Bike Stunts: Are They Safe For Your Teen?

Tyrades! by Danny Tyree

Even before I read the May 4 Wall Street Journal, I knew a little something about adventurous bicycle-related activities.

When I was a teenager, a neighbor kid (one of my brother's classmates) rode over to the house for a visit. Before saying goodbye, he confided that he had always wondered what it would feel like to ride with a flat tire; so he plunged his pocket knife into his tires and went THUMP THUMP THUMP back home.

(Thankfully, the school librarian kept his curiosity away from books about pirate eye patches, blimps and eunuchs.)

Back to the Journal: the aforementioned article says that after decades of U.S. decline for bike riding in general, a specific kind of BMX (bicycle motocross) riding is catching fire with children, teens and young adults.

In a style many call "bikelife," participants pop wheelies, perform other daring stunts and ride in and sometimes against traffic, usually without a helmet.

Bikelife originated with inner-city youths, but it is spreading to other parts of the country. Many upscale neighborhoods now offer "valet knee-scraping" and rural enthusiasts utter things like, "The videos make it look so easy to run into a guardrail, but I can't even hit a dadgum possum."

I miss the simpler "Leave It To Beaver" era when a kid could be cool just by putting a baseball card in his bike spokes. Social media have escalated things to the point that a rider might try to top everyone else by strapping Alex Rodriguez to the spokes.

Even the most experienced stunt riders can suffer bruises, scrapes and broken bones. The BIGGEST threat is to their eyelid muscles, as they issue disclaimers in their videos. ("Do as I say and not as I do. Wink, wink.")

I must admit that my opinions are skewed by sour grapes. Side effects from chickenpox messed up my sense of balance during my formative years, so I never really became proficient at riding a bike.

That said, I'll make an effort to emphasize the positive side of bikelife.

Friends and acquaintances embarking on a group bikelife excursion can make memories that will last a lifetime ---- or at least until one concussion too many comes along. ("Did we really ride to the south side of Philly? I could have sworn it was Oz...and Lance Armstrong was a winged monkey.")

Riding in groups can help riders become braver, more outgoing and more confident.("I am CONFIDENT that I can sign all these ER forms by myself!")

More travel by bike helps the environment. I just hope that in reducing their carbon footprint, riders don't start leaving a carbon FACEPRINT.

Savvy riders can monetize their hobby by soliciting SPONSORSHIPS. (Yes, companies actually promote open-minded ways of using relatively boring products. ("Say, I'd love to sink half our PR budget into tutorials of that guy using a hair dryer in the swimming pool.")

Schools have slashed Physical Education time and video games are a temptation, so biking is a good way to let youngsters get some fresh air and exercise. Kids have always thought the world revolved around them; but now it's true, because of the couch potatoes' GRAVITATIONAL PULL.

Parents, trust but verify if your children express an interest in bikelife activities. I recommend...wait, here comes ol' "Lefty" riding up to reminisce about what the neighborhood was like in the 70s...

QUILT SHOW

First annual quilt show hosted by The No. 1 Ladies Quilt Shop and friends. It will take place the Thursday, Friday and Saturday of labor day weekend (August 31, and September, 1 and 2). We are looking for local businesses that would be willing to have quilts on display in their business, and then we are looking for quilters who are willing to have their quilts on display. Quilts can be antique, previously made or new for the show. We will also accept table runners and wall hangings. There will be no charge for the quilt show and we are not going to judge quilts. This is just going to be a "show and tell" quilt show. If you have a quilt you want to show and would like to sell it you can add a for sale sign. Businesses and quilt owners will work together on how best to display your quilt. We thought this would be a wonderful way to show quilts and include businesses around town. For more information please contact the quilt store. 683-5884. Thank you! Veva and friends

Public Meeting Scheduled to Discuss Project in the Boulder River area

The Beaverhead-Deerlodge National Forest is hosting a public meeting on Thursday, May 18, from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. to discuss the Red Rocks Forest Health project being developed by the Butte-Jefferson Ranger District in the Boulder River area. The meeting is being held in Boulder at the Jefferson County/Boulder Fairgrounds (located off Hwy 69, ½ mile south of Boulder) in the Volunteer Hall. The public meeting will be followed by a field trip to the project area on Friday, May 19. Those interested in participating in the field trip should meet at the I-15 Bernice exit (Exit #151) on the north side of the interstate at 8:45 a.m. The field trip will conclude around 1 p.m.

The Red Rocks project occurs in an insect and disease area designated under the Healthy Forest Restoration Act (HFRA). Objectives of this project include reducing the risk or extent of, or increasing resilience to, insect and disease infestations and mitigating hazardous fuels. Watershed and habitat improvement opportunities are currently being explored and will also be discussed during the collaborative process used to develop this project. The objectives of this meeting are to provide interested individuals information regarding preliminary treatment opportunities and to seek feedback.

For more information about the project, contact Tera Little, Project Team Leader, at teralittle@fs.fed.us or (406) 758-5357. Information about the project will be posted online at: https://www.fs.usda.gov/projects/bdnf/landmanagement/projects (scroll down and click on Red Rocks Forest Health).

Citizens United Supreme Court Decision is destroying our Democracy

The Citizens United Supreme Court Decision is destroying our great Democracy. This US Supreme Court decision make it legal for corporations, unions, super packs, billionaires to spend as much money as they want to buy elections. How could the conservative justices do this? They had to know it would destroy our democracy! This has made dirty politics a lucrative business! We need to elect candidates that pledge to overturn this. This is the greatest threat to our great Democracy.
