Credit-Card Debt Explained

By Tom Purcell

America's credit-card debt has surpassed the $1 trillion mark. A 20-something fellow I know helped me understand why.

"It all began in college when a credit-card company offered me a free credit card," he said.

"OK."

"Well, shortly after I got the card, my transmission blew up, and I didn't have the money to pay for it. So I charged it."

"That's an unpleasant thought."

"Yeah," said the fellow. "I maxed out my credit limit on my first purchase, but that wasn't a problem because the credit-car company doubled my limit!"

"How kind of them," I said.

"Then Christmas came along, and I used my card to get my girlfriend a diamond necklace."

"How'd that work out?"

"She left me for a guy with a bigger credit limit! I went to the nearest bar to drown my sorrows. I bought rounds for everyone."

"How did you afford that?"

"Fortunately, I'd gotten several other credit cards in the mail."

"More cards?" I said.

"Yeah, I got one credit card from my college, one from an airline, one from the computer store ..."

"You bought a computer?"

"You don't expect me keep track of all my debt without a computer, do you? I also got a credit card from the hardware store."

"What did you use that for?" I said.

"I remodeled the kitchen, bathroom, family room and living room."

"I didn't know you owned a house," I said.

"Who said I owned a house? Well, the cards kept rolling in. I purchased clothing, gas for my car, food at the grocery store and even fast food."

"And now you're in some very serious debt," I said. "I hope you're earning enough at your job so you can pay back all your creditors."

"Who said I had a job?"

"If you have no job, how have you been making the monthly debt payments?" I said.

"Payments? What payments?" said the fellow.

"But of course," I said. "Your story offers some insight into why so many Americans are carrying so much credit-card debt. It explains why total household debt, including mortgages, student-loan balances, credit cards and car loans, has reached a record $12.73 trillion."

"Hey, it's not all my fault. The credit-card companies are tripping over themselves to give me credit!"

"That is true," I said. "The high interest rates on credit cards can generate handsome profits for banks. They continue to send out millions of solicitations to sign up new customers."

And though delinquencies are beginning to tick up, they still remain near historical lows. That is according to the American Bankers Association's Consumer Credit Delinquency Bulletin."

"You worry too much," said the fellow.
"Perhaps. Some debt is a good thing. It allows us to buy reliable new cars and houses. But too much debt is a very bad thing. CNBC reports that the cost of living over the past decade has increased faster than household incomes. More Americans are 'bridging the gap' by borrowing against their credit cards."

"What's the big deal?" he said.
"The big deal is that they may eventually reach a point of indebtedness at which they cannot repay what they owe. That will not only destroy their credit, but, if enough Americans default, it could do considerable damage to the economy."

"So what do you recommend?"
"I recommend that you stop spending money you don't have and figure out a way to pay off your debt," I said.
"Great idea," said the fellow. "Know where I can borrow the money to do that?"
"Oh, brother."

Zoning Committee July 11, 2017

By: MJ

Committeeman Nye and Gary brought up the issue of the old Williams Feed building having problems and in need of something to be done. The committee discussed a standing ordinance that would made the owners improve the area. Committee felt it was a public safety problem and fire hazard Director of Operations said that he would contact the out of state owners of building. The committee will wait to receive feedback from the owners.

ruling by the city on the tower had been over a year. Committeeman Stoker commented that he received complaints about services. He stated Verizon is trying to take a facility that will improve the service in the area. He said he had went down in the Blackfoot area and there were cell towers everywhere. Committeeman Garry stated he did not think coverage would help due to low energy. Ed Mooney stated that you don't notice towers when you are on phone and the delay was because of waiting to get a handle on what alternatives there were. It would have been nice to see alternatives and other feasible options. NOTE: Paul Slotemaker, Verizon Rep. made it clear that do to the footprint they do not want to move the location of the tower. He indicated that there will be multiple towers as the demand grows for the service. Committeeman Stoker confirmed this as he had traveled to the Blackfoot area and reported there were cell towers everywhere to provide coverage for the supply and demand in the area. Chairman Graham showed a picture of an example of a tower at the back of Kohl's in Bozeman, MT.

