FWP continues monitoring effort on Yellowstone, no restrictions or closures planned

Monitoring floats on the Yellowstone River in the Paradise Valley on Thursday turned up 19 more dead mountain whitefish.

Additionally, Montana Fish, Wildlife and Parks' crews discovered 1 moribund fish, which are live fish close to death. Moribund fish are important for histology testing to determine the cause of mortality.

Thursday's monitoring floats follow similar efforts Monday and Tuesday on the Yellowstone between Livingston and Springdale. These floats turned up 76 dead whitefish, two dead suckers and one dead brown trout.

Official test results won't be available until next week at the earliest and biologists don't have enough information yet to determine the cause of these localized and limited fish kills.

"We're still collecting information at this point," said Travis Horton, Region 3 fisheries manager. "We aren't currently considering any closures or restrictions. However, we ask that anglers not target mountain whitefish."

On Friday, FWP crews are planning to again search the stretch between Livingston and Springdale where they've found the bulk of the dead fish.

Thursday's monitoring float focused on the stretch of Yellowstone from Grey Owl Fishing Access Site to Pine Creek. This stretch was hardest hit last summer by proliferative kidney disease, or PKD. In 2016, upwards of 1,900 dead mountain whitefish were found on one bank of the river.

PKD is caused by a microscopic parasite that exists in the river year-round. Though the reason the parasite will suddenly cause PKD is unknown, high water temperatures, low flows and general fish stress can be factors.

Last summer the PKD outbreak on the upper Yellowstone River led to an emergency closure by FWP and the death of thousands of mountain whitefish, which are native to the river. Historically low flows in the river coupled with high water temperatures last summer helped to exacerbate the impacts of PKD on whitefish.

Conditions this year are much different – water temperatures have remained cooler and flows are above average. In addition, the time of year is later with longer, cooler nights. These environmental differences could result in a much different scenario and outcome compared to last year's fish kill.

Dillon's Certified Lactation Consultants (CLC)

Breastfeeding is an important public health issue. The art and science of breastfeeding is a foundation of health that should be widely understood and respected.

Dillon is lucky to have six specially trained nurses. These nurses have been certified as Lactation Consultants. Successful completion of this intensive 40-hour course signifies that the learner has met the required competencies and has a firm grounding in information and counseling skills required to provide basic support to breastfeeding mothers and children. Successful candidates have demonstrated competency in breastfeeding counseling, breastfeeding assessment and support skills. One of the nurses has an advanced certification through the International Board of Certified Lactation Consultants. She is the only person in 200 miles of Dillon that has accomplished this specialty. She has completed an additional 120 hours and 1000 patient hours and passed an international exam. This certification allows her to practice independently.

These nurses are an important link between breastfeeding mothers and their healthcare providers. They can provide one-on-one counseling and follow-up for mothers who need just some extra support or who are having serious problems breastfeeding. It is the goal of CLCs to support the breastfeeding mother to continue breastfeeding as long as possible....at least for the first 6 months.

Breast milk provides the ideal nutrition for infants. It has a nearly perfect mix of vitamins, protein, and fat -- everything a baby needs to grow. And it's all provided in a form more easily digested than infant formula. Breast milk contains antibodies that help your baby fight off viruses and bacteria. Breastfeeding lowers your baby's risk of having asthma or allergies. Plus, babies who are breastfed exclusively for the first 6 months, without any formula, have fewer ear infections, respiratory illnesses, and bouts of diarrhea. They also have fewer hospitalizations and trips to the doctor. Breastfeeding has been linked to higher IQ scores in later childhood in some studies. What's more, the physical closeness, skin-to-skin touching, and eye contact all help babies bond and feel secure. Breastfed infants are more likely to gain the right amount of weight as they grow rather than become overweight children. The AAP says breastfeeding also plays a role in the prevention of SIDS (sudden infant death syndrome). It's been thought to lower the risk of diabetes, obesity, and certain cancers as well, but more research is needed.

