Steven Don Vezina

Steven Don Vezina passed away on August 31, 2017 after battling cancer to a draw. Steve was born on April 25, 1959 in Salmon, Idaho to Alvin and Dorothy Vezina. He moved to Dillon at 8 years of age and graduated from Beaverhead County High School in 1977.

He enrolled at Montana Tech for a year before deciding teaching was his love and transferred to Western Montana College. He played football and ran track and field for the Bulldogs.

As a defensive back, he helped lead the team to a share of the Frontier Conference Championship in 1980.

He began student teaching in Belgrade, MT and upon graduation, he accepted his first teaching and coaching position at Baker, MT in 1982. He coached as an assistant in football and track and field, and won the 1986 State Football Championship, as well as coaching 2 individuals to State Wrestling Championships. In the fall of 1987, he moved to Battle Mountain, Nevada, where he met the love of his life, Pattie and they were married on June 11, 1988.

While teaching, coaching and raising his family, he coached as an assistant for baseball, softball, wrestling and football. After a year as a wrestling assistant, he took over as the head coach and led the Longhorns to 2 team state championships, as well as 12 individuals to state wrestling championships. He also founded their little guy wrestling program, which helped turn Battle Mountain into a perennial power that has since won 14 more team state championships.

In the fall of 1991, Coach Vezina returned to Beaverhead County High School to teach. He began as an assistant coach in football, tennis, wrestling and baseball and later moved from tennis to track and field. He was an assistant for the 1993 Dillon Cubs baseball championship team. As an assistant football coach, Steve was a part of 9 state championship teams. In track and field, he coached 3 individuals to state championships and was a part of the 2016 state track and field boys championship team. In 2017 he retired from teaching and coaching after 35 years.

Steve is survived by his wife, Pattie (Dillon, MT), children Tucker (Dillon, MT), Taylor (Dillon, MT), Torrey (Battle Mountain, NV), and grandson Nicholas. His surviving siblings are Bob and Diane Vezina (Dillon, MT), John and Mandy Love (Libby, MT), and Jeff and Kirsten Love (Dillon, MT). He was preceded in death by his father and mother, Alvin and Dorothy, his mother-in-law, Janet Hayes, and his sister and brother-in-law, Linda and Chuck Hoge.

A memorial service and celebration of his life will be held at Vigilante Stadium in Dillon, MT on Thursday, September 7th at 9 PM, preceded by a tailgate party behind the grandstands at 7 PM. GAMEDAY!!! No surrender.

Archery hunter attacked by grizzly in Gravelly Mountains

An archery hunter survived a grizzly bear attack in the southern Gravelly Mountains Monday morning.

The incident occurred when two archery hunters surprised a grizzly feeding on a carcass. The hunters yelled at the bear which immediately attacked. Both hunters had bear spray, one deployed it while the other did not. The bear went after the hunter who did not use his bear spray.

The hunter with bear spray deployed his can on the bear as it mauled his partner. The bear then retreated. The attacked hunter sustained non-life-threatening injuries to his head, shoulder, arms and thigh. He was treated at the Madison Valley Medical Center in Ennis.

Grizzly bears are common in the Gravelly Mountains, which are part of the Greater Yellowstone Ecosystem.

Archery hunters should take every possible precaution when hunting in bear country. Bear country means anywhere in the western half of the state. All hunters should:

- carry bear spray AND be ready to use it at a second's notice;
- hunt with a partner, leave detailed plans with someone and check-in periodically;

pay attention to fresh bear sign. Look for bear tracks, scat, and concentrations of natural foods; use caution when hunting areas that have evidence of bear activity or areas with scavenging birds such as magpies, ravens, or crows; get harvested big game out of the woods quickly; upon returning to a site where harvested game is left unattended, study the site at a distance for any movement or changes and signal your approach by making plenty of noise; never attempt to frighten or haze a bear from a carcass; contact FWP if a bear has consumed a carcass or covered it with debris rendering it unsalvageable.

Most grizzly bears will typically leave an area if they sense human presence. Hunters who observe a grizzly bear or suspect a bear is nearby should leave the area.

If you encounter a grizzly, stay calm, don't run, and assess the situation by trying to determine if the bear is actually aware of you. Is it, for instance, threatening or fleeing? Always keep the bear in sight as you back away, and leave the area.

For more on bears, visit FWP's website at fwp.mt.gov; then click Be Bear Aware. Bear resistant products are described on the Interagency Grizzly Bear Committee's website at www.igbconline.org. A "How to Hunt Safely in Grizzly Country" brochure is also available at FWP regional offices.

HUNTERS BE CAREFUL!

People are asking about how the dry conditions and fire danger will affect hunting seasons. FWP is not recommending that the Fish and Wildlife Commission close hunting seasons. "Because of widely variable conditions and different types of hunting scenarios across the state, that is a decision rightly left to an individual landowner, a block management cooperator, or a land manager. If a private landowner or a land management agency such as the Forest Service or Bureau of Land Management makes the decision to restrict or postpone hunting or other activity on their property, that is a decision we respect and accept," said FWP Director Martha Williams.

Williams continued, "It is critical to be careful, and be safe. Hunters have to take personal responsibility to prevent wildfires and keep themselves and the property and lives of others safe. In conditions like these, hunters should only drive on pavement or gravel roads." Due to fire danger, currently more than 80 block management areas (BMAs) are restricted or closed at the request of landowners.

FWP asks hunters to be safe by following these fire safety precautions:

- Park your vehicle on bare ground or ground completely void of vegetation.

- Drive only on paved and well graveled roads.

- After you leave an area, wait for few minutes to make sure that a fire has not started where your vehicle was parked.

- Bring along a fire extinguisher or water-filled weed sprayer, shovel or axe.

- Camp only in designated camping areas.

- Smoke only inside buildings or vehicles.

- Check on any fire restrictions in place in the area where you are hunting.

- Consider limiting activity until fire danger lessens.

MORE INFO:

The most current list of closed BMAs can be found on the FWP website at fwp.mt.gov/hunting/hunterAccess/blockman/. Those who do not have access to the internet can check in with their FWP regional office. Closure signs are also posted onsite at BMAs.

For FWP lands, hunters and recreationists should check updates on fire-related restrictions and closures at state parks, fishing access sites or other FWP properties online at fwp.mt.gov/news/restrictions.

In Montana, fire restrictions are often coordinated with land management agencies and the counties. Typically, Montana Fish, Wildlife and Parks follows the lead of the county where its land is located. However, fire restrictions can vary from county to county depending on local conditions. A good online resource is <https://firerestrictions.us/>. You can search for Montana and find the latest restrictions, by county. To go directly to the Montana page, click <https://firerestrictions.us/mt/>.

Being knowledgeable about current restrictions and fire safe behavior will help us all prevent more wildfires. Below are resources for more information on fires and restrictions:

inciweb.nwcg.gov/state/27 is a multiagency website that serves as a clearing house for active fire information across the country. It's easy to search for Montana and see most of the active fires burning in the state. Each fire has its own web page with current information, such as area closure maps, fire activity and any evacuation notices.

Be aware that in many instances fire managers will close the area around the fire to ensure public and fire fighter safety. These local closures could include areas people might want to hunt or camp, so checking in here is a good step in making sure you have the latest information.

Another great resource is the Montana Department of Natural Resources and Conservation's interactive wildland fire map: gis.dnrc.mt.gov/apps/firemap. This interactive mapping tool shows all of the fires burning in the state and gives the user an idea of recent fire activity. Users can select different layers to view various information and for those folks concerned about specific locations, the base layer provide a high-resolution map or aerials of Montana.