Building Certificates: 4 permits were presented to the committee and all four (4) were approved. One of the applicants had to change his design to get it approved due to several folks' interpretation of word "driveway." The contractor presented two different designs hoping to give the public an opportunity to choose a different style home. The word "DRIVEWAY" became a major problem and developer was not allowed to offer the option. Both of the designs fit on the lot, complied with the setbacks and all other requirement of zoning code.

There will be a public hearing August 8th, 2017 at 6:30 in City Hall on changes to zoning statues of the Central Business District.

A few years back when I was an active participant in the Centennial Committee that was active in several downtown improvement projects. One of the projects was building a Hobby Railroad Museum in Dillon at the end of Montana Street. The Mt. State University engineering department worked with this group and developed the plan for project. The students spent time in Dillon taking pictures, identifying parking areas, outlining covered board walks, landscaping and much more. The presentation identified ugly overhead powerlines throughout the downtown area. Powerlines we never see yet are a necessity for the community. Is a tower an object we will never see yet is a necessity for the community to move forward? Is the committee making much to do over nothing and ultimately stopping progress for local and future businesses?

Wild Things Unlimited is looking for volunteers to help in the field collecting bear hair samples as part of the "Grizzly Bear Surveys in the Centennial and Snowcrest Ranges." There will be a two part training session at the Patagonia Outlet on Friday July 21st from 6:30 pm to 7:30 pm and then will continue the training out in the field on Saturday the 22nd. Please join us if you are interested. This training is free and open to anyone who likes to hike and wants to contribute to this project.

NEW CANISTER SITE

The new canister site is finished and is open during regular dump hours! If you are taking a load of household trash to the landfill, please follow the signs and use the canisters.
We would like to keep the public and our operators safe by keeping people out of the pit whenever possible. If you are dumping yard debris, please continue toward the pit and put it in the yard waste pile. There are also marked canisters for electronics and metal recycling at the new site, please sort your trash accordingly. As always, if you have any questions please call the Solid Waste office at 683-3753.

Forest Service to Hold Open House Meetings

The Beaverhead-Deerlodge National Forest is hosting a series of public meetings to discuss the Pintler Face Project proposed by the Wisdom Ranger District, Wise River office, located approximately 10 miles northwest of Wise River. The objectives of these public meetings are to provide interested individuals information regarding treatment opportunities and to seek feedback. These meetings will be held:

July 27: Hearst Free Library 6 to 8 p.m.
401 Main Street, Anaconda
August 1: Wisdom Community Center 7 to 9 p.m.
August 3: Wise River Community Center 7 to 9 p.m.
August 8: MT DNRC office 7 to 9 p.m.
860 North Montana Avenue, Dillon
August 10: Butte Ranger District office 7 to 9 p.m.
1820 Meadowlark Lane, Butte

The 74,000 acre project proposes to integrate numerous restoration actions to be implemented on a variety of vegetation and habitat types.

These actions include: harvesting of lodgepole pine trees nearing the end of their natural life cycle and infested with mountain pine; reduction of stand densities in Douglas fir to promote large tree development, landscape mosaic, tree species diversity, and resiliency to insects and disease; pre-commercial thinning of lodgepole pine to increase growth and improve resiliency by reducing stand density and competition for limited resources such as water; removal of conifers in aspen stands to increase vigor of riparian-associated vegetation including aspen; removal of conifers in sagebrush parks and grasslands with chainsaws and prescribed fire to assist in preventing conversion of sagebrush steppe lands to homogenous forested vegetation; and, travel management which would include changes to route season of use, mode of travel, decommissioning, additions to the transportation system, and loop opportunity creation to reduce open motorized road and trail density to meet Forest Plan Goals.

For more information about the project or the open house meetings, contact Pam Fletcher, Project Team Leader, at pamfletcher@fs.fed.us or (406) 494-0231. Information about the project is posted online at: <https://www.fs.usda.gov/project/?project=49404>

PUBLIC NOTICE

The new canister site is finished and is open during regular dump hours! If you are taking a load of household trash to the landfill, please follow the signs and use the canisters. We would like to keep the public and our operators safe by keeping people out of the pit whenever possible. If you are dumping yard debris, please continue toward the pit and put it in the yard waste pile. There are also marked canisters for electronics and metal recycling at the new site, please sort your trash accordingly. As always, if you have any questions please call the Solid Waste office at 683-3753.

Thanks,

Beaverhead County Solid Waste
