not leaving this house wearing THAT, young lady. I need it to tie up the sandwich bread bag.")

Moms will still be proud of their offspring, but regulatory overkill will make it harder to show it. ("I'd love to put your crayon drawing on the refrigerator door, but the mandatory government sugar and sodium warnings take up all the room.")

Advances in cosmetology may also change the nature of keepsakes. ("No, I didn't have your baby shoes bronzed, but I did have my stretch marks bronzed...")

Moms will still embarrass their kids in front of their friends. ("You're going to see 'Fast & Furious 24'? Is that about David's first two dozen diapers?")

Piles of dirty laundry and dirty dishes will still be something for mothers to deal with. ("Clean your room! This place looks like a plant-based, laboratory-grown meat substitute lives here!")

Issues of an aging population will not go away. ("You're the oldest and should know better ---- and should also appear before the Death Panel first and make room for the younger ones.")

Elon Musk and other space-travel proponents will give little white lies a fresh twist. ("You can't find Spot the dog? Oh, he has just gone to Mars to frolic. Rabies and tire tread marks are actually an advantage up there...")

Science will also render some parental concerns less monumental. ("Don't put that in your mouth! You don't know WHERE it has been! What? Thanks to Google Earth and geocaching apps you DO know where it has been? Carry on.")

Mothers will continue to lose sleep over the well-being of their traveling kids; but if the current trend toward mayhem continues, stereotypical phrases will take on a more macabre tone. ("Be sure to suicide-bomb as soon as you get there. Just so I'll know you arrived safely.")

Yes, two decades from now, mothers will still say puzzling, hypocritical and aggravating things. They will also still love us and will still utter sweet observations like, "Remember, you'll always be my baby. Or the clone of my baby. Or the brain of my baby's clone transferred into an immortal robot body. Or something like that. Somebody kiss my brain and make it feel better!"

Do You Know the Truth... What the Bible states about when life begins (part 1)

---We believe the following: (1) the Bible was given by the inspiration of God as stated in 2 Timothy 3:16-17; (2) all statements made in this and any ensuing articles will be based on what the Bible says; (3) the Bible only is the reliable source of spiritual & doctrinal truth; (4) all beliefs in conflict with Biblical teachings are false.---

The stage in which a child becomes a human being has been a topic of debate for several decades. Since the Bible was inspired by God it is the only book that can be considered the ultimate authority regarding this subject. According to scriptures there is no stage in the development of an unborn baby in which it is only a collection of organs and not a human being. We are humans from the point of conception.

In the following quote from Psalms 139:13-16 definitions of some old English phrases or words are in parenthesis.

Vs. 13, "For thou hast possessed (created or originated) my reins (essential organs; also figuratively for the mind); thou hast covered (hedged, joined together) me in my mother's womb."

Vs. 14, "I will praise thee; for I am fearfully (reverently) and wonderfully (distinctly, set apart) made: marvelous are thy works; and that my soul knows right well."

Vs. 15, "My substance (bones, body) was not hid from thee, when I was made (fashioned, produced) in secret, and curiously wrought (literally to skillfully weave; analogous of God forming the body) in the lowest parts (figurative for the womb) of the earth."

Vs. 16, "Thine eyes did see my substance (a wrapped, unformed mass, as the embryo), yet being unperfect (undeveloped matter), and in thy book all my members were written (recorded, on record), which in continuance (continually) were fashioned (formed, molded as a potter the clay), when as yet there was none of them."

Jeremiah 1:5 reveals that God knows us before we are born, "Before I formed you in the belly I knew you; and before you came forth out of the womb I sanctified you, and I ordained you a prophet to the nations."

Conclusion: A baby is a person from the point of conception.