There are benefits for breastfeeding moms too. Breastfeeding burns extra calories, so it can help women lose pregnancy weight faster. It releases the hormone oxytocin, which helps the uterus return to its pre-pregnancy size and may reduce uterine bleeding after birth. Breastfeeding also lowers the risk of breast and ovarian cancer and lower the risk of osteoporosis. Since there is no need to buy and measure formula, sterilize nipples, or warm bottles, it also saves time and money.

Free Firewood Available from Meyers Fire

(Corrected 8/24/2017 at 6 pm.)

During the Meyers Fire, firefighters removed several loads of logs and wood along the newly created fuel breaks and firelines. This wood has been hauled to an easily accessible location just off of the Moose Lake Road (5106) approximately 3/10 of a mile south of the intersection of Skalkaho Highway (MT Hwy 38) and the Moose Lake Road (5106).

Firewood gatherers will need to acquire a free use wood permit which is good for up to four cords per person from the Pintler Ranger District office in Philipsburg before gathering wood. Gatherers will not be allowed to use chain saws as the wood has already been cut into chunks measuring from 16" to 4.' Free-use wood may not be resold. Wood gatherers with free use wood permits will be allowed to gather wood daily beginning August 25 from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. until the wood is gone. The wood is located in a large pit in a gated area that will be staffed by fire personnel.

Gatherers are asked to drive carefully and be considerate of other people gathering wood by not blocking roads or access. Please use caution and keep your distance from heavy equipment working in the area. For more information contact the Pintler Ranger District in Philipsburg at (406) 859-3211.

FWP monitoring efforts turn up few additional fish, no restrictions or closures planned

Montana Fish, Wildlife and Parks' biologists doubled their monitoring efforts Friday, using two boats to look for dead or dying fish between Livingston and Springdale.

The results were encouraging. Two boats, one floating each side of the river, collected 48 dead mountain whitefish, one moribund whitefish and one moribund longnose sucker. A moribund fish is a live fish close to death and critical for histology testing to determine the cause of mortality.

On Tuesday, along the same stretch of river, biologists used one boat and counted 52 dead whitefish.

"Though we still don't know if the cause of death is disease related, it seems clear that we're not seeing the same magnitude of fish kill we had last year," said Travis Horton, FWP Region

3 fisheries manager. "We're not considering any closures or restriction, but are asking that anglers not target whitefish for the time being."

Last summer a proliferative kidney disease, or PKD, outbreak on the upper Yellowstone River led to an emergency closure by FWP and the death of thousands of mountain whitefish, which are native to the river.

During daily monitoring floats this past week, FWP biologists have found less than 150 dead whitefish.

PKD is caused by a microscopic parasite. Though the reason the parasite, which exists in the river system year-round, will suddenly begin causing PKD is unknown, high water temperatures, low flows and general fish stress seem to be factors. With cooler water temperatures and higher flows, those conditions aren't present this year.

Biologists will do another monitoring float upstream of Livingston next Tuesday. Test results from the three moribund fish collected this week should be available late next week.

Thank you!

The Women's Resource Center would like to thank our generous community for stepping forward, reaching into your pockets to help us provide top quality services to our neighbors, our friends, and our fellow community members. Your support will go directly to those who need it most. Thank you from the bottom of our hearts! -- Sincerely, the staff of the Women's Resource Center serving Southwest Montana since 1977.

Inquiry Class

Friday Sept. 8 will see the resumption of monthly Inquiry Classes here in Dillon by Fr. Russell Radoicich of Holy Trinity Orthodox Christian Church in Butte. "The Apocalypse" will be discussed in an informal setting on the campus of UofM Western in Room 150 in Main Hall at 5:30 pm. The public, students, believers or non-believers, all are welcome who wish to explore the history and oral traditions of the church founded by the Apostles of Jesus Christ 2000+ years ago. Topics vary each month and there is lots of discussion and questions interspersed with Fr. Russell's lecture of the Orthodox perspective.
